i am...

wouldn't you like to know.

who i am.

more than meets the eye.

not looking for approval.

doing the best i can.

being heard.

I am. It’s a simple statement; two syllables, two words. In that aspect it’s deceiving, it fools us into believeing it’s merely a sentence, a string of letters, carelessly chosen, and laced with indifference. The power of those two short, sweet little words, however, is unparalleled. The ability to declare, with confidence, who we are, according to our own standards, is no small feat, as high school students; we know this to be especially true. Kurt Cobain once said, “I’d rather be hated for who I am, than loved for who I am not.”It’s a common idea, one that always seems to be plastered on billboards and thrown into self-help books. Grasping that notion, though, truly being who we are regardless of what the world has to say about it seems nearly impossible. Over the course of the last four years we’ve all had that moment, that fleeting instant when we realize we’re totally lost. Lost in the hype of the ‘in crowd’ or the oppression of some label we don’t deserve. Well this book, this year, was about changing that. It offered us the opportunity to speak out against our labels, our cliques and our reputations, it offered us the chance to be heard. Now, we want to know....

who are you?

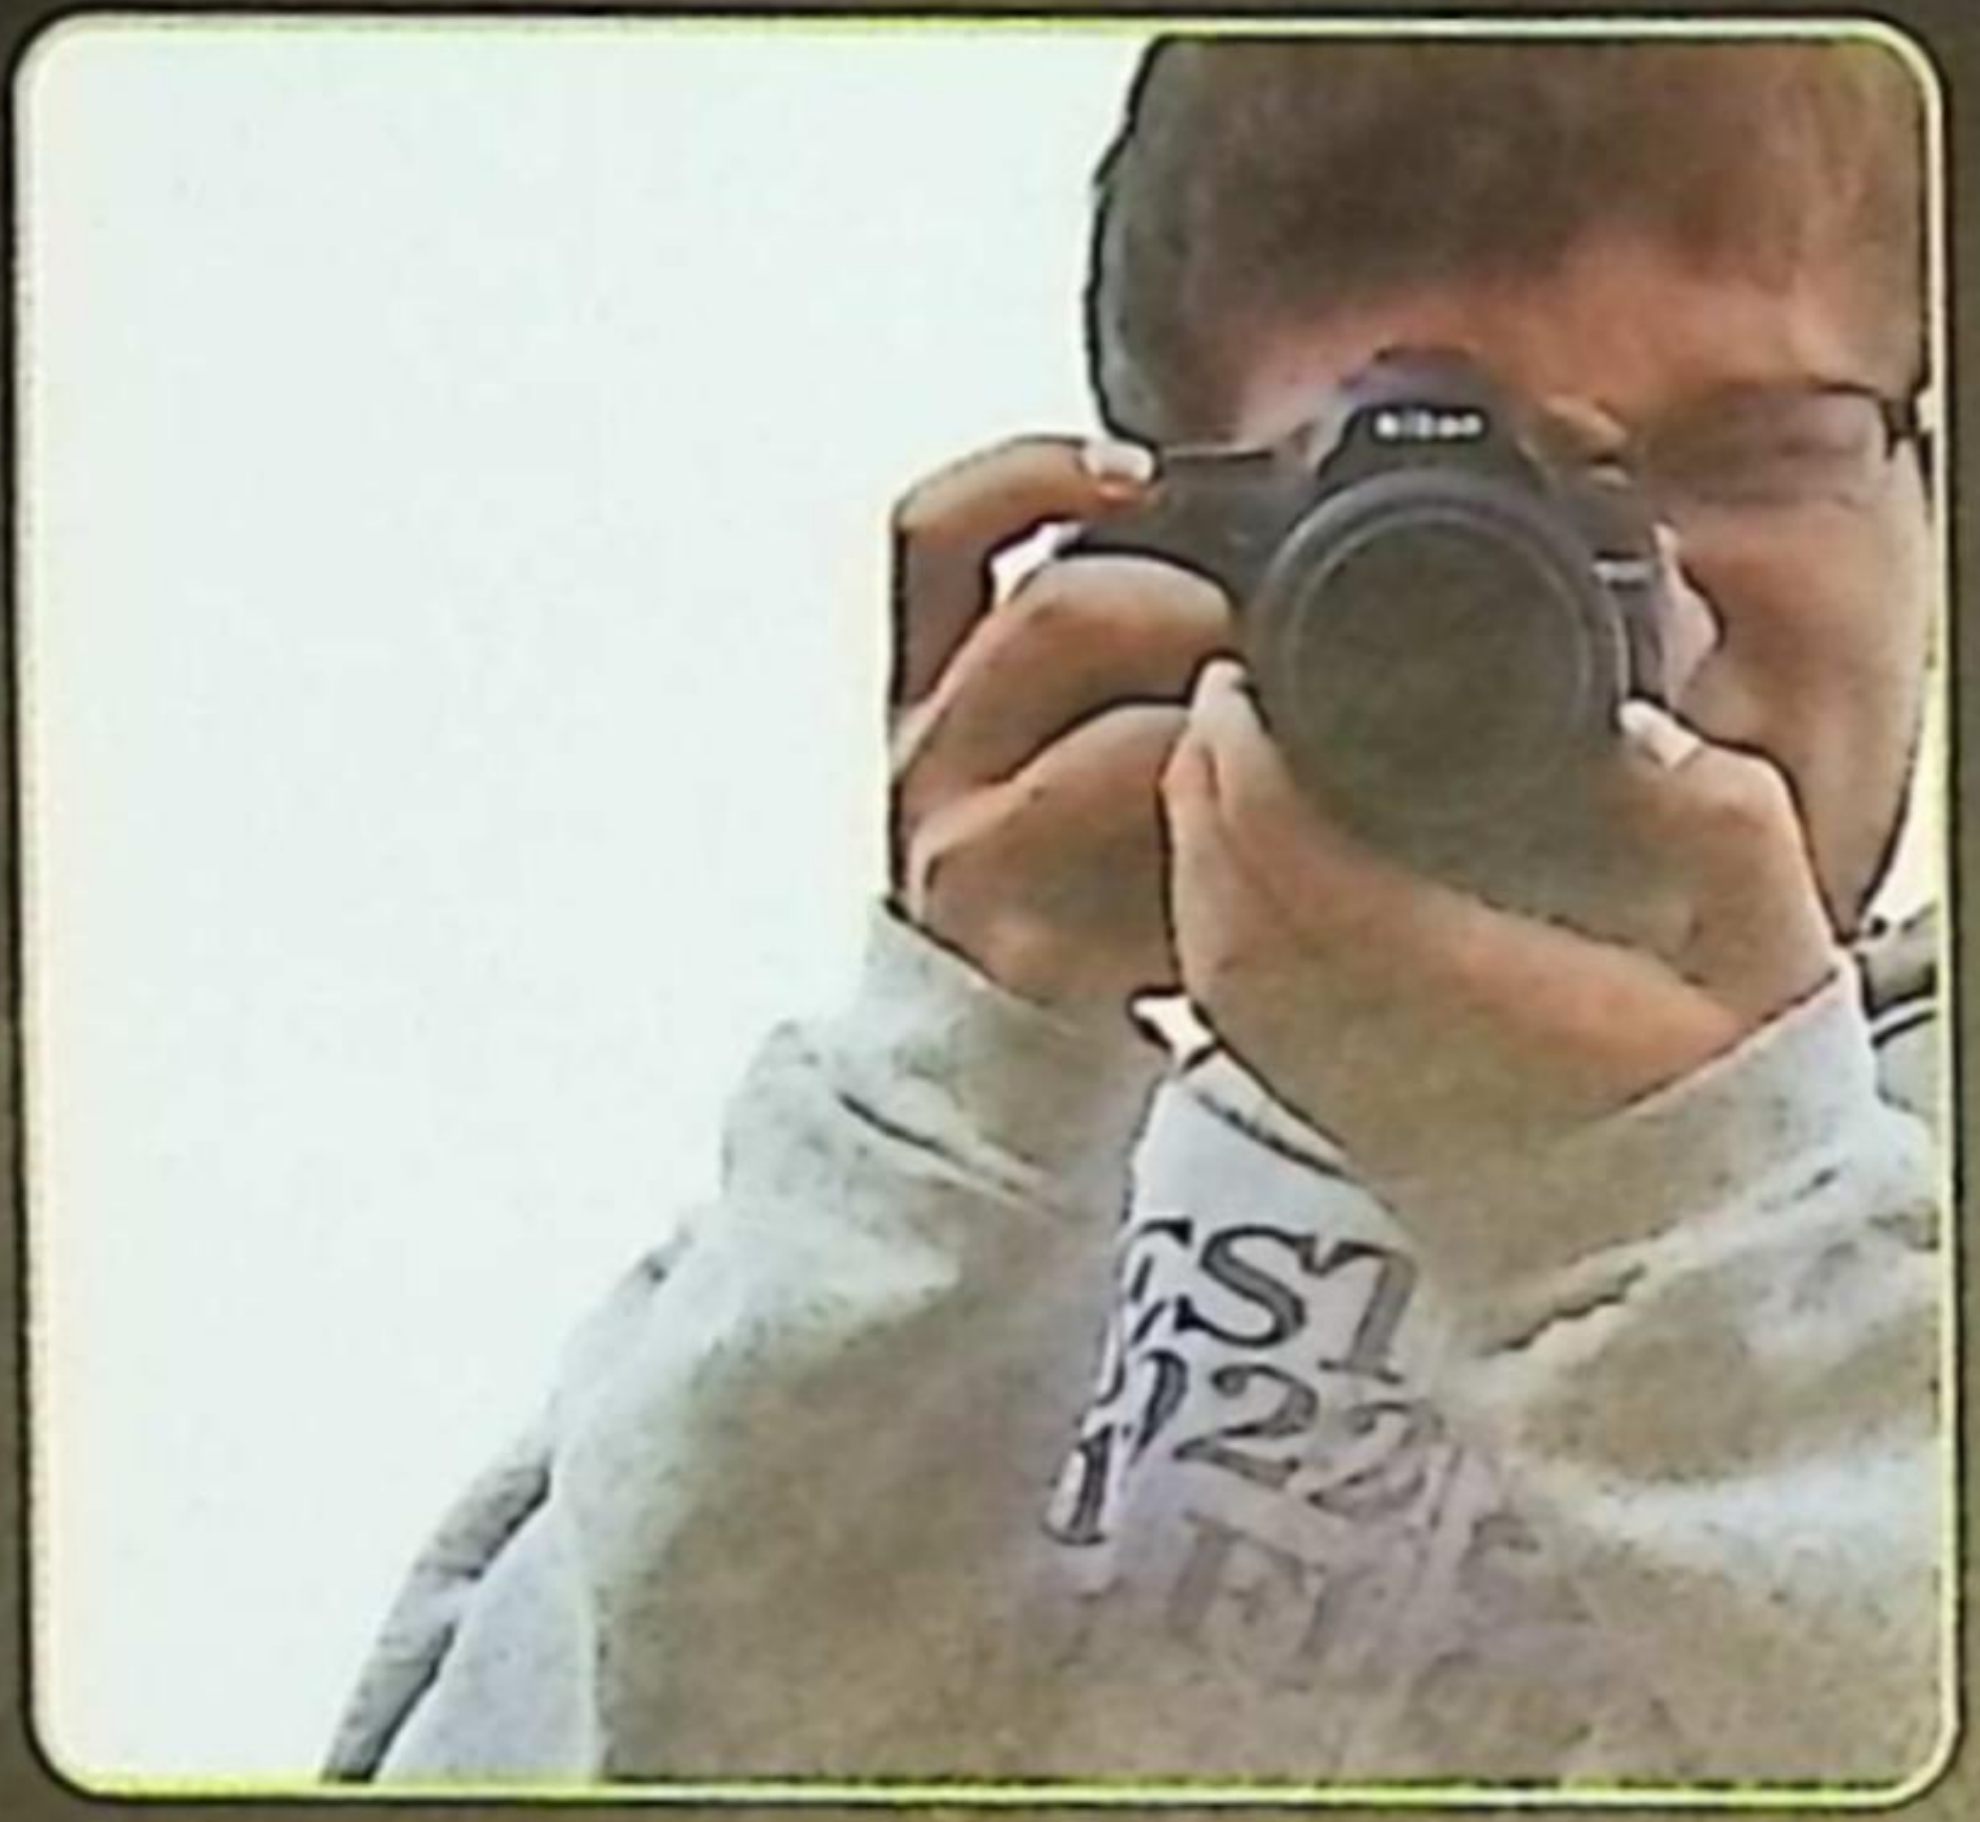
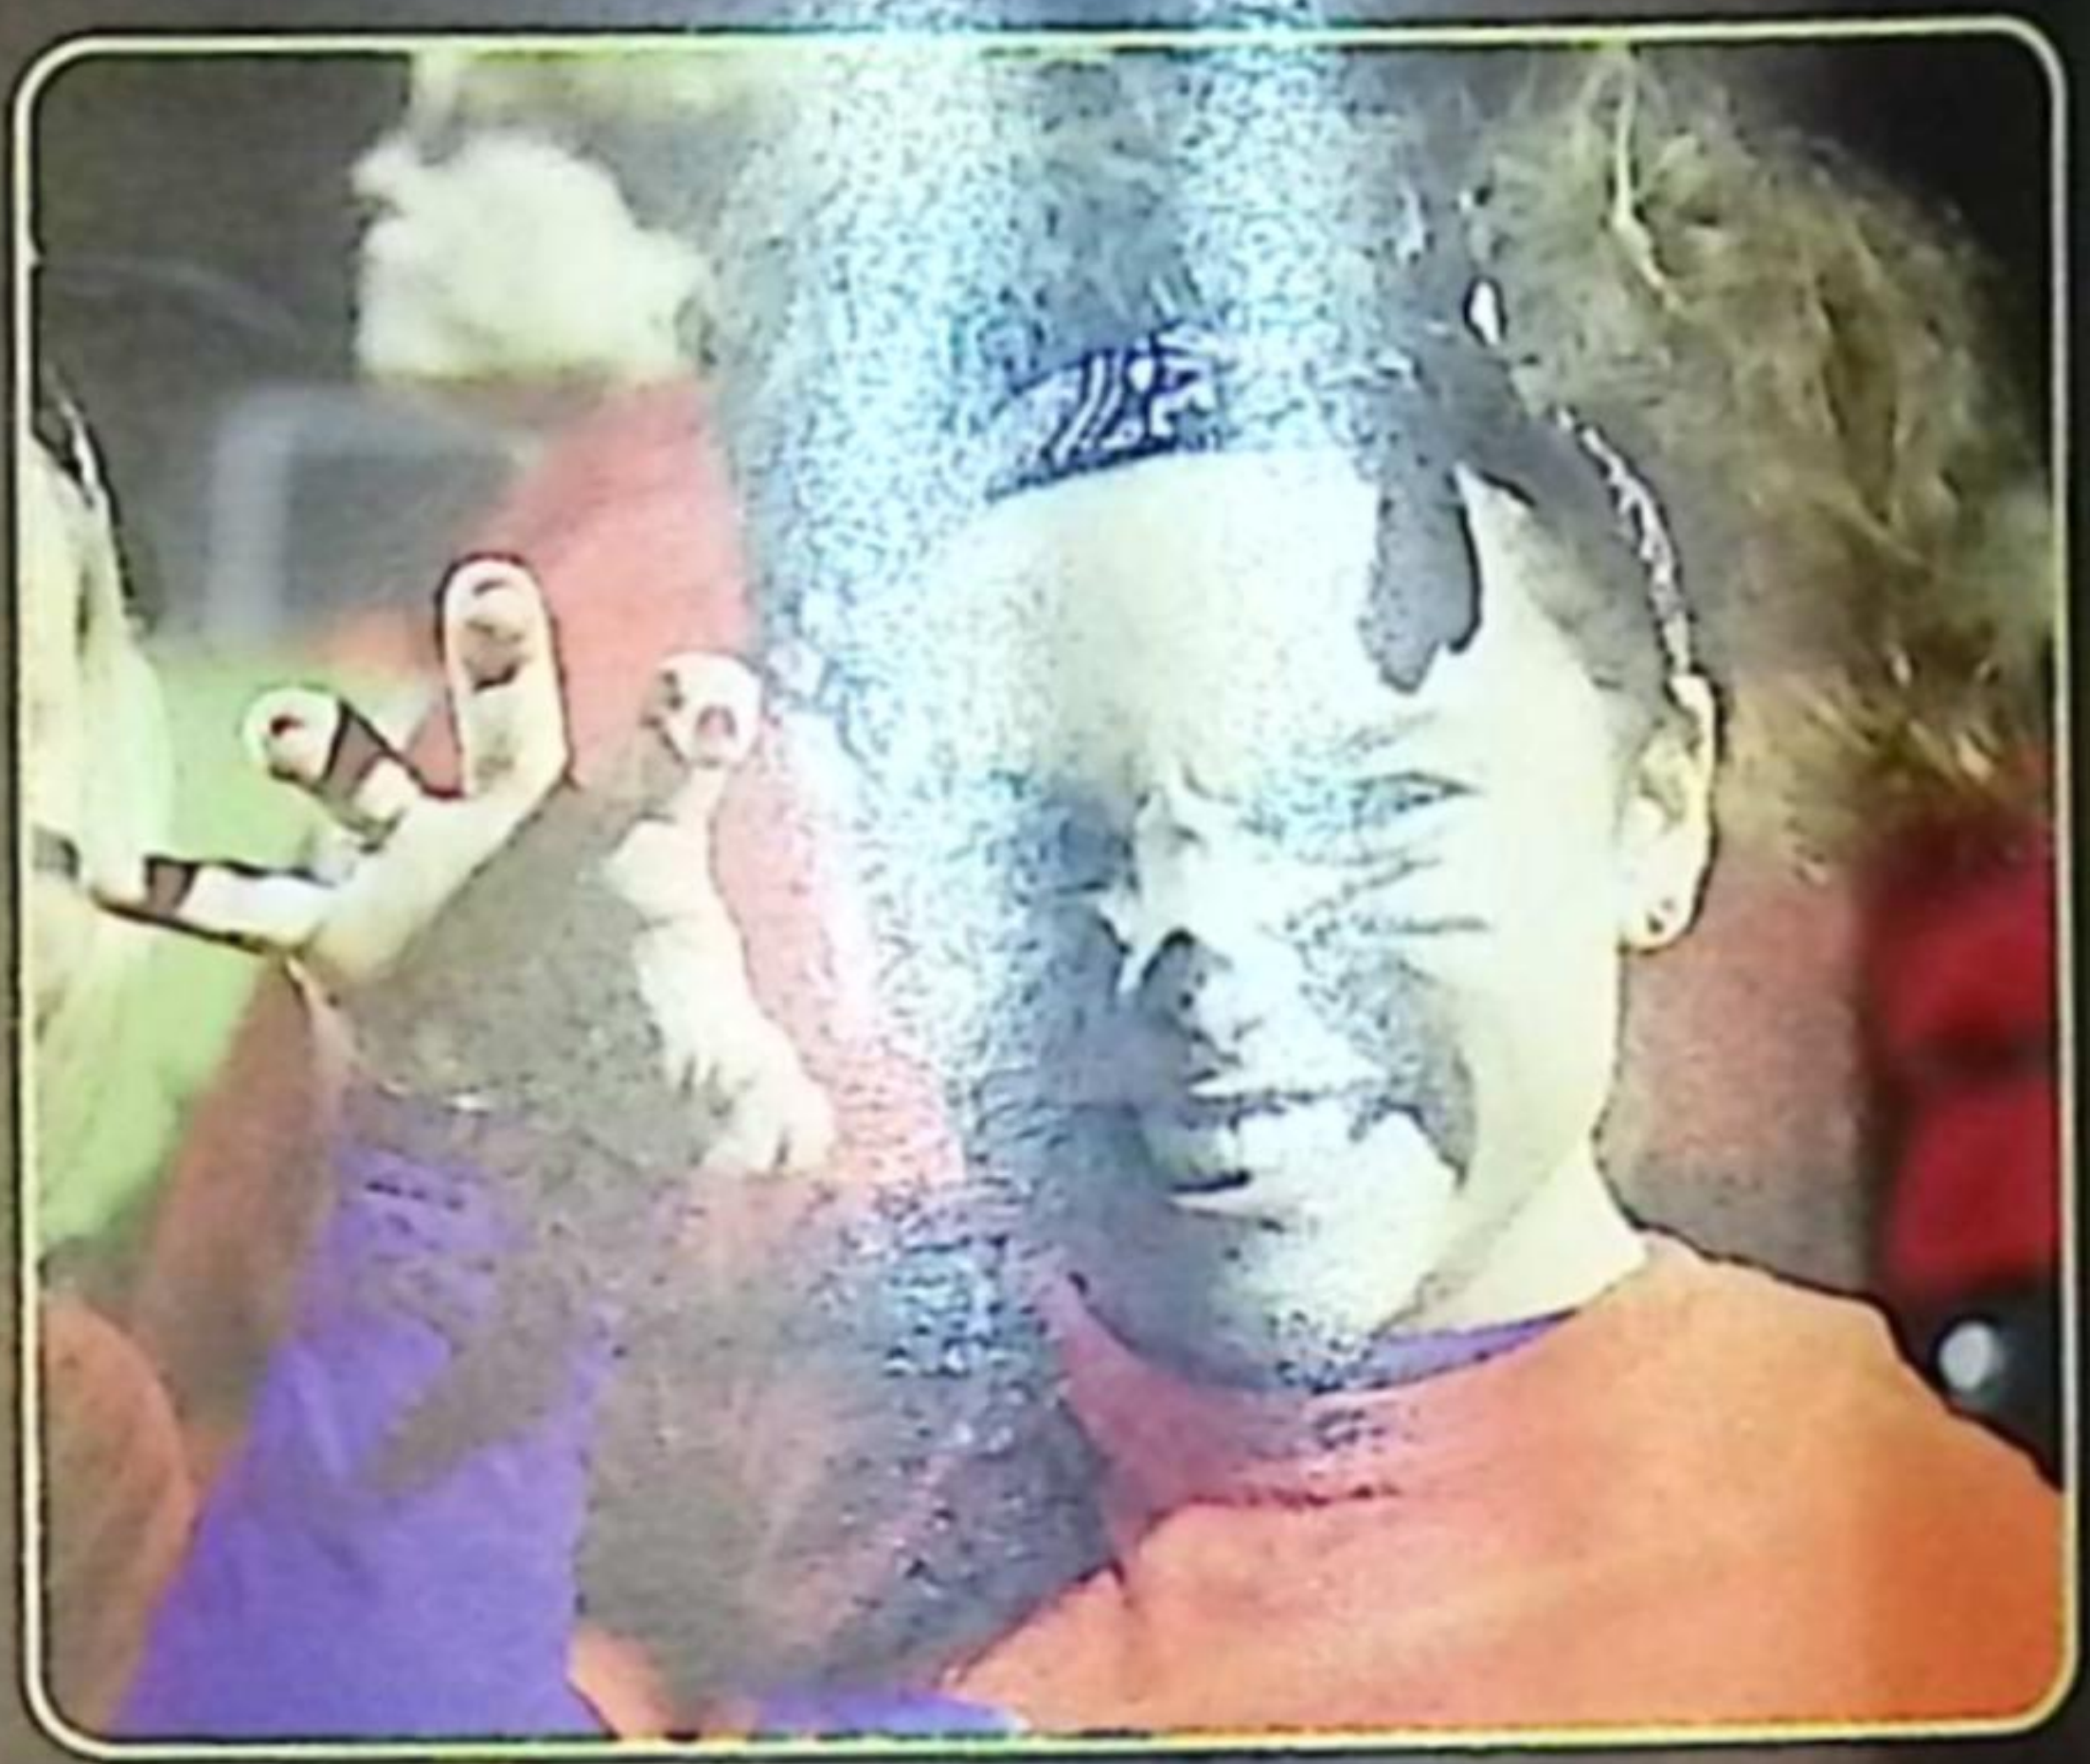
senior division





The class of 2011 has been making their mark on SCHS from the very first year they entered. As freshmen, 52 of these students were involved in varsity sports, an all time high for St. Clair High School. Just a short two years later, this class of talented individuals scored higher on the ACTs than any other class in district history. As seniors, this class started out the year with a big bang by littering the Pit with an abundance of pumpkins as a clever, yet harmless, prank. Although the class of 2011 may not be finished yet, one thing's for sure: these future alumni are making the most of their high school experience.

"I am looking for all the answers." - Kaitlynn Rumsey "I am so ready for life beyond high school." - Amanda Lacroix "I am still trying to find the person that i have yet to be." - Cheyanna Labelle "I am ready for something bigger than this." - Jamie McClure moving up.

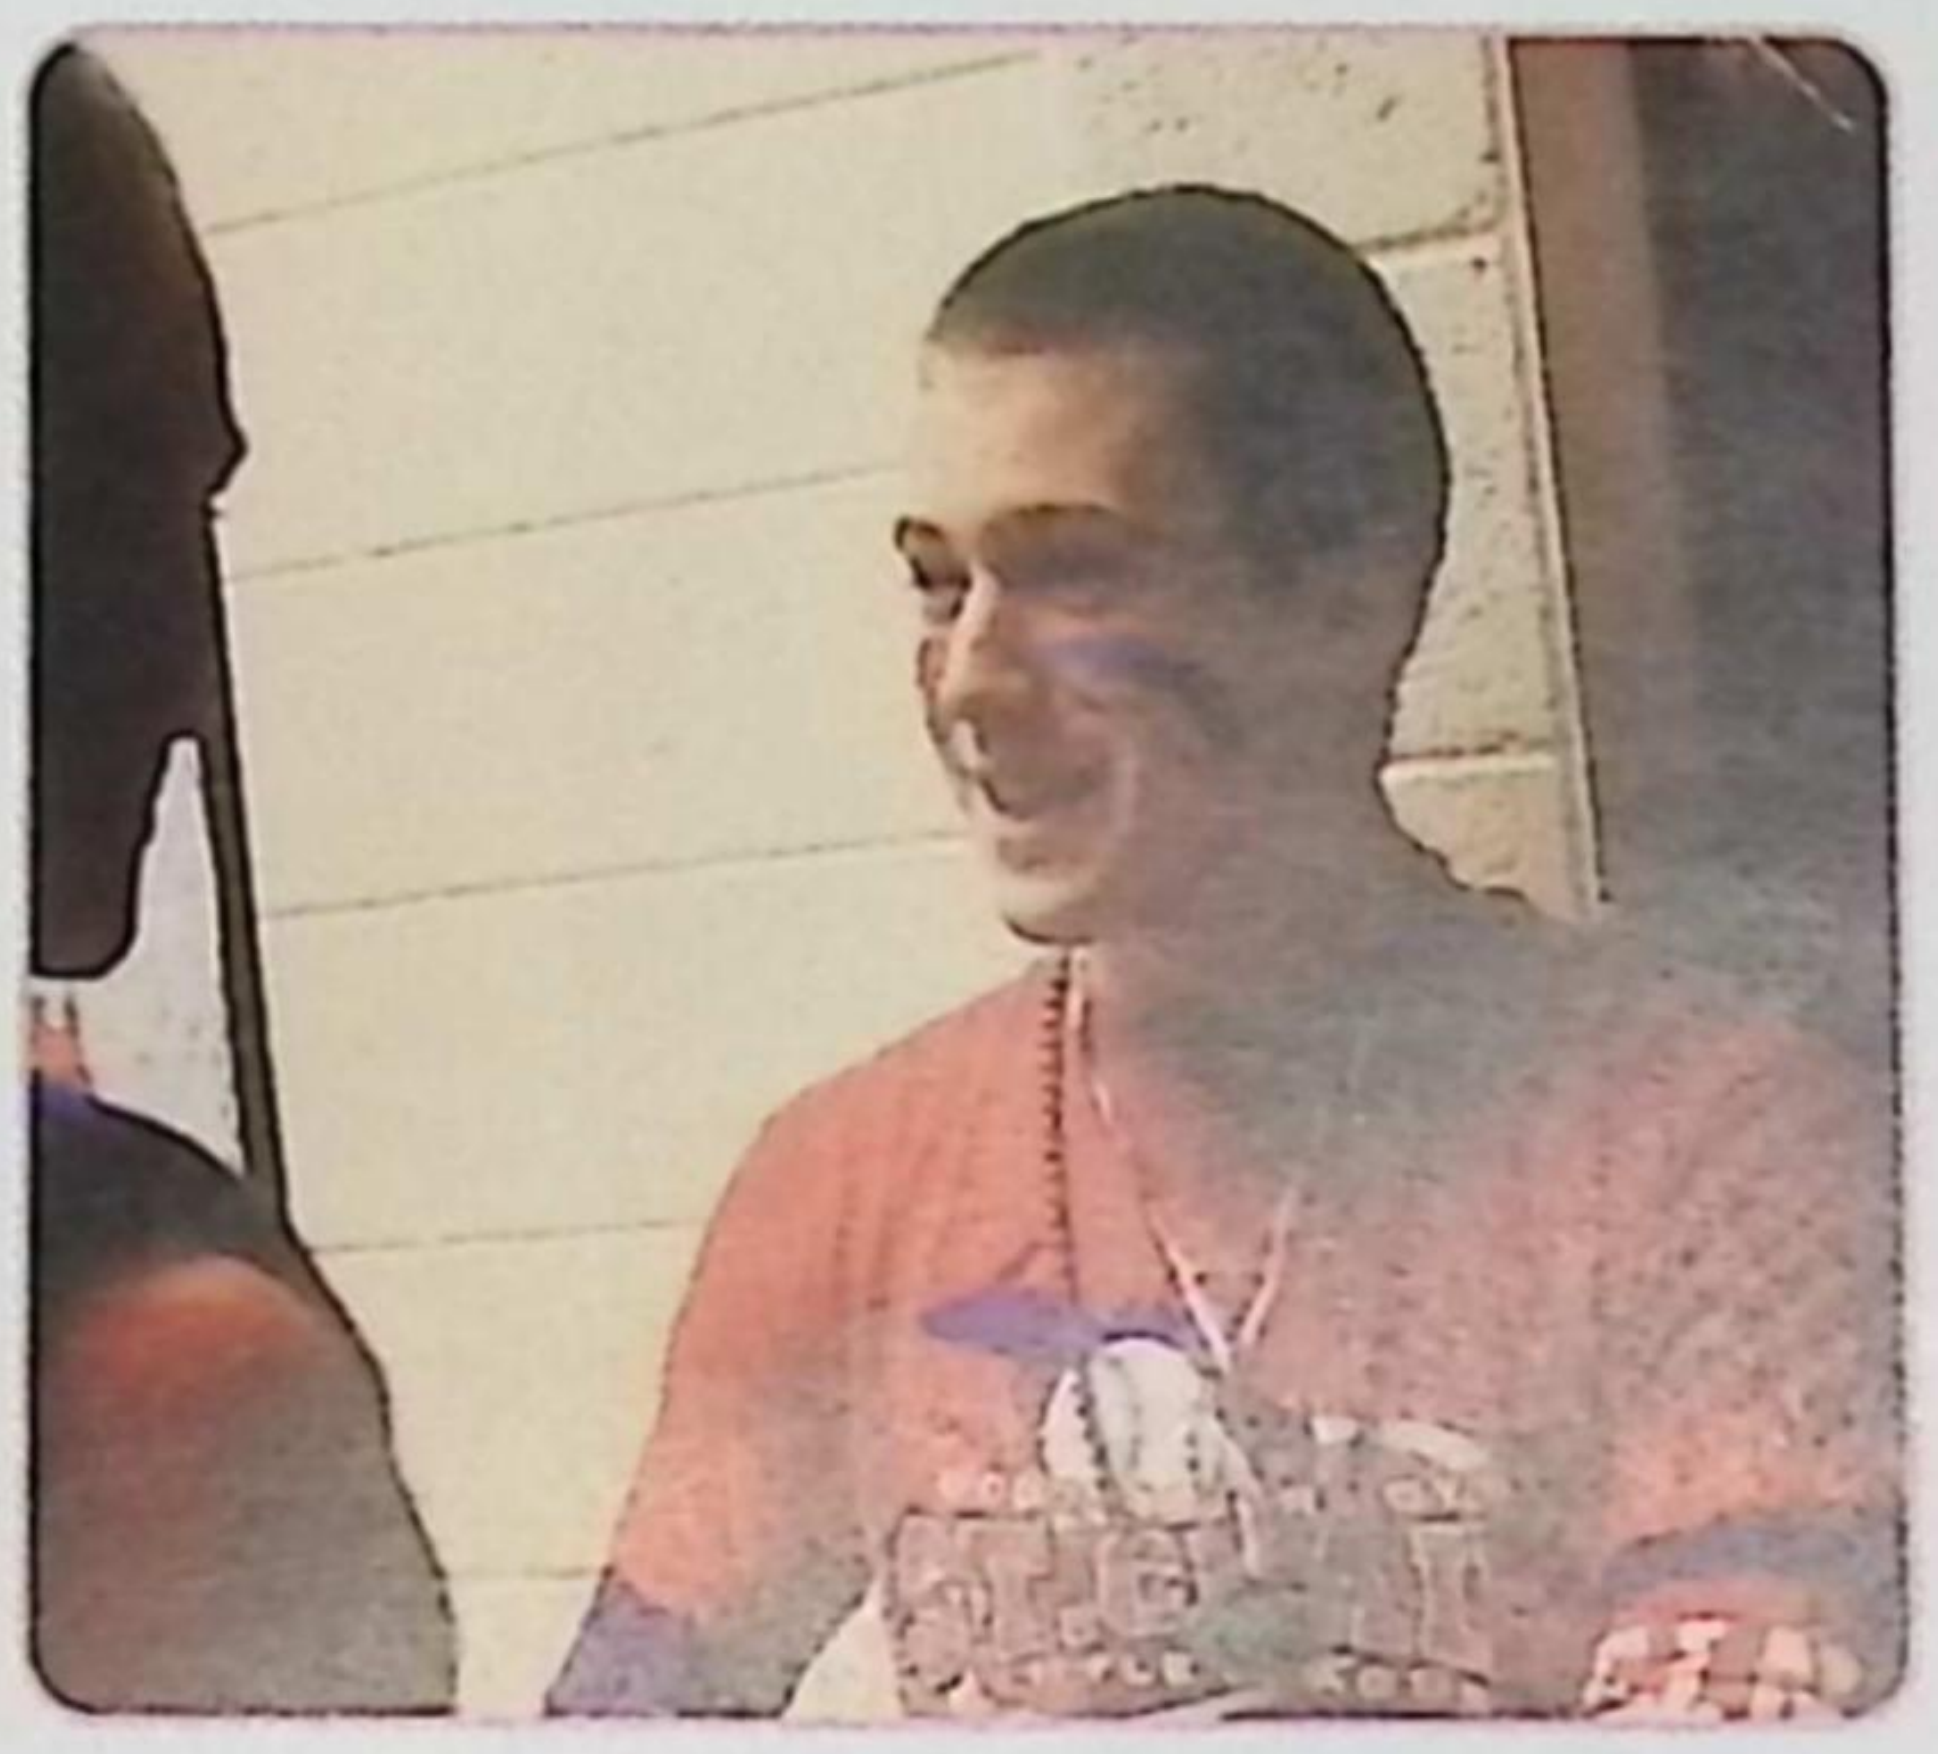
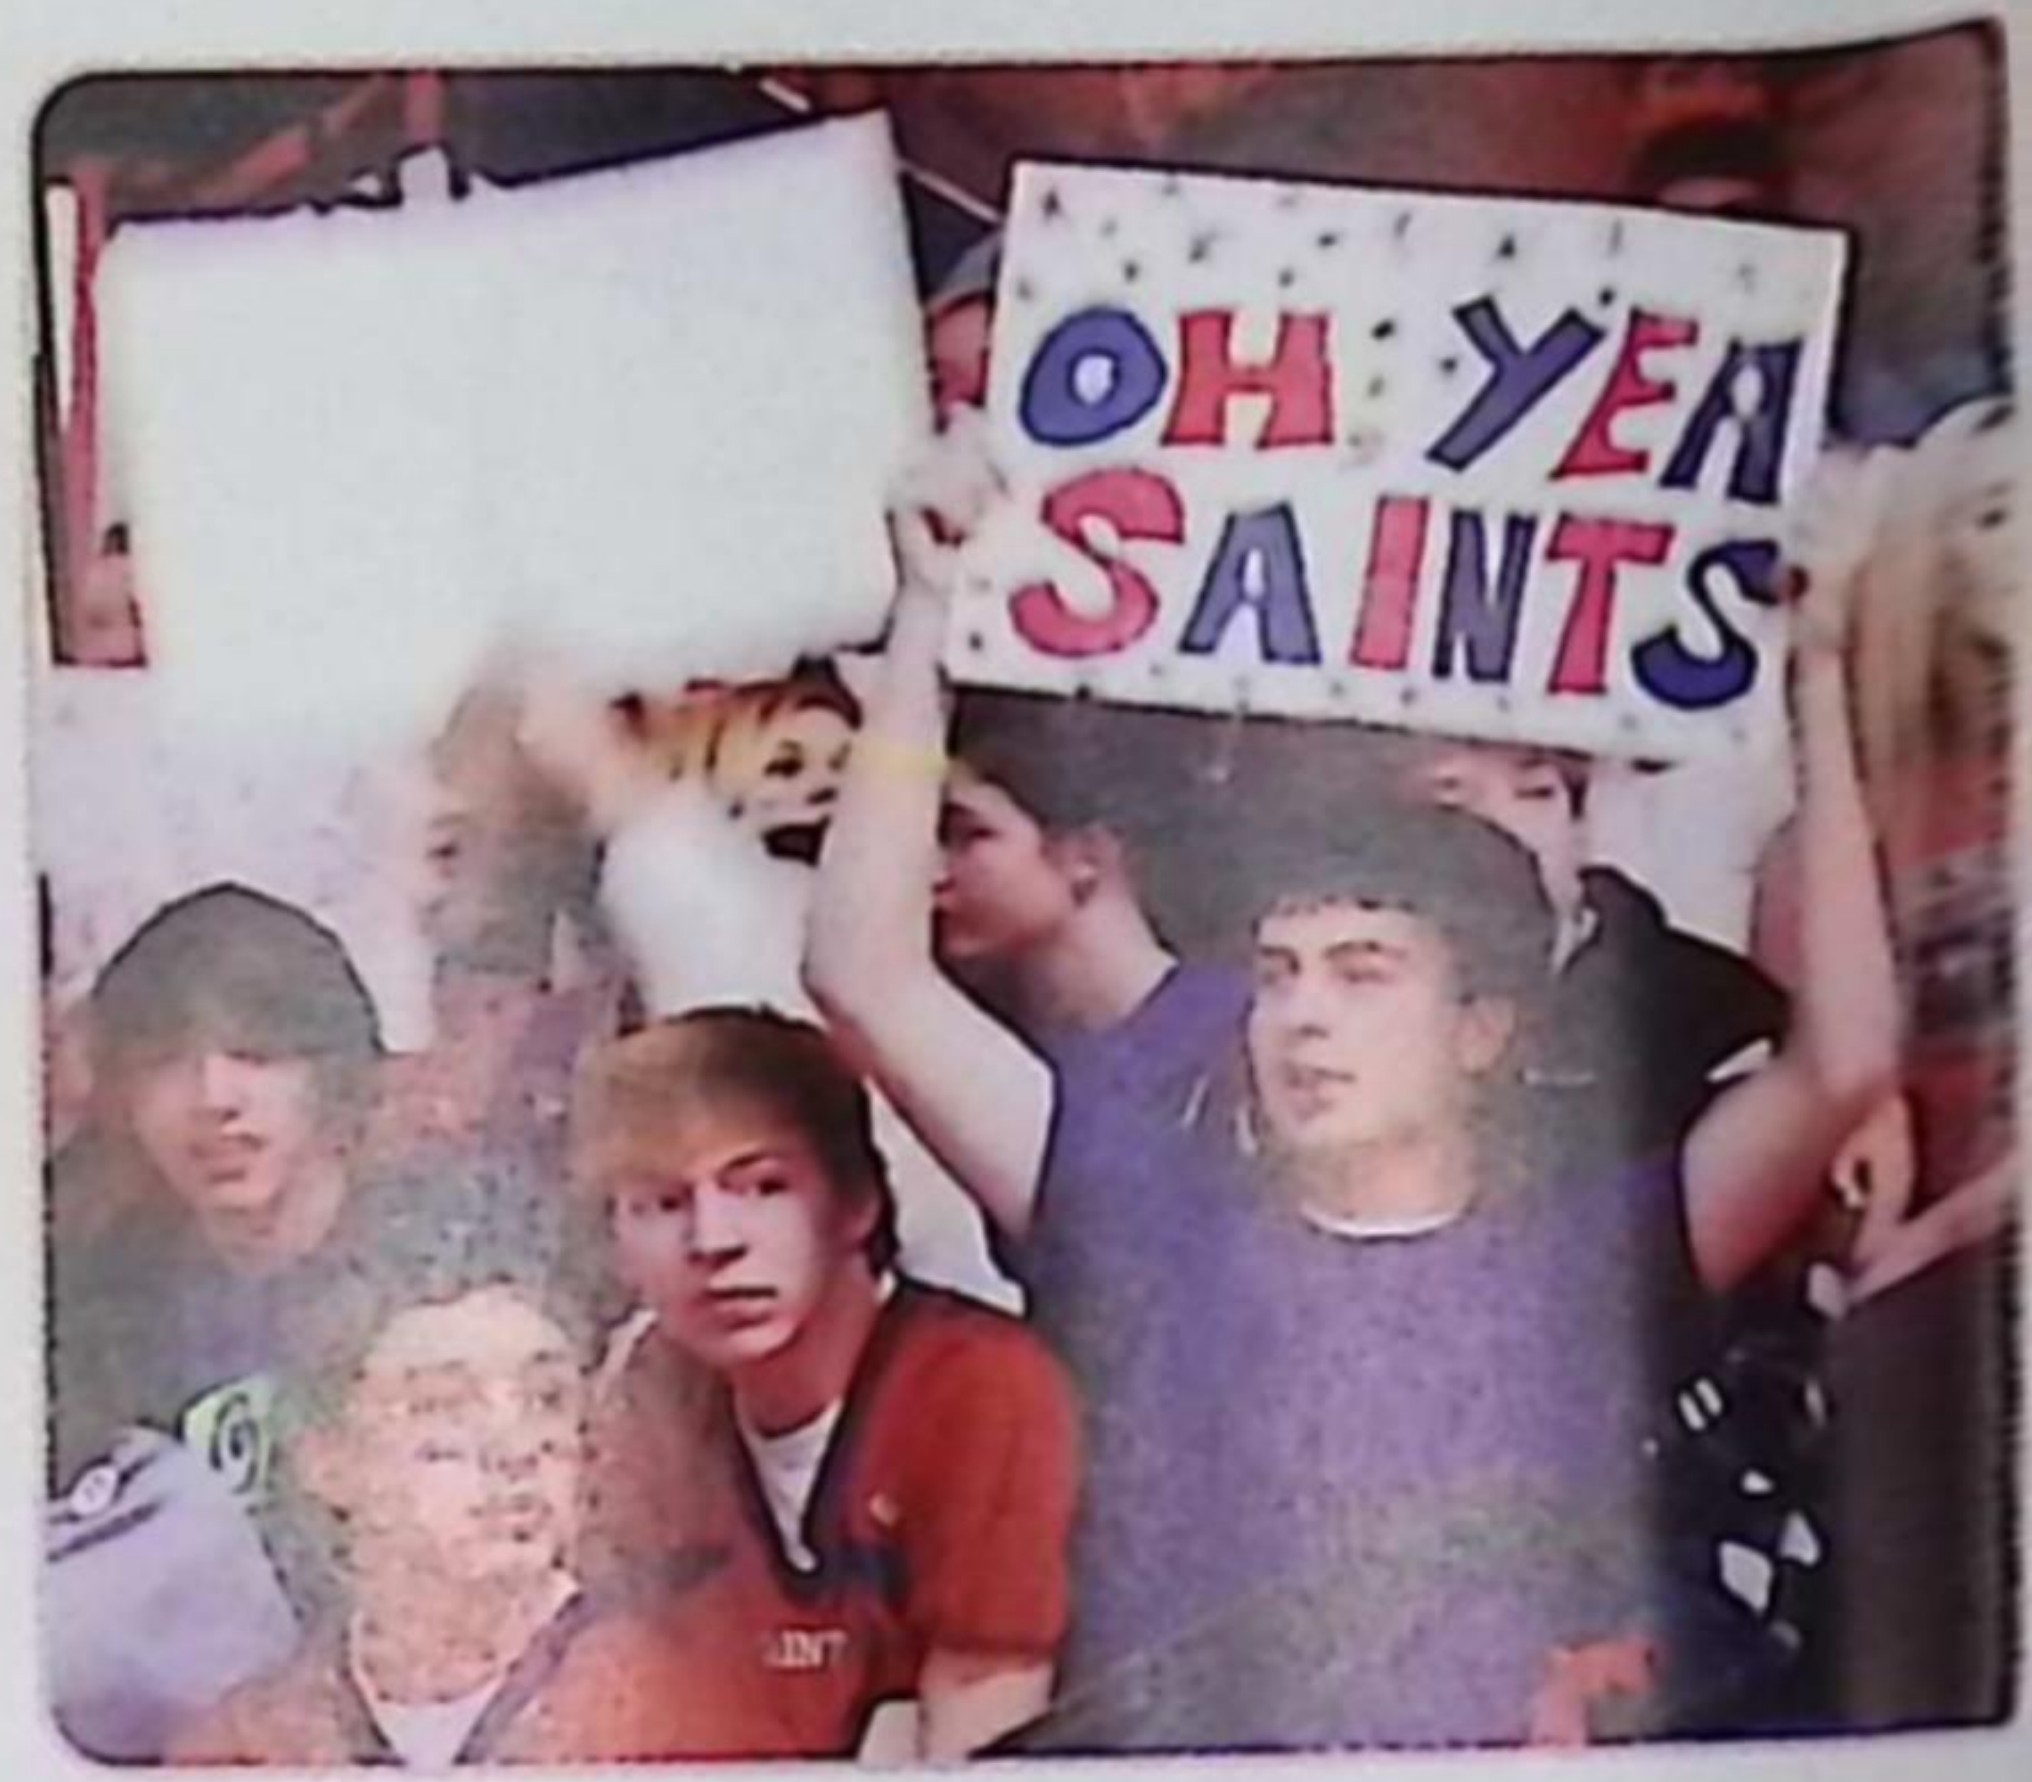
underclassmen division





"Growing up is never easy. You hold on to things that were, and you wonder what's to come. But that night, I think we knew it was time to let go of what had been and look ahead to what would be. Other days. New days. Days to come. The thing is, we didn't have to hate each other for getting older. We just had to forgive ourselves... for growing up." -The Wonder Years. When we were little, all we wanted to do was grow up. Now, we're growing up, and all we want to do is be young and carefree again. We dread the future but wonder what good things are to come, knowing there's no way to put it off. We've all come to a time where the growing up needs to happen, and this is it. It's our time now.

summer division

When the final bell rings, those bright red doors shed their usually dreadful appearance and become portals to a world of enchantment. They lead to summer. With all of its mystique and allure it's hard to believe that summer begins and ends in a short three months. For most of us though; the best memories, the "those were the days" memories happen here. The sauciest season of the year has yet to disappoint, and as the school year ignites; so does the countdown to imminent sunshine.

Throughout the years, certain "hot spots" have developed during Boat Race Weekend....what's yours?

Kaisee Barker ('13), and her boyfriend are big fans of airbrush tattoos.

Anthonthy Privaloff ('11) , says hanging in the tents is a definite hot spot.

Actually watching the boat races is something that most people forget about.

1. Elizabeth Nowak ('11) and Samantha Jebrael ('11), decide to ditch the expensive carnival food and stop at BP for one big slushie with two straws.
2.Making her way away from downtown, Terri Ofeno ('12), takes it old school by riding downtown rather than finding a parking spot in all the hustle and bustle.
3. These junior boys walk through Riverfest with their heads held high and their swag turned on and cranked all the way up.
4. When Matthew Koester ('12) discovered that, instead of the traditional carnival that arrives into town during the boat race week, there would be a bear show, he just had to see it!
5. Making their freshmen debut, these boys cool off in the trailer sponsored by Meijer to play numerous video games and taking advantage of the air-conditioning.

i'm on a boat, & you're at kinko's

Riverfest, Boat Race Weekend; as it's been affectionately named by St. Clair natives, is a fun event that brings students back together during summer vacation.

The 16th annual St. Clair Riverfest, sponsored by Meijer, was alive and kickin' this summer. The three day extravaganza took place from July 23- July 25. This star-studded event brings people from all around the state to see what all the fuss is about. Riverfest is a great opportunity for us to share our city and the beauty of our downtown area. If you took a walk around you probably noticed high school students by Riverside Ice Cream Parlor talking about their summers so far and making plans to get together, or maybe you saw the Welde's Bear Show. The bear show was new to our festival this year, along with a petting zoo, pony rides, and inflatables. They all seemed to be a big hit with not only St. Clair residents, but also the many visitors. Another great attraction was the interactive video game trailer. Students who stopped in there got their picture taken by a Meijer staff member, were allowed to play some of the video games they had to offer, or some just stopped in to enjoy the air conditioned area. So, whether you were hanging around the ice cream parlor, or one of the new attractions, or actually watching the races, you can be sure that you every found something to enjoy.

home away from home

Camping in tents, meeting new people, sitting around the camp fire eating s'mores, summer camp can be described in so many ways...

Summer camp is often considered a home away from home; a great opportunity to meet new people and learn about yourself. In some cases, you arrive at camp alone, but are immediately pulled away to a group of new people. It's fun to experience a new place with new friends who, by the end, feel like family. In other cases, students go to camp with teammates or close friends and get to spend even more quality time together. It's an opportunity to get to know each other better and sometimes learn even more about themselves through new and unique experiences. New skills and knowledge are often gained from experiences at summer camp. For some, it may be scary to be away from home, but camp always ends up being a great time. In the end, you almost always wish you had more time with your new "family".

1. Band camp attendees got a few breaks during the day to rest and rehydrate. During one of these short breaks, Bridget Dietlin ('11) gets crazy, trying to keep the moment fun.
2. After an amazing time on the Blob at Timber Wolf Lake Cross Country Camp, Leah Brosky ('13) gets out of the water to go again.
3. Preparing to march for the Saints' varsity football team, Charles Shinske ('13) gets serious while practicing the drums.
4. Enjoying some time on the water, Samantha Jebrael ('11) and Elizabeth Nowak ('11) kayak while at cross country camp.

Bulging baggage or light luggage...

Battle of the sexes: How do you pack for camp?

"I don't like to wear sweaty clothes, so I brought a lot of different clothes to change into. I decided I really just wanted a variety of outfits to wear when I was done running."

- Jessica Tippie ('12)

"I didn't feel like packing a bunch of stuff for cross country camp, so I only brought my shoes. All of that other stuff everybody else brings doesn't really matter."

- Macon Boes ('14)

Work, work, work... Is there anything good about having a summer job?

Most people like to hang out with their friends during the summer getting ice cream, walking along the boardwalk, or taking a dip in the pool. So, it may seem like having a job takes up too much precious time. However, there are a few upsides to having a job. For one thing, who doesn't like extra money? You get paid just for doing a simple job, like picking up plates or walking dogs. Plus, jobs look really good on college applications or future job applications. Working doesn't actually take up very much time. You don't have to work everyday, and you don't have to work all day. Lots of St. Clair students work during the summer. They'll all tell you the same thing; having a job is not nearly as bad as it seems - it's just another part of summer.

What's your job IQ?

1. What is the current unemployment rate for teens?
   - a. 13%
   - b. 87%
   - c. 26%
   - d. 4%

2. Which class has the highest percentage of students with jobs?
   - a. Seniors
   - b. Juniors
   - c. Sophomores
   - d. Freshmen

3. Which business area offers the most jobs for high school students?
   - a. Animal shelters and veterinary clinics
   - b. Local news stations
   - c. Retail (department stores, shops, etc.)
   - d. Restaurants and fast food businesses

Answers: 1=c This year's teen employment rate was at a record low. 2=a More seniors have jobs than any other class, but there are students in every grade who work. 3=d Food services offer the most jobs, including waiters/waitresses, hosts/hostesses, and dishwashers. 4=b If your parents own a farm, you can start working there at any age.

1. Bagging groceries and gathering runaway carts at Nieman's is no easy task! Alec Fielhauer ('11) has to go back and forth to be sure all of his jobs are finished before the end of his shift.
2. Though he has a job washing dishes at Achatz, Andrew Bennett ('13) still has time to joke around with co-workers.
3. Everybody loves ice cream in the heat of summer. Jenny Eisen ('11) works at the Dairy Queen, making sundaes, Blizzards, and more.
4. Although she has no set working schedule, Loren Schihl ('14) spends a lot of her free time at RZ Farms with her favorite calf, Poka.

BLUE STEEL VS. MAGNUM

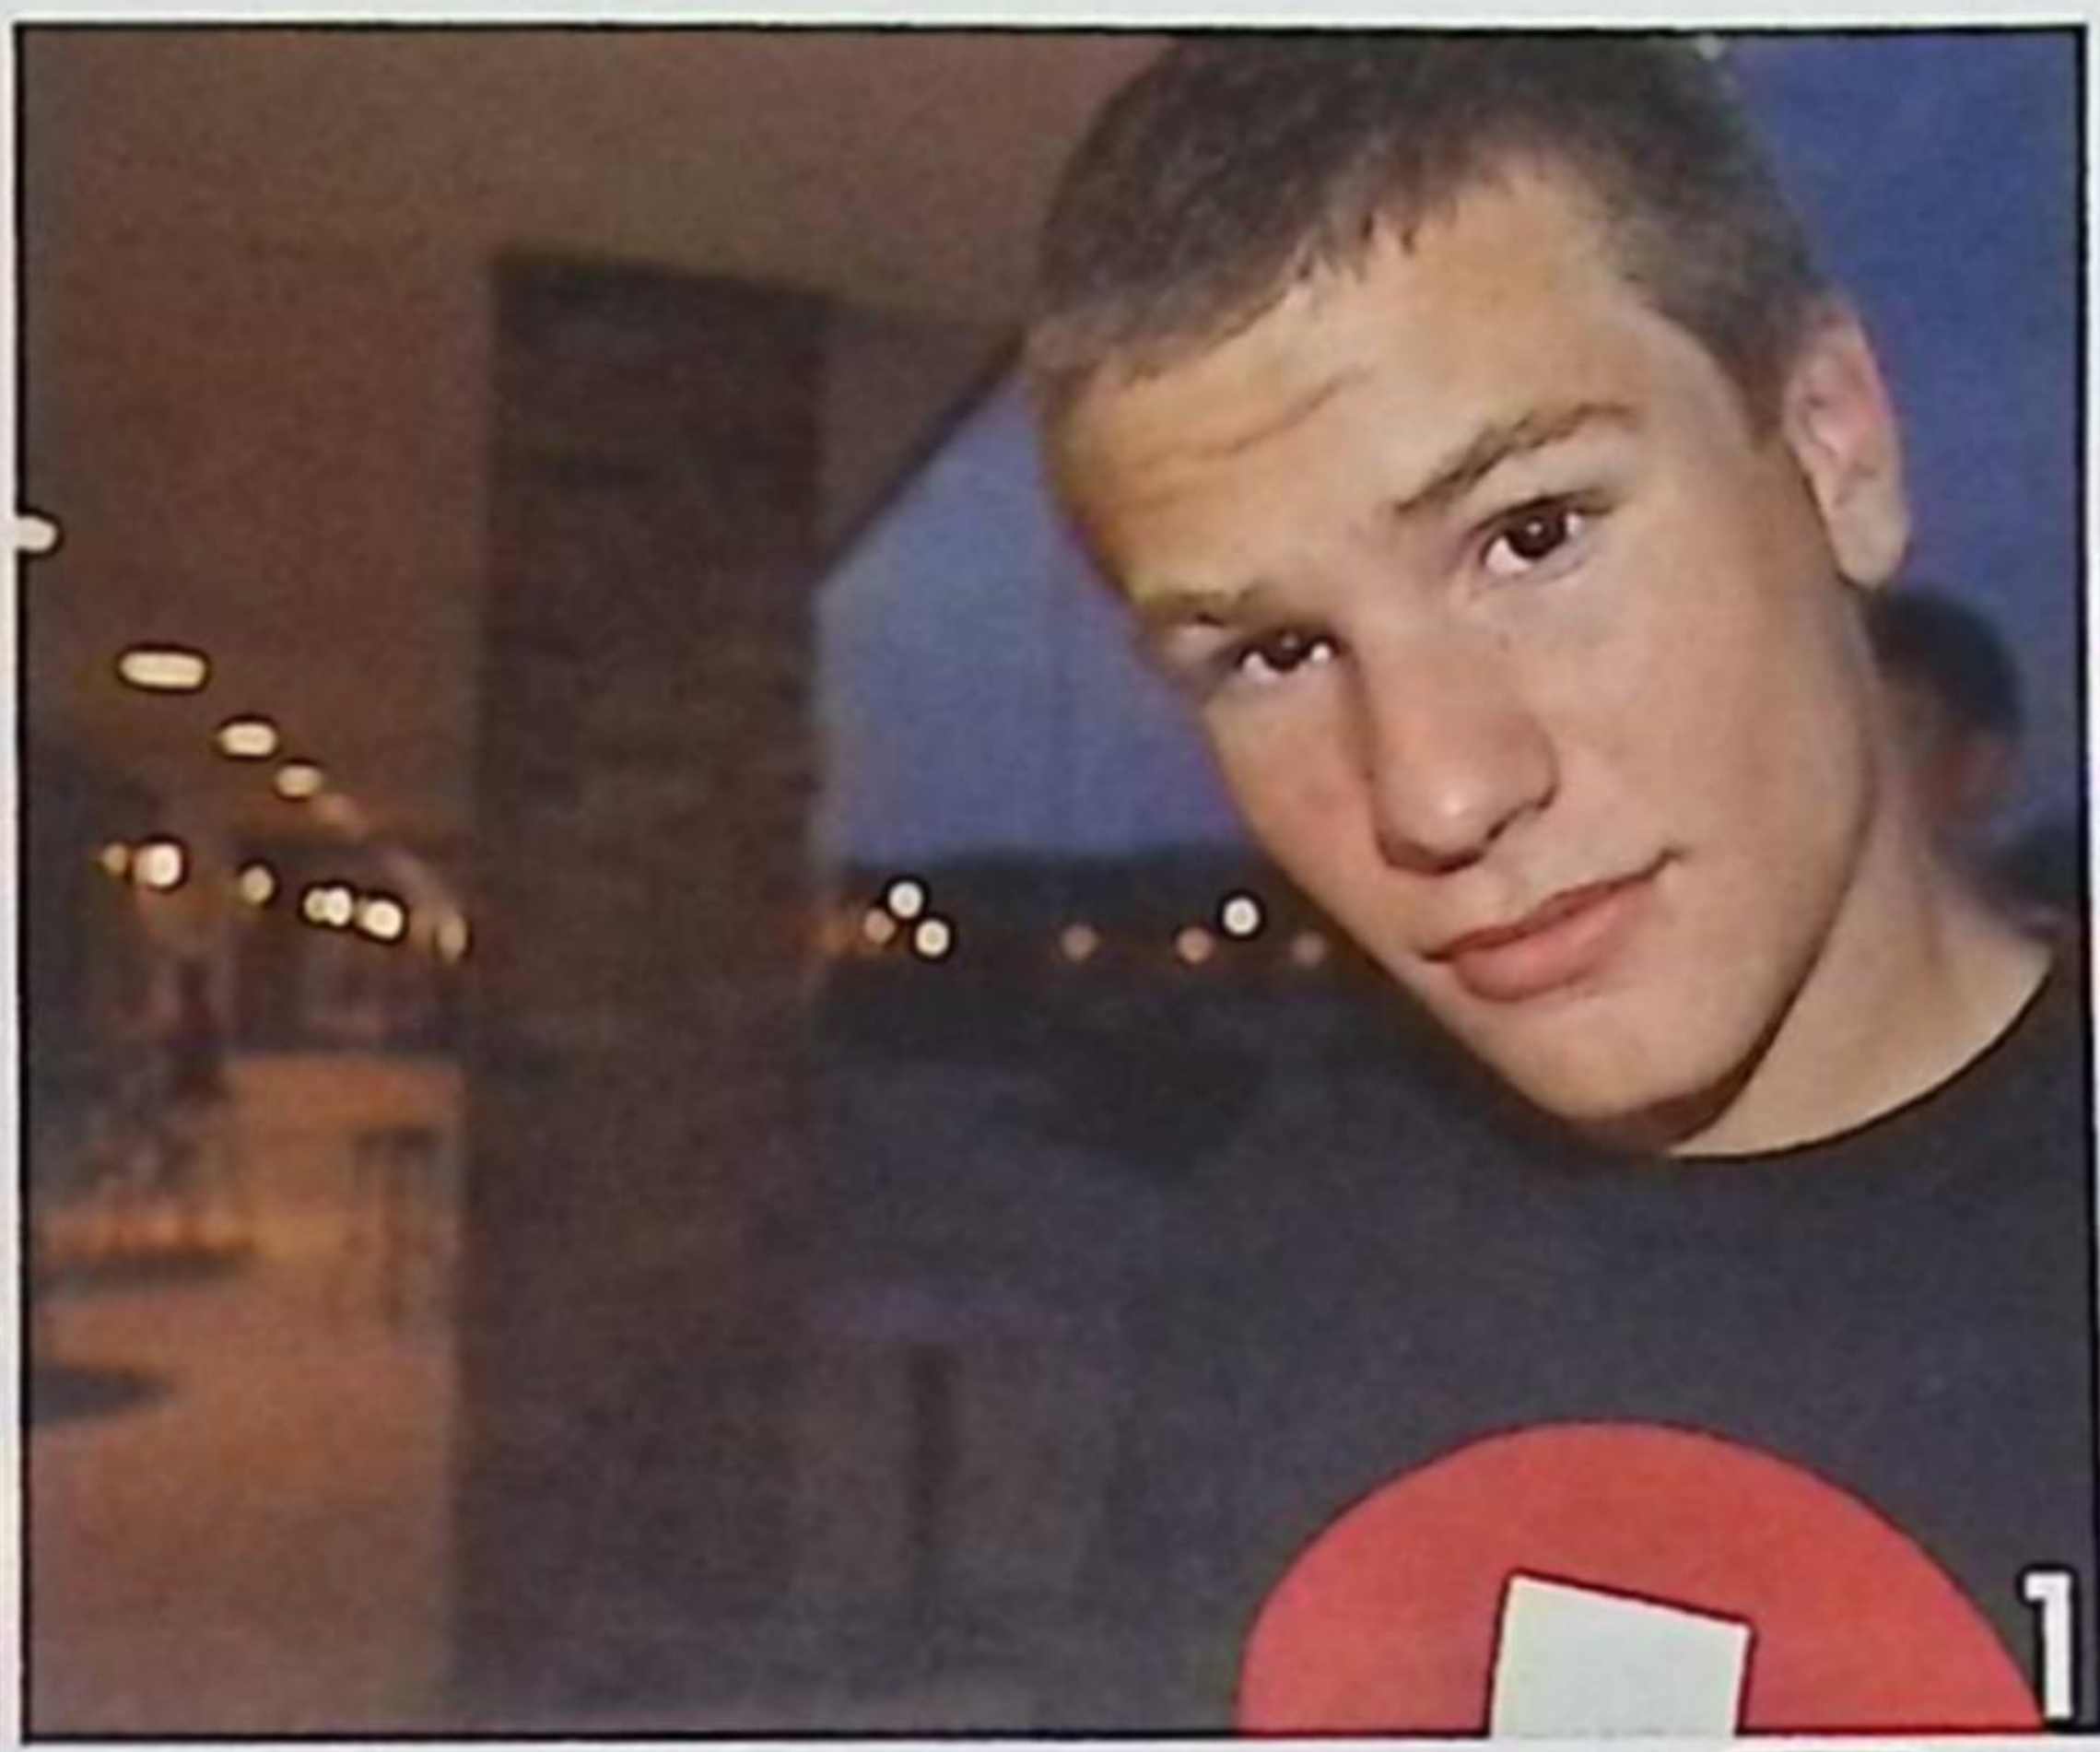
William Cedar ('11) strikes a pose from the movie Zoolander. But…is this "Blue Steel", or could it possibly be the "MAGNUM"? Let's ask the experts:

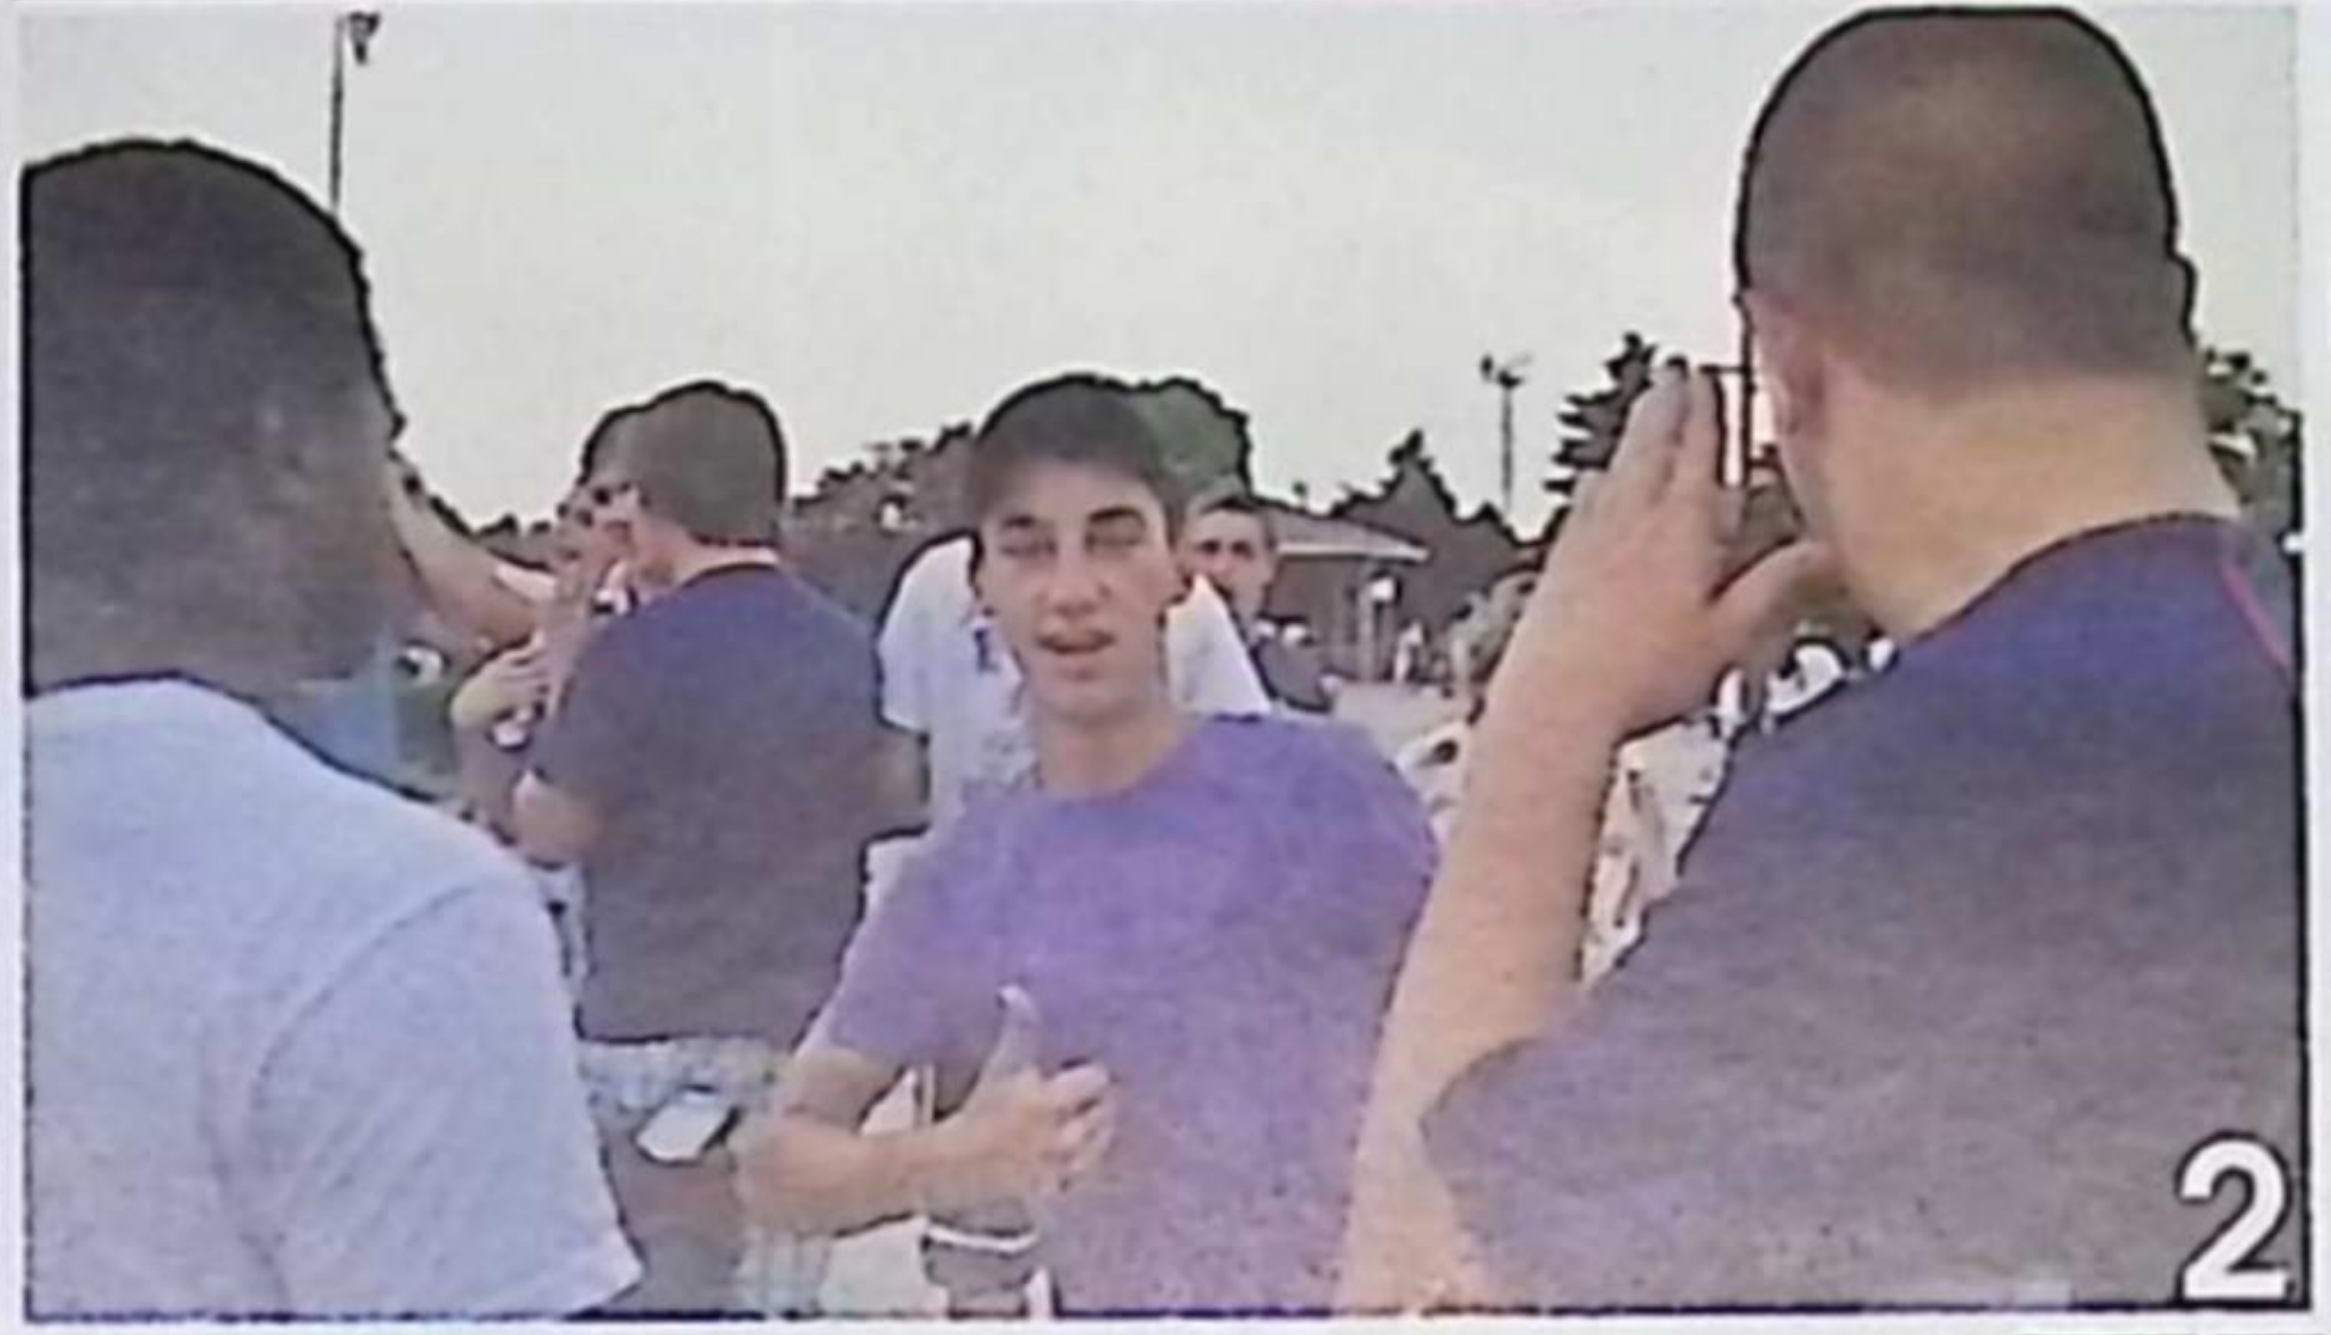
Garrett Hadwin ('13): "This is Blue Steel, he is more laid back and casual in this photo."

Anson Pavlov ('11): "It is obviously the MAGNUM. It is WAY more intense than Blue Steel."

Hadwin: "He's not nearly focused enough. Just look at his eyes, they aren't intense enough to be the MAGNUM."

Pavlov: "Are you kidding me? I don't even know what you're thinking. He has the intensity of a stray mongoose!"





1. Conor O'Brien ('12) relaxes near the ice cream parlor before the famous fireworks begin.
2. Alexander Fielhauer ('11) shows his excitement about the fireworks by giving an enthusiastic thumbs up.
3. While waiting for more friends to show up, Bridget Dietlin ('11), Cody Armstrong ('11), Kayleigh Gauthier ('12), and Aaron Buckley ('13) talk outside of one of the city's popular hangouts, Sue's Coffee House.
4. Walking downtown in their always playful way, best friends Sarah Mcgowan ('11) and Erin Eberhard ('11) make their way to the festivities.

The 4th of July, otherwise known as Independence Day, is filled with everything that any normal birthday party would have: picnics, parades, concerts, and of course, fireworks…Alright, maybe it's a little different than a normal birthday party, but we are talking about the birth of our country here- it's a pretty big deal.

For most of us, the 4th of July is spent with family, watching all of the boats go by, and simply relaxing and hanging out with friends that we haven't seen since school got out, all while watching fireworks fill the sky. This is exactly how Kirk Dano ('11) spent his holiday. He started out by meeting up with some friends from Marine City that he doesn't get to see often. They relaxed down by the boardwalk and watched all of the boats go by. When the fireworks started, Kirk sat with his sister and three year old niece, whose eyes lit up when she saw the big sparkling explosions of light in the sky. After that, Chris Brown ('11) spent the night at Kirk's house, where they "gamed it up!"

c)"Helped an old lady cross the street today... what a cutie!"

When you look in the mirror, you see:
a)Plain Jane/Joe. Same old, same old.
b)Sweatpants, tee shirt, and tennis shoes.
c)A nice shirt, with dress pants or a flowery skirt.

Your crush knows:
a)Your name.
b)That you are a starter on just about every Varsity team at SCHS c)You do community service for fun.

Your catchphrase is:
a)Nonexistent.
b)"Score!"
c)"How sweet!"

If you answered mostly A's, your flavor is VANILLA. Can you say boring and bland? We bet you can! Next time you're ordering ice cream, step outside of your comfort zone order a vanilla cone dipped in chocolate or rolled in sprinkles. That way, you'll get the same classic flavor you love, with an exciting new twist.

If you answered mostly B's, your flavor is SUPERMAN. Athletic Aaron? Sporty Sally? Looks like someone spends a little too much time in the gym! Instead of Superman, try a banana split with all the peanuts and bananas, you'll get an extra dose of protein and potassium, to help build muscles and keep cramps at bay!

If you answered mostly C's, your flavor is STRAWBERRY CHEESECAKE. Aww, what a sweetie! You're a charming person with charisma to match. Stay true to your sweet self by trying mint chocolate chip it's refreshing ice cream, with bittersweet chips that may inspire you to expand your horizons in your everyday life.

1. Victoria Karazim ('11) and Kimberly Adolph ('11) run indoors air conditioning. Nothing seems to beat the summer heat like a little AC and some chilly ice cream, but not even the hot summer months can keep these girls from a warm smile.
2. In the middle of a balancing act, Jacob Wiseheart ('11) whips around with grace and precision to push the door of Sue's Coffee House wide open and serve his customers.
3. While taking a stroll through downtown St. Clair, Carly McElrea ('11) and Madison McTevia ('11) stop by Riverside Ice Cream Parlor. 4. In what seemed to be unbearable heat, Donovan Langley ('12) decides to escape the sweltering sunlight by devouring his twist custard. 5. High school sweethearts, Cody Ar ('11) and Ashley Schulte-Haslem ('12), sit down outside of the ice cream parlor to enjoy a little summer lovin'. 6. After enjoying a delicious ice cream cone for "Meet the Saints" night at the ice cream parlor, varsity football players Michael Mule ('12), Calvin Marshall ('11) Harrison Schweihofer ('11), and Robert Beler ('11) take a load off and get ready to watch The Blind Side.

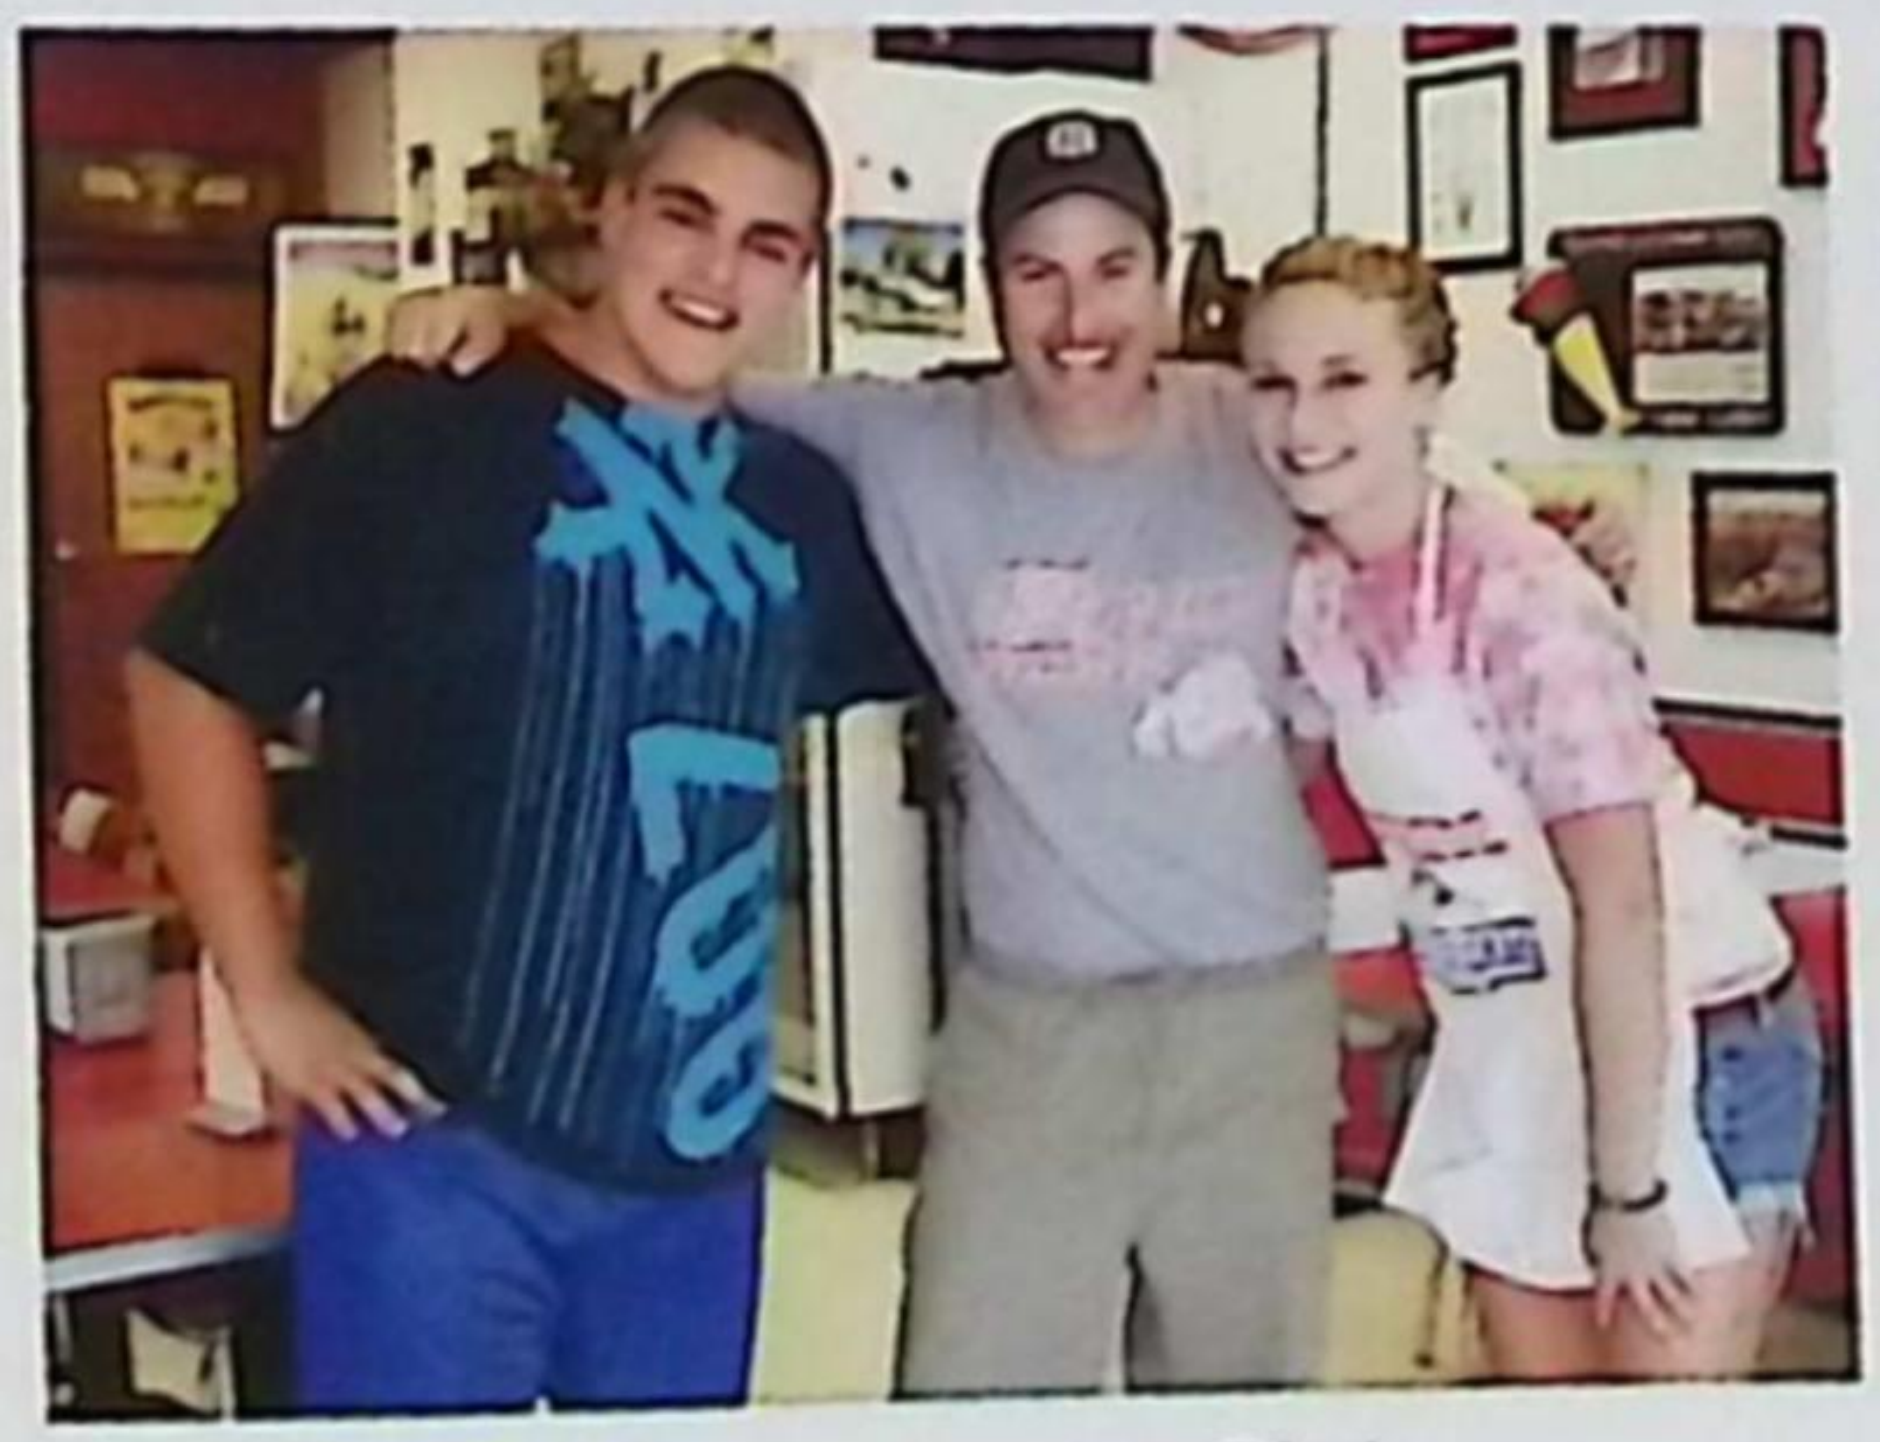
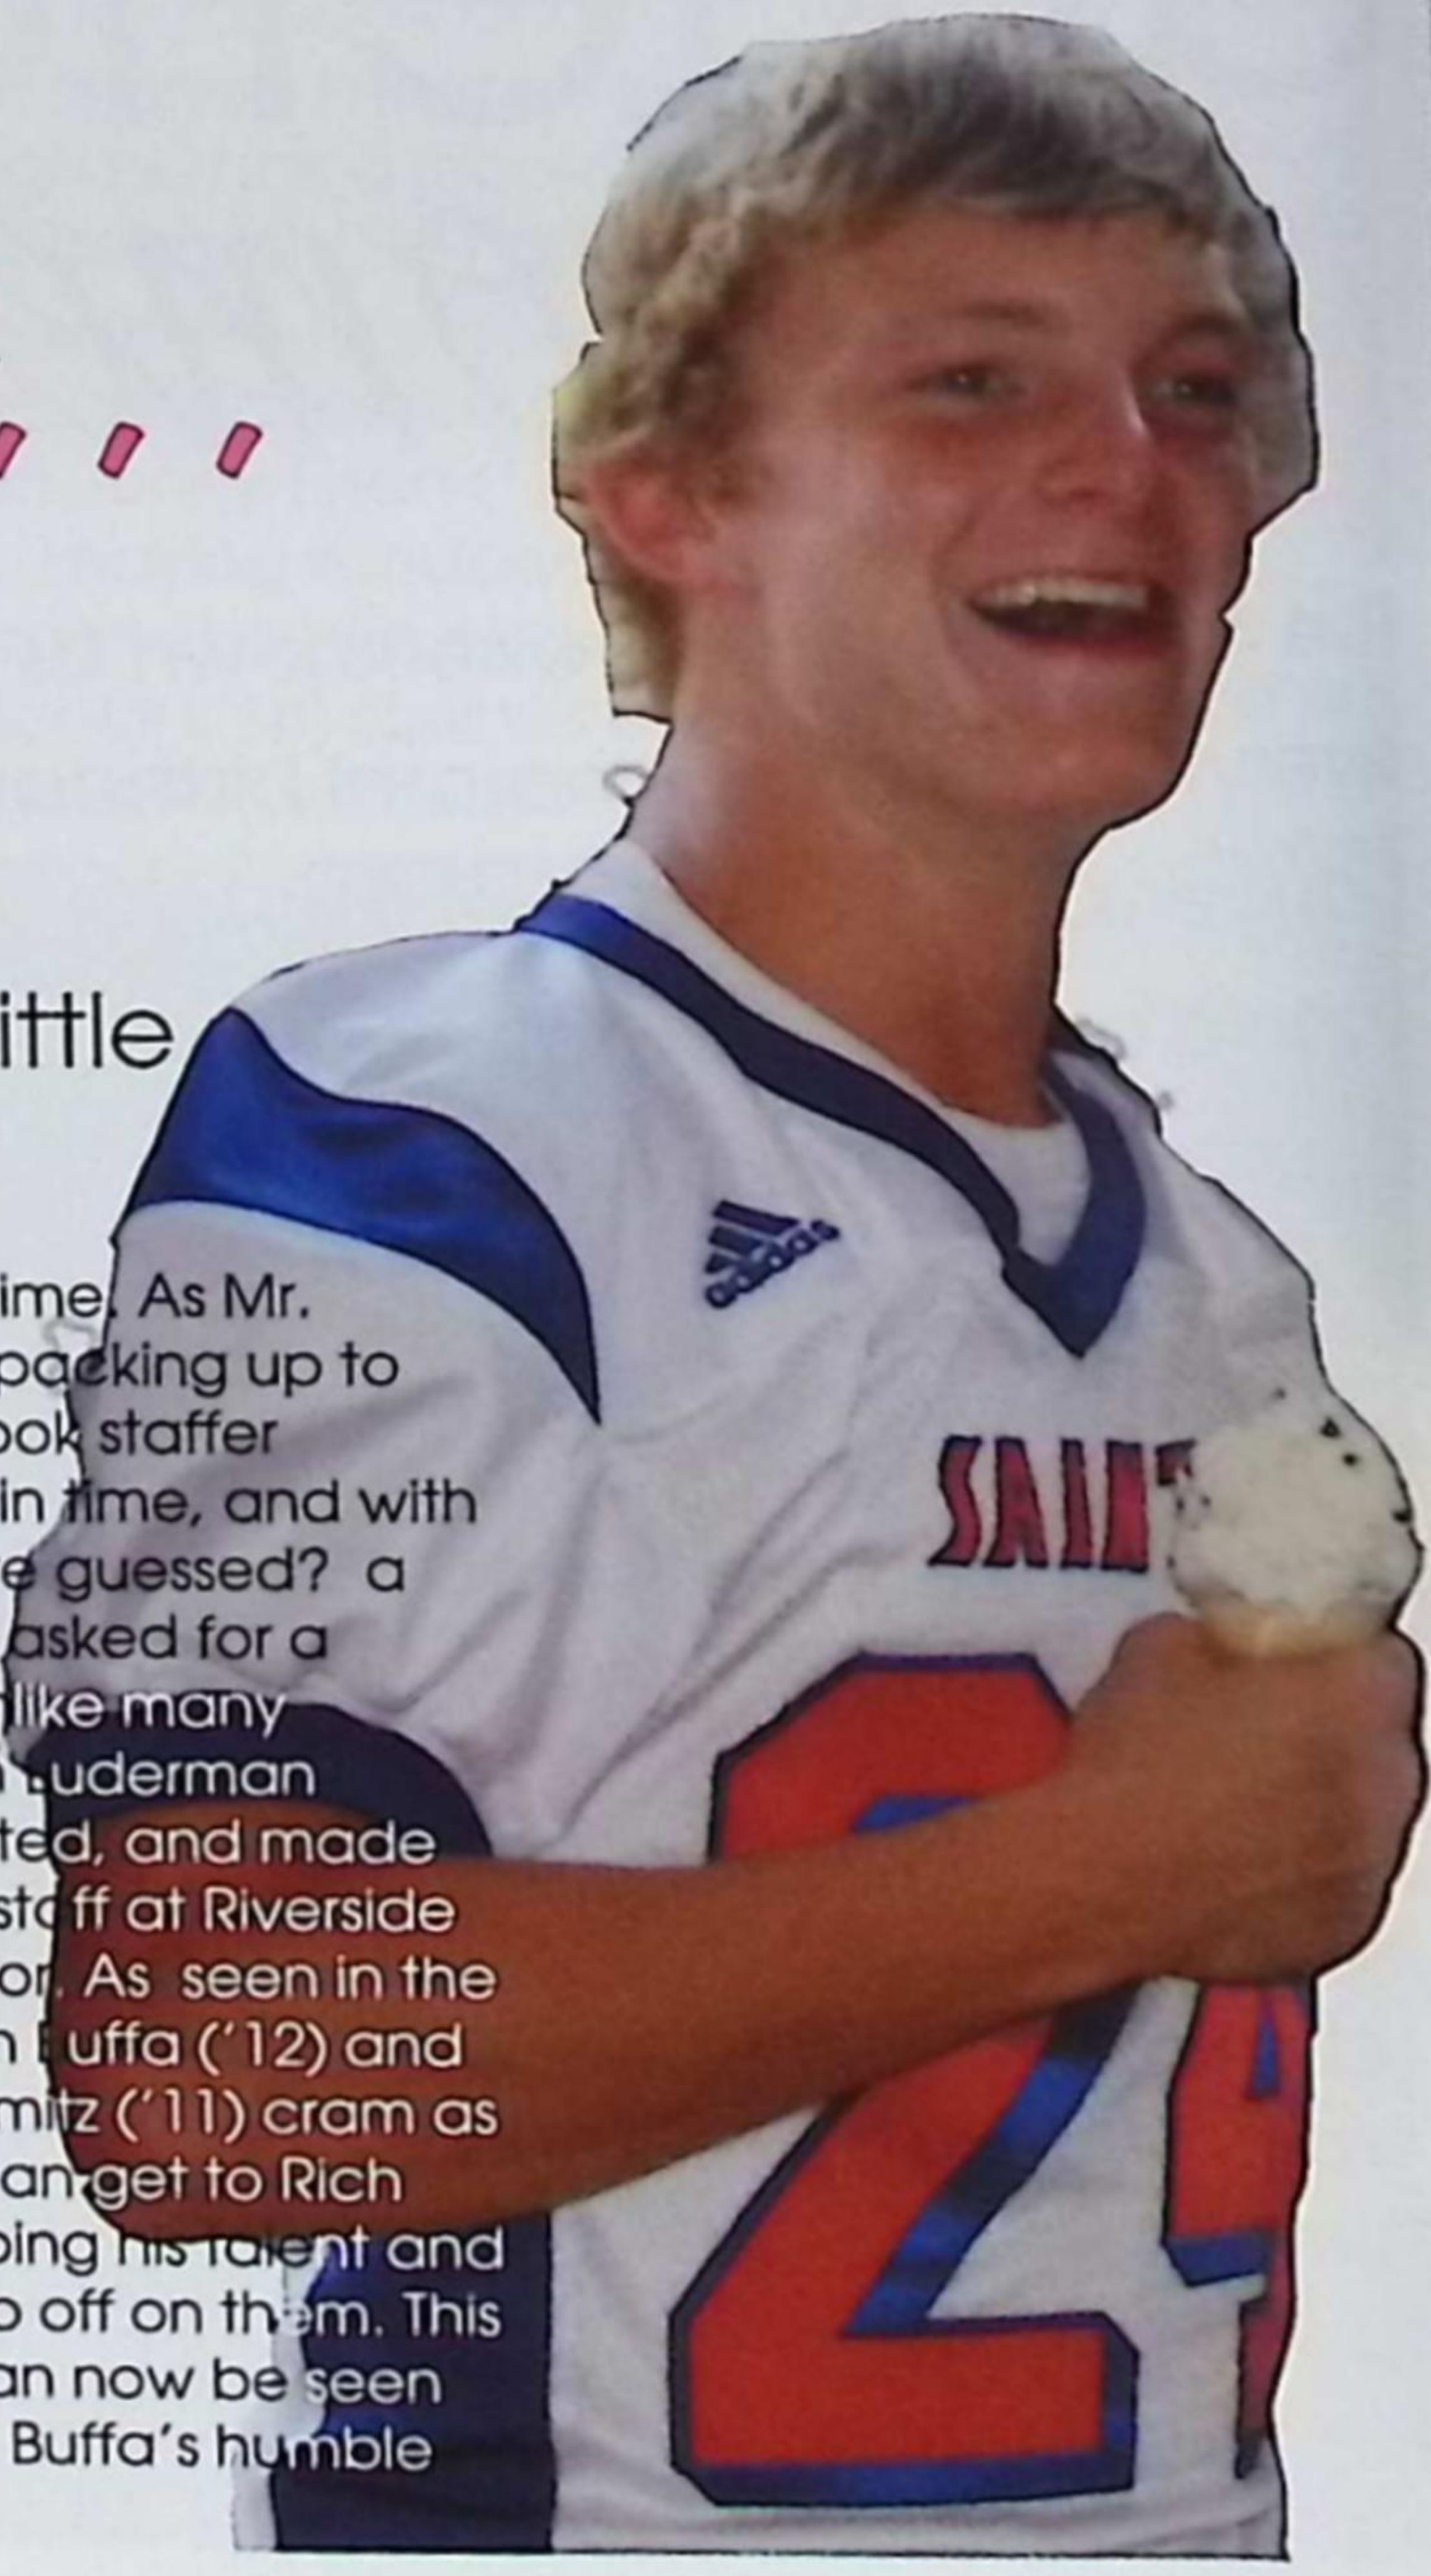
It's not every day that a local celebrity shows up in Riverside Ice Cream Parlor, so when Rich Luderman, a weather man from Fox 2 News strolled in, things got a little crazy in the parlor...





It seemed like a normal day at Riverside Ice Cream Parlor. Brendan Buffa ('12) was finishing up his shift, cleaning up the shake machine and wiping down the back counters, when unbeknownst to him, Rich Luderman walked in the parlor followed by his wife and kids. Brendan knew he had seen this man before, but could not place him, and served him his sundae with nuts and whipped cream, business as usual. As Mr. Luderman was taking a seat, it was then that something clicked with Brendan. "Hey, you're Rich Luderman!" He exclaimed excitedly. The owners were big fans too, and came running out from the back.
Graciously, Mr. Luderman talked with the owners and Brendan for quite some time. As Mr. Luderman was packing up to leave, a yearbook staffer showed up just in time, and with who would have guessed? a camera. When asked for a photograph, unlike many celebrities, Rich Luderman eagerly accepted, and made the day of the staff at Riverside Ice Cream Parlor. As seen in the photo, Brendan Buffa ('12) and Samantha Schmitz ('11) cram as close as they can get to Rich Luderman, hoping his talent and stardom will rub off on them. This photograph can now be seen hanging in the Buffa's humble abode.

under. the boardwalk

A place for lovers, children, and pets: yes, it's the boardwalk.

The St. Clair boardwalk is a peaceful and relaxing place for people of all ages to enjoy themselves, along with the beautiful water. People usually stroll along the river walkway and occasionally observe freighters drifting by. But this summer was different; something extremely unexpected happened, while passing by downtown St. Clair, one of the freighters lost power. The giant ship then began to drift and came within ten feet of the ever popular dining and bowling restaurant, the Voyageur. Luckily for us, the ship dropped anchor in time and just barely avoided collision. Fortunately, nobody was hurt and the sea-wall remained unharmed.

Success is not always measured in the amount of times it takes us to accomplish... but in the quality and work we put into the success.

It's a common agreement that success can be achieved by doing something on the first try, but what if everyone got everything on the first attempt? Success is not always measured in the amount of times it takes us to accomplish activities, but in the quality and work put into that success. You could apply that to many things in life, but success has a special meaning in BMX, aggressive inline skating. When a dude gets out there on his set of wheels, he knows that he's going to fall, most likely bruise himself up, and want to even quit at times, but that's not typical of a guy who really wants wants to find true success. Ask anyone, if he gets the trick on the first try, he has done nothing except demonstrate that he can do something he already knew. The real test comes down to what isn't easy, the trick that takes hard work and dedication. Skaters, BMX guys, and aggressive inline skaters have grit and a mental attitude that no one else knows. Their determination and drive make them who they are as individuals, not only at the skate park, but everywhere they go.

1. The ramps and jumps aren't the only thing the Saint Clair Skate Park has to offer. This hangout also includes a BMX track where kids have the opportunity to tread some serious turf.
2. Taran Adams ('14) may be new to SCHS this year, but he is definitely no newcomer to the skate park. He "digs chillin' with friends and mastering new tricks" at the park.
3. Devin Toy ('13) slaps his crew "five" as he one hands it over a transfer. The cloudy blue skies and slight breeze made it a stellar day for the park.
4. Skating takes determination and hard work, talent, and of course, passion. Jacob Kerszykowski ('12) has all of these and what it takes to be a pro skater. Younger kids at the park look up to him and he sure shows them how to lay it down the right way.

life's a beach. practice safe sun

FORGET BUSES... the only thing Saints will be riding this summer are the waves.

The beach is a place where a person can find peace and serenity, but most of all...BE FREE! When the final school bell rings, the beach is the first destination for a "no-longer-student" to kick off his or her summer. Barbeques, swing sets, volleyball, and tanning - when they ask, the beach answers! There's no better place to have a romantic lunch date, with the breeze catching her hair at every perfect moment; and what about that first crazy summer bash, with people fist pumpin' in every direction!? The beach is a place where memories have been made and have stayed; it is summertime's scrapbook. Every Saint has contributed to their own page of the book; adding pictures, stickers, quotes, keepsakes, and anything that would make their summer different from the rest. The scrapbook begins with the sensational feeling of soft, beachy sand in between their tiny toes, but Saint Clair Saints make it their mission to fill the following pages with their own summer memoirs. How will it end? They don't have a clue; when life gives them waves, they just go for the ride.

"Summer afternoon - summer afternoon; to me those have always been the two most beautiful words in the English language."
- Henry James

When summer peeks around the corner in June, SCHS students are more then ready to drop the books and party! Every year Saints have an impromptu competition to see who can throw the best summertime bash. Chrissy Gauss ('13) sure knows how to make it happen. While other students went with the usual graduation parties and bonfires, she decided to pull out the old Slip N' Slide and take a trip down memory lane. Chrissy said, "It was definitely the best party of the year and a fun way to cool off." Whether you're saying goodbye to your graduating friends before they go off to college, making a splash in the pool, or sitting around campfire roasting marshmallows, summer parties are always a blast Saints don't need their camera to capture and hold onto these memories; moments like these would be impossible to forget.

Music speaks what cannot be expressed, soothes the mind and gives it rest, heals the heart and makes it whole, flows from heaven to the soul.

Music gives insight to a person's soul, and listening to somebody's music can tell you a lot about their personality. For some, the lyrics have deep meaning, others just enjoy what is popular. In high school, music is an outlet, a way to express one's self. Most teens were lucky enough to go to concerts, but some made do with an iPod or a guitar. The most popular concerts were the Van's Warped Tour and Eminem & Jay-Z in Detroit. Working day and night for money to purchase the outrageously priced tickets, these hard working kids showed drive and determination to earn enough cash to buy their way to their favorite shows. The ones who got creative with their jam sessions had just as much fun! Nicole Knoth ('13) had a Justin Bieber dance party on her boat. "All we did was rock!

The adrenaline rush was unbelievable as Jenna Gamber ('11) crowd surfed, which was the highlight of her night at the Van's Warped tour. 2. Dancing all night, Paula Fraschetti ('11) fit right in at the John Mayer concert, she even got to see Train perform that night! 3. A star-studded moment with their favorite band was a dream come true for Christina Woodman ('13) and Kate McGowan ('13). They were lucky enough to get in a picture at the Van's Warped tour this July with Stereo Skyline. 4. Bryanna Bryan ('11) can barely hold back her excitement after Jason Alden autographed her TJ MAXX receipt. 5. On the way to the Bamboozle concert, Allie Danhausen ('11), Ava Meier ('12), and Amanda LaCroix ('11) show they are ready for a fun night!

who's got the goods

The stress and tension on cut day is almost unbearable but the feeling of being in the game is worth it.

One of the most tense and nerve racking days is cut day. We hate to admit it, but it's one of those times we hope our athletic abilities help us become one of the few selected for a team sport. Throughout the summer, students go through extensive workouts, camps, practice and preparation for tryouts. Although hundreds of SCHS students tryout for fall sports, only 312 make the final cut and are placed on a team. This year's football and cheer teams participated in SCHS's Big 10. They trained for one hour, 10 days in a row before the start of season. Soccer, swim, volleyball, and cross country teams all went through grueling work at daily practices as well. Below, check out our numbers and see the sport-by-sport partitcipation. Did you make the cut?

One thing St. Clair residents can count on every June is the coming of the artisans. Art of every imaginable type can be seen, touched, and purchased during the annual St. Clair Art Fair. Although few students attended this year's event those that did enjoyed a variety of art and could find many interesting things to see. Paintings, metal sculptures, and jewelry are only a few different of the creations that were on display. All the artists worked extremely hard, and their talent was beautifully showcased.

The St. Mary's Carnival has become a tradition for St. Clair, with its fun rides, exciting games, and carnie food. Many of the students at SCHS were found hanging out and having a blast the entire weekend the carnival was in town. This year it had a lot of new rides, including the Zipper, which is a ride at rotates like a Ferris heel and has free-pping cars that spin around for the duration of the ride. It was said to be the most thrilling experience there, but the carnival also had original favorites like the Tilt-A-Whirl, bumper cars, a ferris wheel, and many more. But what's a carnival without games? You could find some SCHS students at the Box Club game. "I saw most of the guys from our school trying to beat the high score," says Alex O'Connell ('14). She was only able to come for one night, but wishes she could have gone more. The St. Mary's Carnival was a great experience for all who went. As usual, it exceeded everyone's already high expectations.

Whether you are 5 or 35, Greig Park is an incredible place to spend time with your friends and have a great time year round.

Many of the students at Saint Clair High School find that Greig Park is an awesome place to hang out in the summer. because of the variety of activities that go on there everyday. Whether they are hanging on the monkey bars, flying on the swings, or slipping down the slide, Saint Clair High School students always enjoy themselves at the park. On any given day, members of our St. Clair High School family can be spotted rollerblading, biking, or running on the nature trail. Greig Park is located in town between the City Hall and the Skate Park. It's a refreshing place to take a break after a long day of skating, or to sit and eat some ice cream. Whatever activity you choose, Greig Park is a timeless place to have fun with your friends.

Anyone who has seen this movie Billy Madison knows this little diddy, and when school is closing in, everyone can relate. There is a lot that goes into preparing for the new school year. Back-to-school prep involves purchasing school supplies, along with getting the right mind set. This means getting up early and nailing down a daily routine. In most cases, students dread school but once they are bac in the swing of things, they can start enjoyin themselves and all the opportunities SCHS ha to offer.

Summer Vacations: lounging in the sun, hanging out with friends, having crazy fun. Some lucky individuals get to travel for their summer vacations to destinations like Italy, Stag Island, and Northern Michigan. Others get to make their mark on the city when staying home and enjoying the summer with their friends. Summer vacations are a big part of life; staying up late and telling secrets, eating junk food and just relaxing are a big portion of a teenager's life. But, when St. Clair High School Students get the chance to travel somewhere new and exciting, they sure don't hesitate to take on the opportunity. So, let the good times roll even if you don't get one of those rare chances. Make the best of your vacation, where ever it may be.

Getting back in the swing of things can be a little tough, but here at SCHS, students always find a way to make the beginning of the year more tolerable. From sports and theatre to choir and robotics, every shining individual at St. Clair finds a niche, and in doing so, makes his or her time here at SCHS personal. With so many things to do and so many new people to meet, getting back to the everyday grind of waking up early every morning and doing homework every night seems a little less painful.

"Some people think football is a matter of life and death. I assure you, it's much more serious than that." - Bill Shankly

The varsity football team may not have had a perfect season this year, but when they won, they crushed the opponent. The game against Marysville was one of those games. After the Saints' defense stopped Marysville, the Saints' offense drove the ball down the field. On fourth down, Tyler Lozen ('13) ran the ball in for a touchdown. "He just kept running," said teammate Zachary Gomola ('11). He couldn't be stopped. The defense kept it up for the remainder of the game, only letting one touchdown slip by. The offense also continued with high energy and precision. They went on to pound in four more touchdowns. The final score was Saints-39 and Marysville- 6.

-Coach Boone "Remeber the Titans"

Perfection is the key to the game. It's something the Titans strived for and the 2010 freshmen football team stepped in stride to as well. These ninth graders moved out on the field each day determined to perfect their game, and be the best they could possibly be. Drills, dummies, film, no matter what the type, they were hard at work from 2:30 to 5:30 constantly searching for the strength within themselves, their team, and each other so that they could beat their ultimate foes...Marine City. With just half the season to get ready for the big game, the guys cranked it out hard core everyday to chase the perfection waiting right around the corner. With an epic score and long-fought battle, the team came out safely on top with an outstanding score of 35-6.

"Big Pink V" the varsity cheerleading team's mantra, is more than a motto. It's a lifestyle.

Cheerleading is a dynamic athletic activity that involves breath-taking routines such as jumps, tosses, lifts, and cheers. This team was a perfect example of what it takes to be successful. They went through hard practices and grueling conditioning. With all the preparation for the season, of course these girls did amazing when the games came around. Everyone was always excited to see the cheerleaders on the sidelines. They rocked the stands, always keeping the crowds pumped and excited for every game. They kept things creative and were able to do so much for school spirit. For the St. Clair vs. Marysville game they imitated, in three perfect lifts, the Saints stealing the ball from Marysville, then running for a touchdown. The crowd was thrilled to see such an interesting performance from the cheerleaders. Through out the entire football season, they were there giving it their all.

Teamwork, Effort, Never give up, Nit & grit, Inspiration, Strength

The junior varsity ennis team was quite victorious this season. This team of dedicated boys practiced constantly in the hot summer sun and the cool fall days. The team had quite a few newcomers but that was not a problem for them at all. . The team bonded very well and got along with each other. With acquets in hand, determination in their hearts, and positive attitudes, the boys stepped foot on the court ready for a miraculous season. There was toughcompetition from schools near and far and yet they still managed to win 6 of the 10 games they played. The boys used muscle, endurance and sweat as they accomplished a lot and overall it had a great season. With the coaches always criticing their serves, swings, and hits at practice; the boys became almost perfect at them and some are even ready for varsity next year. Even though there were some difficulties, they ended up being a very accomplished team!

Skills, that's what these boys have. The Saints tennis team used those skills to trounce three of their extremely competitive opponents. In their first victory of the season, they took on L'Anse Creuse and came out strong! They defeated them with ease and could walk away from the match with lots of confidence and their heads held high. When they went up against L'Anse Creuse North, they proved themselves once again and could come back to St. Clair with a victory.

The last win was pure force and domination against Cros-Lex, the Saints took the match 7-1 and played with heart and determination. After their three strong wins they managed to make it a the way to regionals, where they took first and played very respectably to end the season. As usual, our varsity tennis team, and Coach Clutts, has done an outstanding job this year.

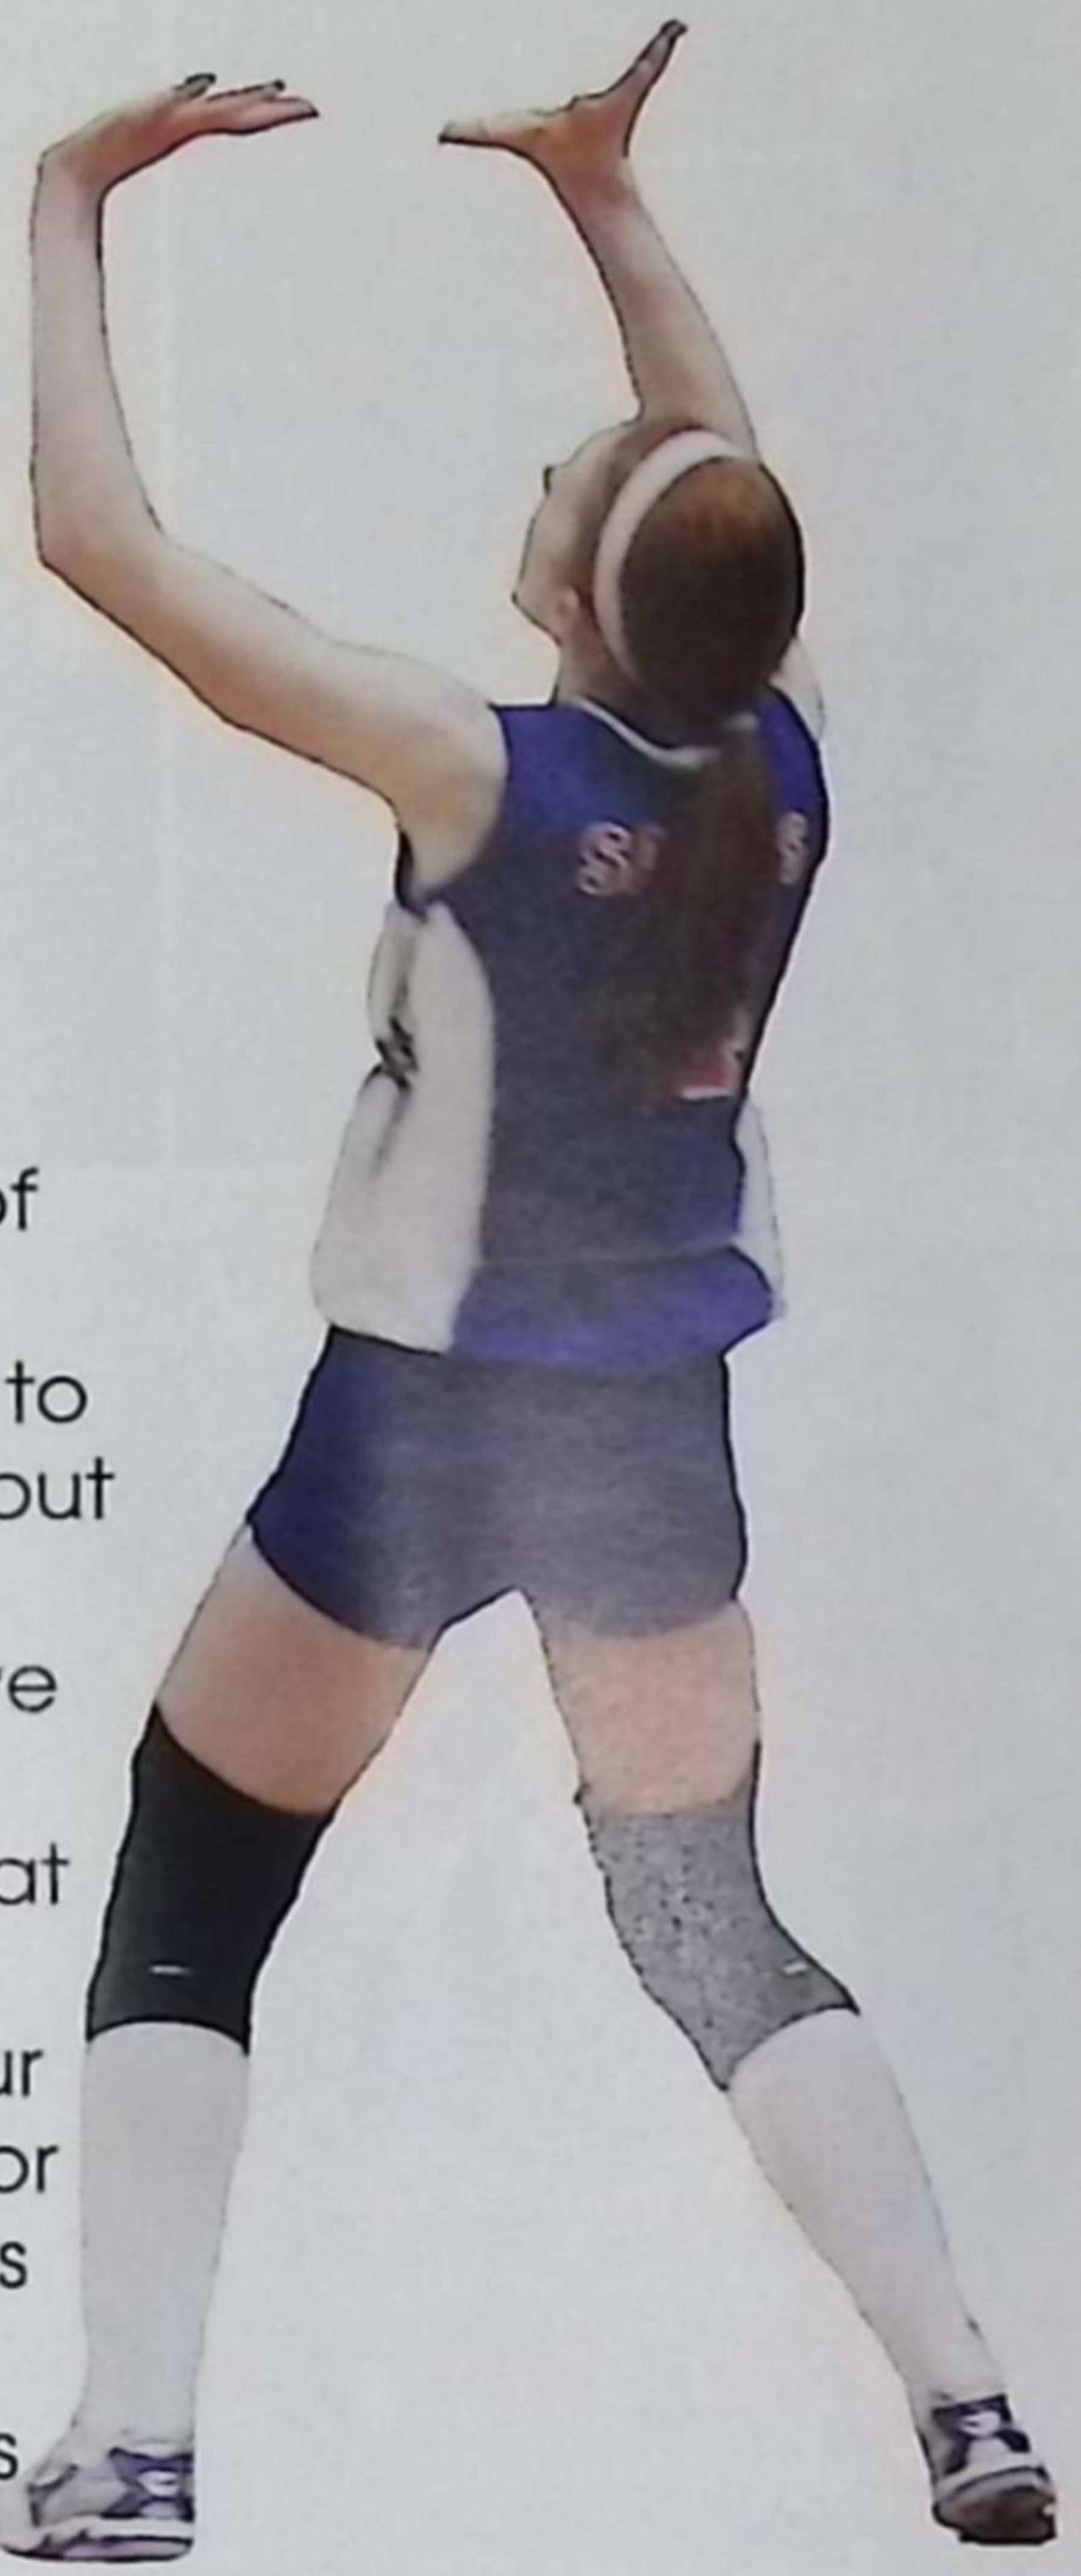
Long hours of practice, hard work, and determination. These Lady Saints' are Bringin' the Heat!



SCHS's varsity volleyball team did, in fact, bring the heat this season, just as their infamous poster promised. They posted an 8-2 league record. Sharing the MAC Gold title for first place with rivals, Marine City, made coach Telly Delor beam with pride."I am proud of the 2010 varsity volleyball team, the players worked hard in practice to become more consistent team. Their attention to detail has allowed us to see success on the court and I am most proud of the senior leadership that demonstrated a strong work ethic and love of the game." It takes talent and hard work to make a good team, but most of all it takes teamwork and positive attitudes. "We were thrilled about our great finish. We all worked really hard and set our goals high," said senior Mary Laudazio. "It has been the best senior year! I love all the girls on the team and will miss them all so much."

What will you miss most after the season?

"Seeing all my friends on and off the court and going to team dinners."
- Rebecca Ingles ('12)

"I'll miss Paula Frashetti the most!"
- Kelsey Kerin ('12)

"I'll miss seeing all my friends that are seniors and spending time with them at practice."
- Sara English ('12)

"I'll miss my best friend Mary Laudazio and playing volleyball with her."
- Kelsey Richards ('12)

1. The 2010 season brought friends closer together. Maison Burr ('13), Chelsea Wilson ('12), and Kelsey Richards ('12) all became better friends and teammates.
2. Pumping up her team, Coach Delor gives her team a quick pep-talk before their match.
3. On her toes, Eden Starbuck ('11) watches the opposing server for hints on where she is aiming.
4. Picking her target, Addie Ingles ("11) serves for an ace.
5. These girls pump up the court with Saints' spirit, hoping for a fun match.

jv volleyball

The JV volleyball team has had an amazing season. One of the most intense games was against our school district rivals, Marine City, in the Pink Halo game. Tied at the beginning of the third game, the Saints, at first, easily scored many points. However, the Mariners caught up fast, and tension began to rise. The score was then 24-24. The Lady Saints needed one more point to win. The ball was served, and after a few volleys back and forth over the net, the Saints' fans and players cheered as the ball hit the floor on the Mariner's side. We were able to capture the victory.

Beep, beep, beep! Imagine the sound of your alarm clock every morning at 5 am. Then, a long, grueling swim practice before AND after school. Sounds like a blast, right? Not exactly. But for the girls varsity swim team, it's reality. Hard work and dedication is what it takes for the few SCHS girls brave enough to call themselves an SCHS swimmer. But these girls are no ordinary students. Their record, 10-1, shows the time, effort, and determination they put into each practice is what set them above all the rest. Three relay teams really stepped it up by qualifying for states. Though none of the teams made it to finals, one relay team had an outstanding performance and set a new school record; beating the old record by over a full second. Congratulations to: Amanda Slis ('13), Meghan Lamb ('14), Brianna Britz ('11) and Julianne Fosgard ('11).

The boys cross country team went on to win the championship at Regionals this year for the fourth consecutive year - pretty impressive, huh? This is the 11th year in a row that these running Saints have qualified for the state finals, and the boys couldn't be more proud. The St. Clair boys cross country team has built up a reputation for greatness, and this year's team has kept the reputation alive. They ran exceptionally well this season, and have placed 1st in four of their seven invitationals and classics. They placed 2nd at the MAC Division Meet which was quite an accomplishment. During Regionals, Randall Gottler ('12), Adam Gizowski ('14), Evan Weidenbach ('11), Marcos Costa ('11), and Matthew Koester ('12) all ran their best times of the year.

The girls cross country team may not be running like the wind because of taunting teenage boys chasing them with rocks like Forrest Gump's situation, but they sure do run like the wind for other reasons. Those reasons are different for each individual, but whatever they are, they sure do work. The girls had yet another successful season placing in the top three at every meet. The team finished second in the MAC conference, 3rd at Regionals, and 20th at States. Their hard work, dedication and strive for perfection pushed them to an outstanding finish on the season. storytime.

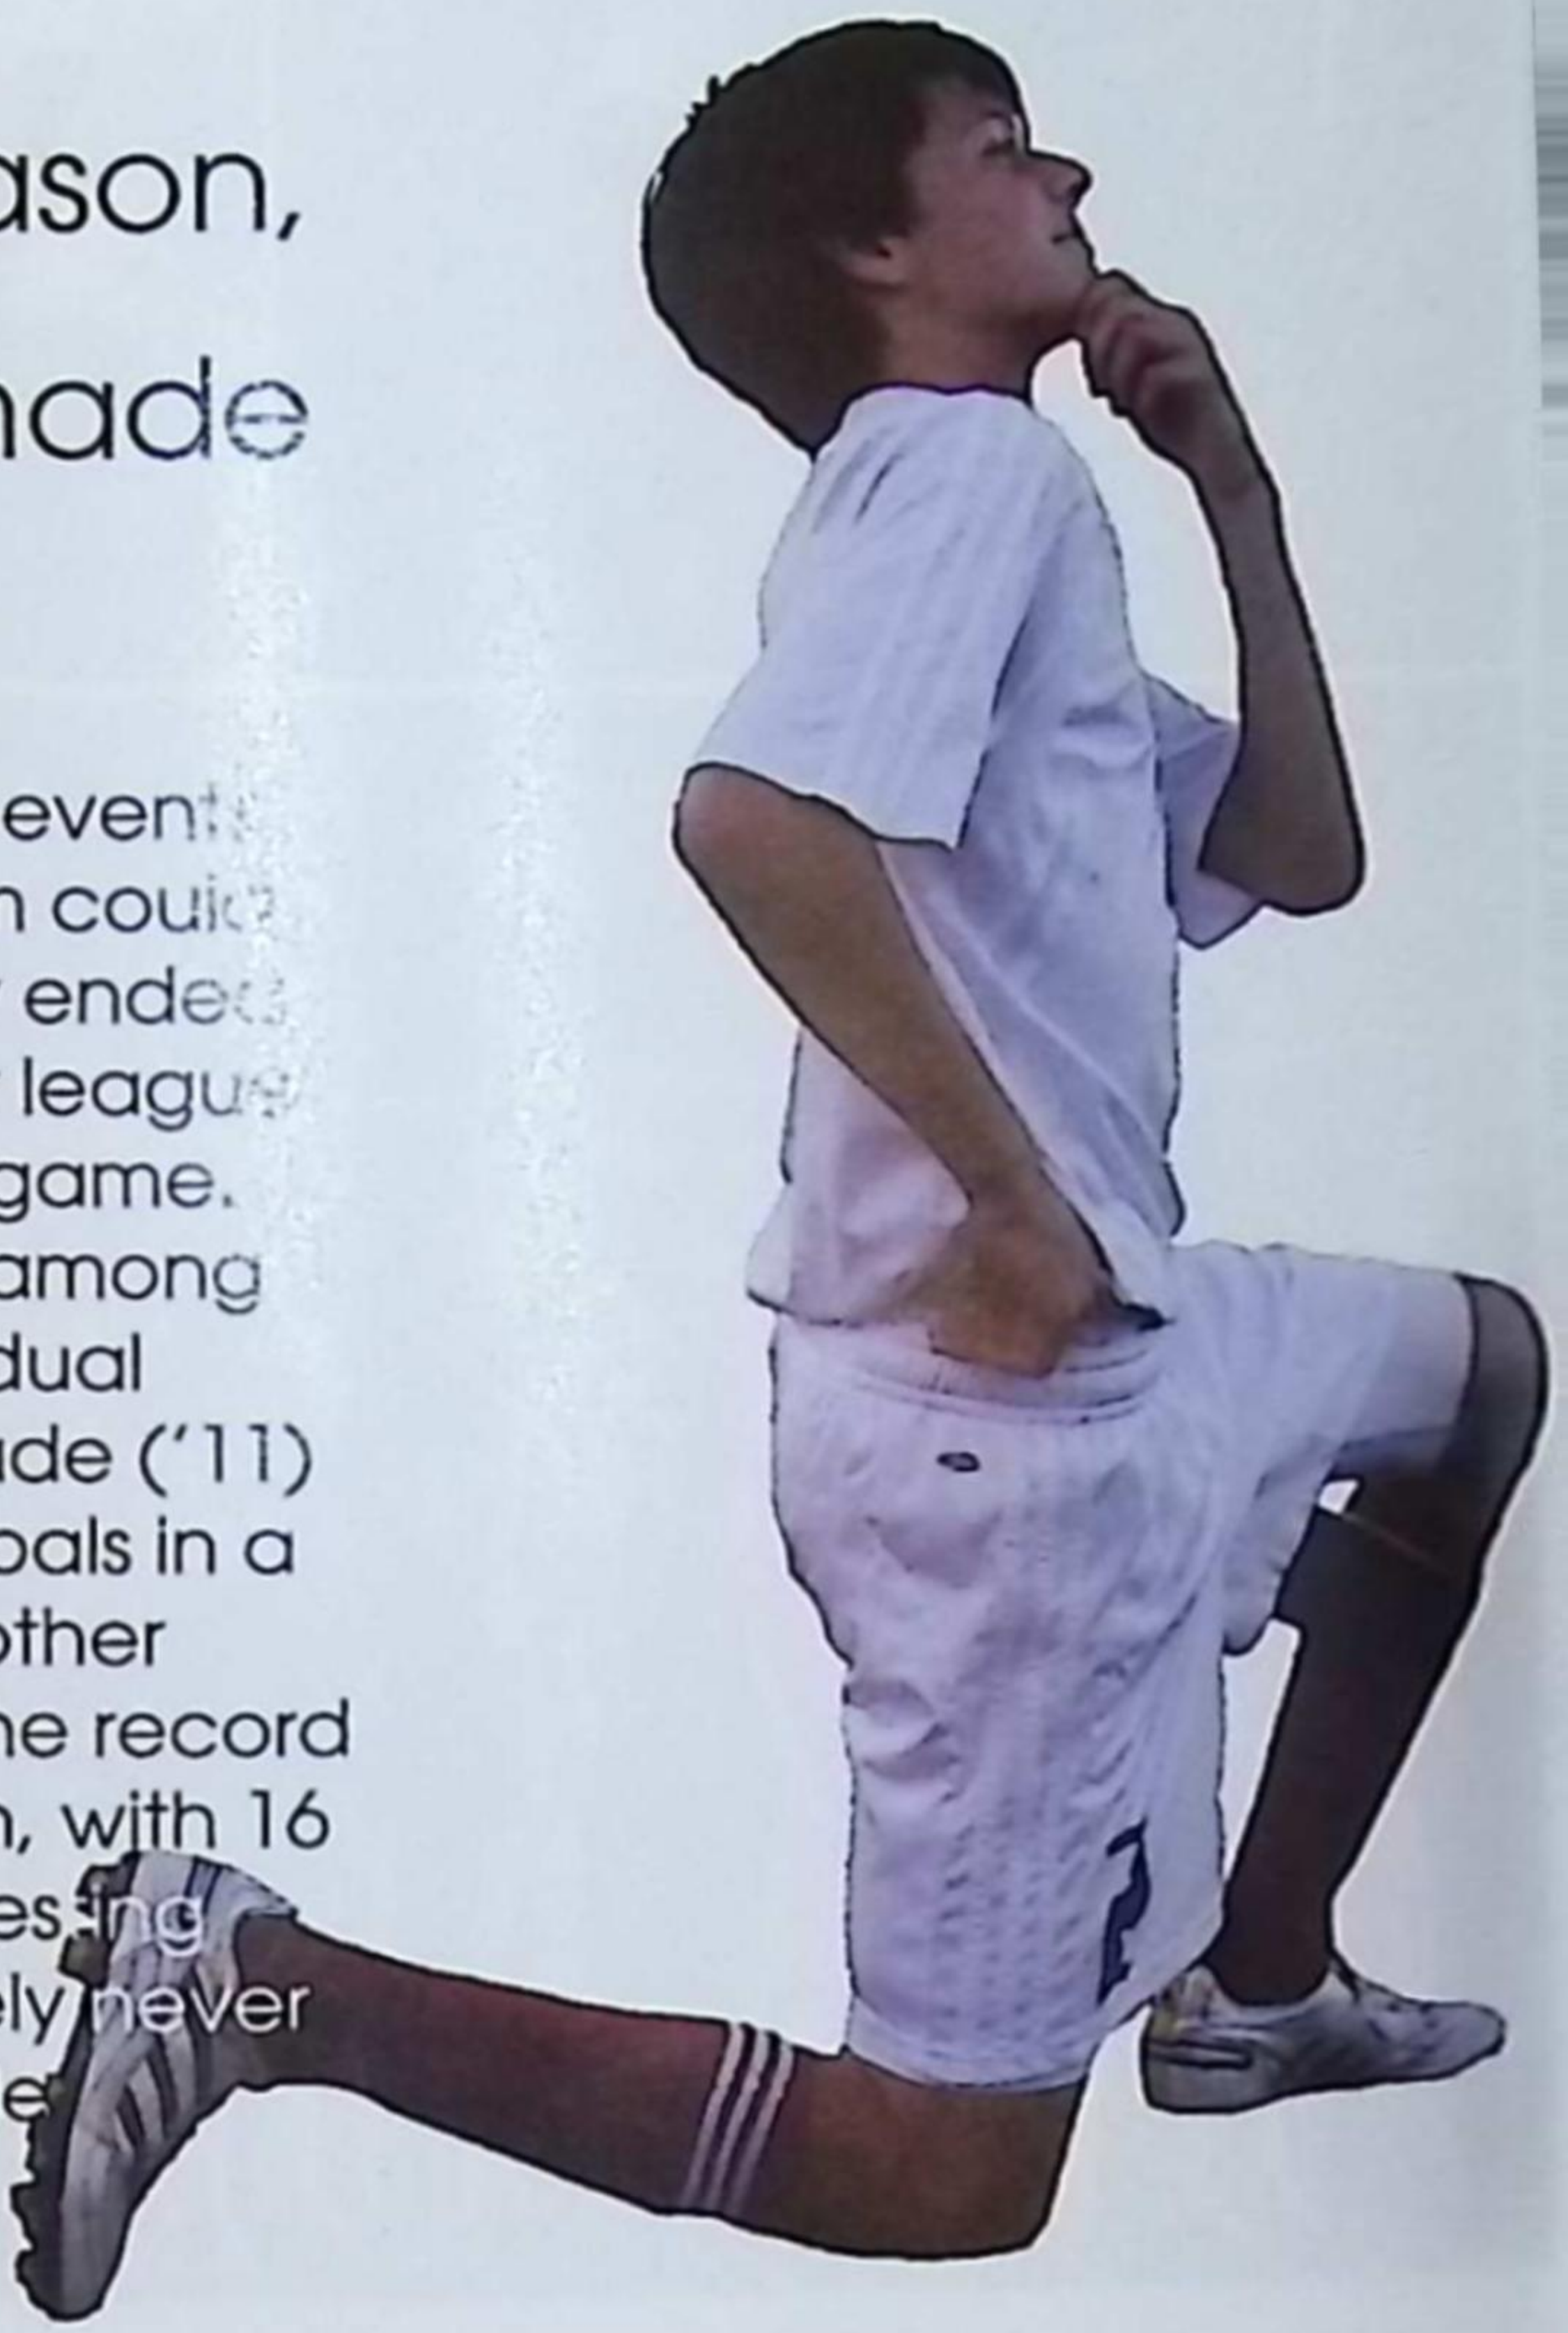
With many unique moments throughout the season, this year's boys' varsity soccer team has made memories they will never forget...



Probably the most eventful and most memorable activity from the season this year was the amateur mini-demolition derby. It all started with a few boys showing off and doing tricks after an exhausting summer practice. After "pulling donuts" and "spinning out" on the grass, one of the players, simply watching, got involved when his car was hit by his teammate. Ultimately, the police department was called. The accused were caught, and prosecuted to the fullest extent when they had to sit out for two consecutive games. The team was at a disadvantage for a few matches, but once these events were in the past, the team could focus on the season. They ended up getting second in their league and won their first district game. Other accomplishments, among players, were some individual record-setters. Jamie Smade ('11) got the record for most goals in a career, with 30 goals. Another senior, Lucas Vitale, got the record for most assists in a season, with 16 assists. With quite an interesting year, the boys will definitely never forget the memories made throughout the season.

What was the most memorable moment from Tiffin?

"Definitely the funniest thing ever was when we took Doug Ellis' bed and put it in the guys' bathroom and shower."

- Bret Bluhm ('12)

Oh man! There are a ton, but il would probably have to say seeing Steffy's insanely long nipple hair!"-

- Martin Crowley ('11)

"For losing one of the bets, we had to go up to some cheerleaders and tell them our names while we shook our butts."

- Ryan Schuh ('12)

"Well, Smade and Steffy had this crazy epic rap battle and it was so hilarious because they took it so seriously."

- Joshua Pranger ('11)

1. Getting parallel to the ground, Jamie Smade ('11) prepares for a powerful kick.
2. Flying through the air after a successful clear from the defensive zone, Brett Swantek ('11) watches his flawless kick, while his opponent falls beneath him.
3. Lucas Vitale ('11) makes a connection with the ball, sending it across the field to create a scoring opportunity.
4. Joshua Steffy ('11) slowly and steadily crawls across a log during Swamp Foot, to ensure he makes it safely across to the other side without falling into the frightening, freezing water below.

Let's Get Ready to Rumble

Junior and senior girls face each other for the first time as both teams, and the fans, anticipate what will happen next.

puff it up

powder puff

What do you call high school girls playing flag football, getting rough and tough? That's what we like to call Powder Puff.

Powder Puff is a fall tradition at SCHS; it gives the junior and senior girls the chance to get rough and tough playing some old fashioned flag football. This year, though, there was some difficulty with the weather. Both teams gathered in the stadium parking lot hanging out on opposite sides, both gathered around one person's car listening to music, dancing, and talking about their plan for victory. The game began and both teams came out playing hard. Shortly into the second quarter, lightning struck,all the girls considered their parade…rained on. When the game was called, the score was: seniors 2- juniors 0, and there were three running quarters left. When the game resumed two weeks later, the players were prepared to come back with a vengeance. However, the seniors, already up by two points; they made sure they held the junior girls at zero. Seniors prevailed in the end, beating the juniors by 10.

"Well we'll float on good news is on the way. And we'll all float on, ok."

- Modest Mouse

With the end of summer comes the return to school and hard work. Although school can be a drag, we are fortunate to have an awesome Homecoming spirit week, along with an outstanding Homecoming dance. With participation low the last two years, the organizers of the Homecoming spirit week and the Homecoming dance, Student Council, decided to take a different approach and cut back a bit. They scaled back on the spirit hours, to one spirit hour on Tuesday and one on Friday, and no floats at the Homecoming parade. This year however, our Saints' spirit is coming back with a vengeance.

With participation at about 65% on our first spirit day, 72% on our second red and blue day, and an average of 85% on our Homecoming red and blue day, we are bringing on the heat. Last year's Saints may have been slacking on spirit but things have taken a much appreciated turn for the better in 2010.

Music blaring, lights flashing, every heart racing as we jump, groove, and shimmy. Legs aching with the beat of the music, sweat soaking our new dresses and suits, mouths dry from the howl of pure joy. The pain and soreness will set in later, but during the dance, the music pulses and exudes excitement. Although this year's Homecoming week was more subdued, Saints' spirit was still bursting through the seams. Homecoming is a way for students to dress up, get down with friends, and just blow off some steam. This year we enforced a new dance policy with wristbands. Although the chaperones and the teachers seemed to like the idea, students thought otherwise. Students were forced to wear a wristband to help enforce proper dance behavior; if a student was misbehaving then the wristband would be cut and if they were caught again they would be dismissed. Even with the new dancing rules students had a great time and memorable evening.

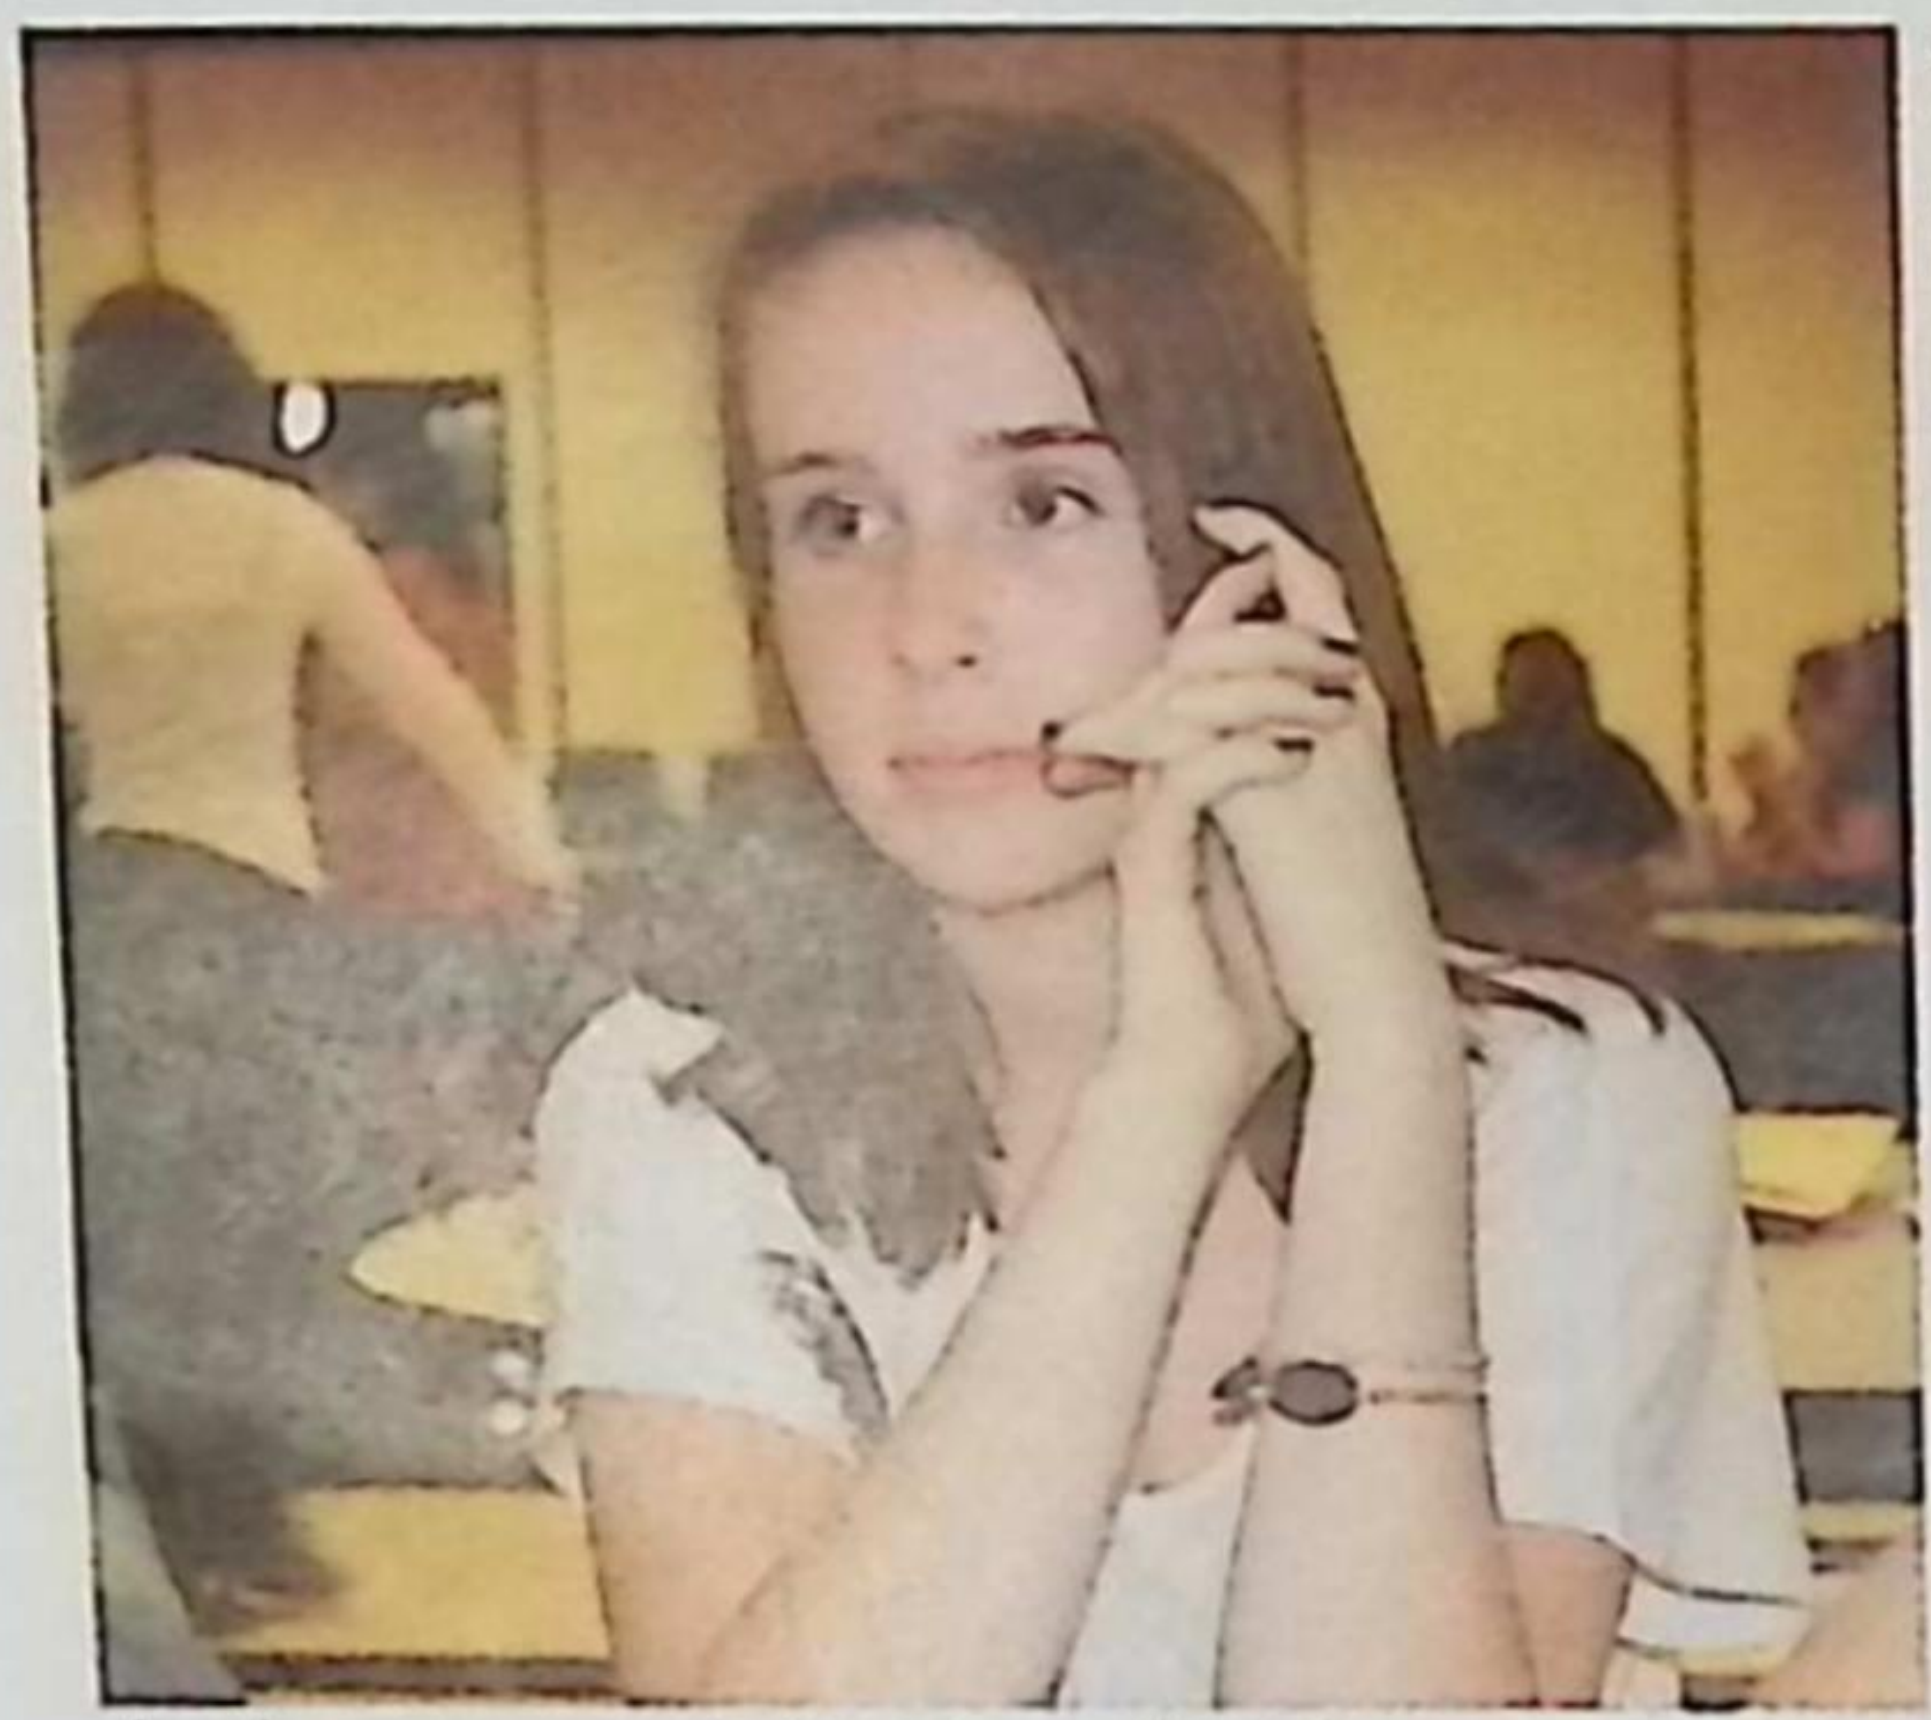
Whether they are setting up for dances, exchanging spirit tickets for candy at lunch, or running pep assemblies, Student Council is always working towards entertaining the St Clair High School student body.



Student Council is an organization that does many things for our school. It allows students the opportunity to be involved in deciding what activities happen at their school and encourages them to participate in school events. Student Council invests a great deal of time into making school a more exciting place to be. By planning and running activities inside and outside of school, Student Council brings out the spirit in students and staff alike. Many activities run by Student Council are intended to promote school spirit and support for the many organizations here at Saint Clair High School and in our community.By orchestrating activities that everybody can partake in, Student Council encourages students to become involved. Student Council is a great organization for its members because they learn new leadership skills at every meeting and are constantly being challenged.

"Deathtrap: two-thirds thriller, one-third comedy, all thirds amazing."

2010 marks the Saint Clair High School Theatre Troop's 84th consecutive season. To start the season off strong, the troop presented the thriller-comedy Deathtrap. One of the main characters, Sidney Bruhl, played by William Cedar ('11), is a playwright experiencing some "writer's block". He grew envious of the famous writer, Clifford Anderson, who was played by Cody Armstrong ('11). The play ended with a dramatic fight between the two that proved fatal for both. Though it was hard for them to relate to their character's personalities, the students did an incredible job portraying them. The theatre troop pours many hours of hard work into the plays they perform. Deathtrap gave the audience a lot of laughs, and many moments of suspense for all to enjoy.

Even though some look down on the band members, we can all learn something from them...

The stereotypical band geek. That is what always comes to mind when people talk about marching band. But that's not always the case. But, even if it is, what's the big deal? You see them at every football game in the stands, laughing amongst their closest friends. They cheer excitedly for the football team, and they express their happiness, regardless of what people around them may think. They absolutely love the people that they're with, and they are always making the most of their high school years. The do not care whether or not their peers think they're "cool," they just care about what makes them happy. Band isn't just a positive outlook on life, it's a way of life. No matter what, the band members are proud to show their true selves and express their love for band.

Choir is not just a class. It's a breeding ground. It's a place where freindships thrive and creativity is explored Choir. It's not your typical class. It's an opportunity to express your talents as well as have a little fun. It also has the power to bring a wide range of people together. This class eliminates any predetermined "cliques", and allows people to meet, and get to know, their peers from different groups or grades. The students in choir represent the whole school, and when they perform, it shows the true unity and togetherness of SCHS. When students can see others getting along and talking to new people, they hopefully can emerge from their o comfort zones, and prove our school is a diverse and connected community. By taking choir class, students not only get to expand their talents, but they can majorly influence their peers, as well as the entire school. Everyone is definitely greatful to have such a sucessful music program that can affect so many.

Why did you join NHS?

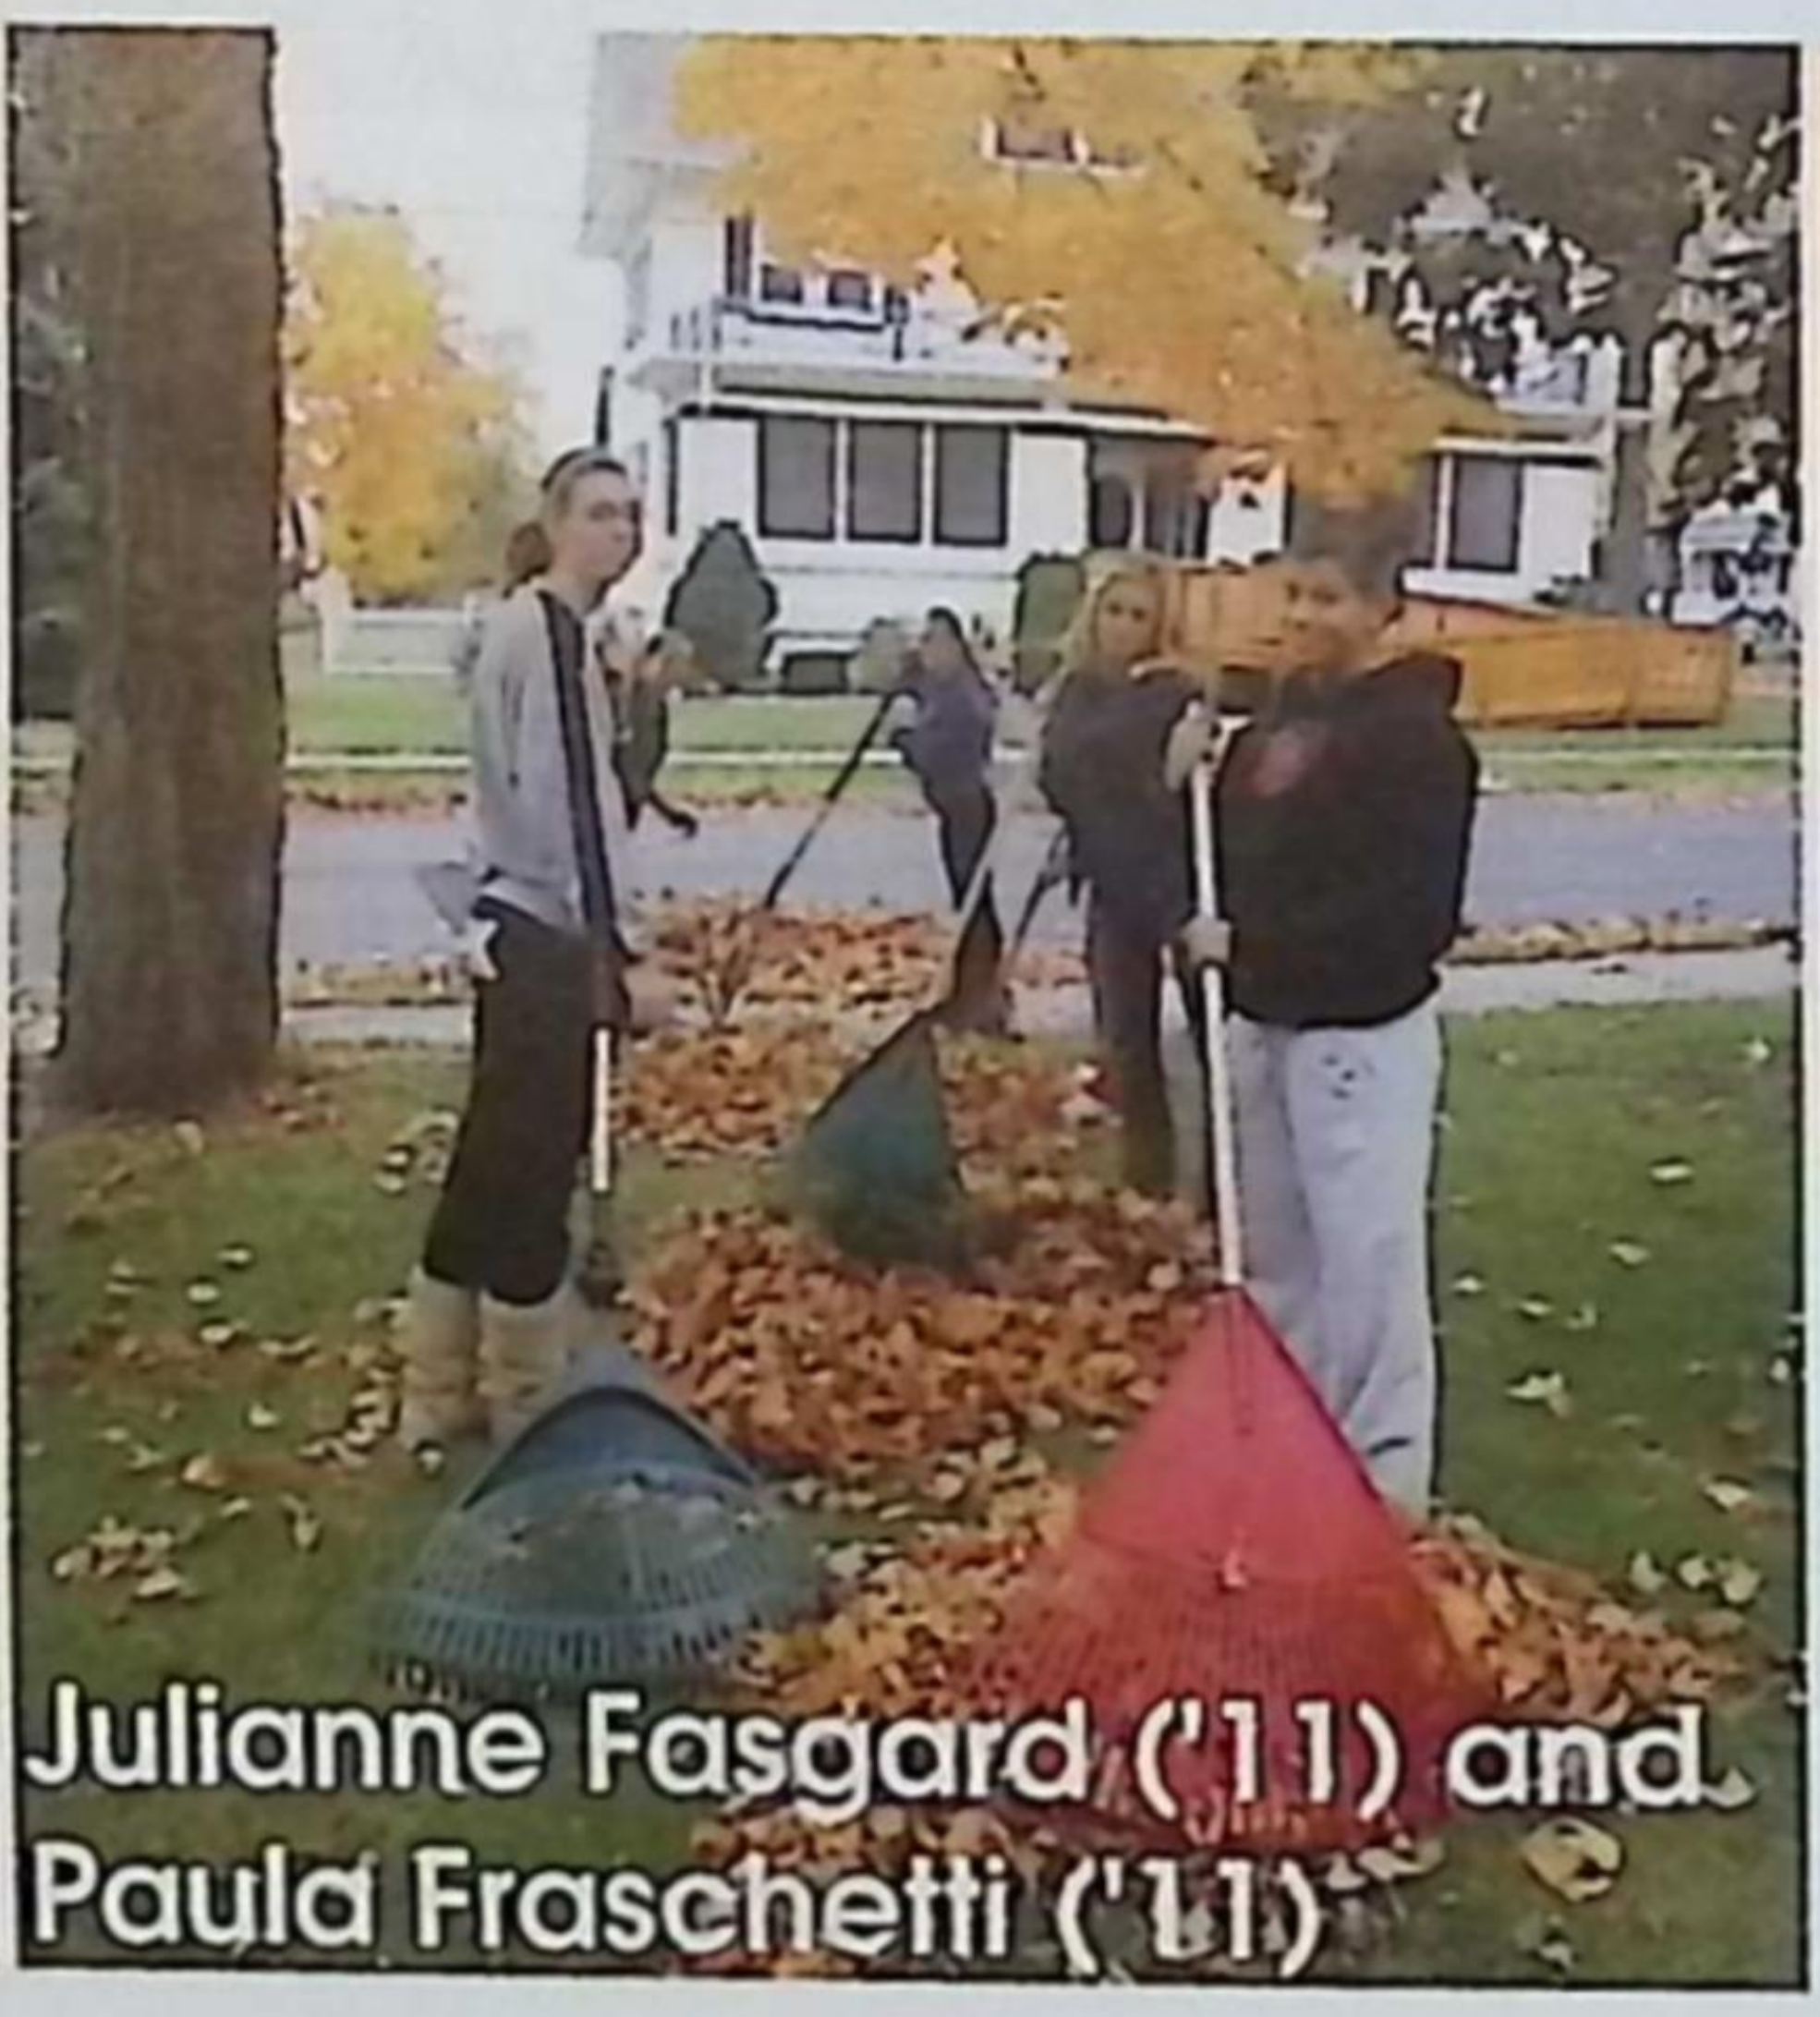
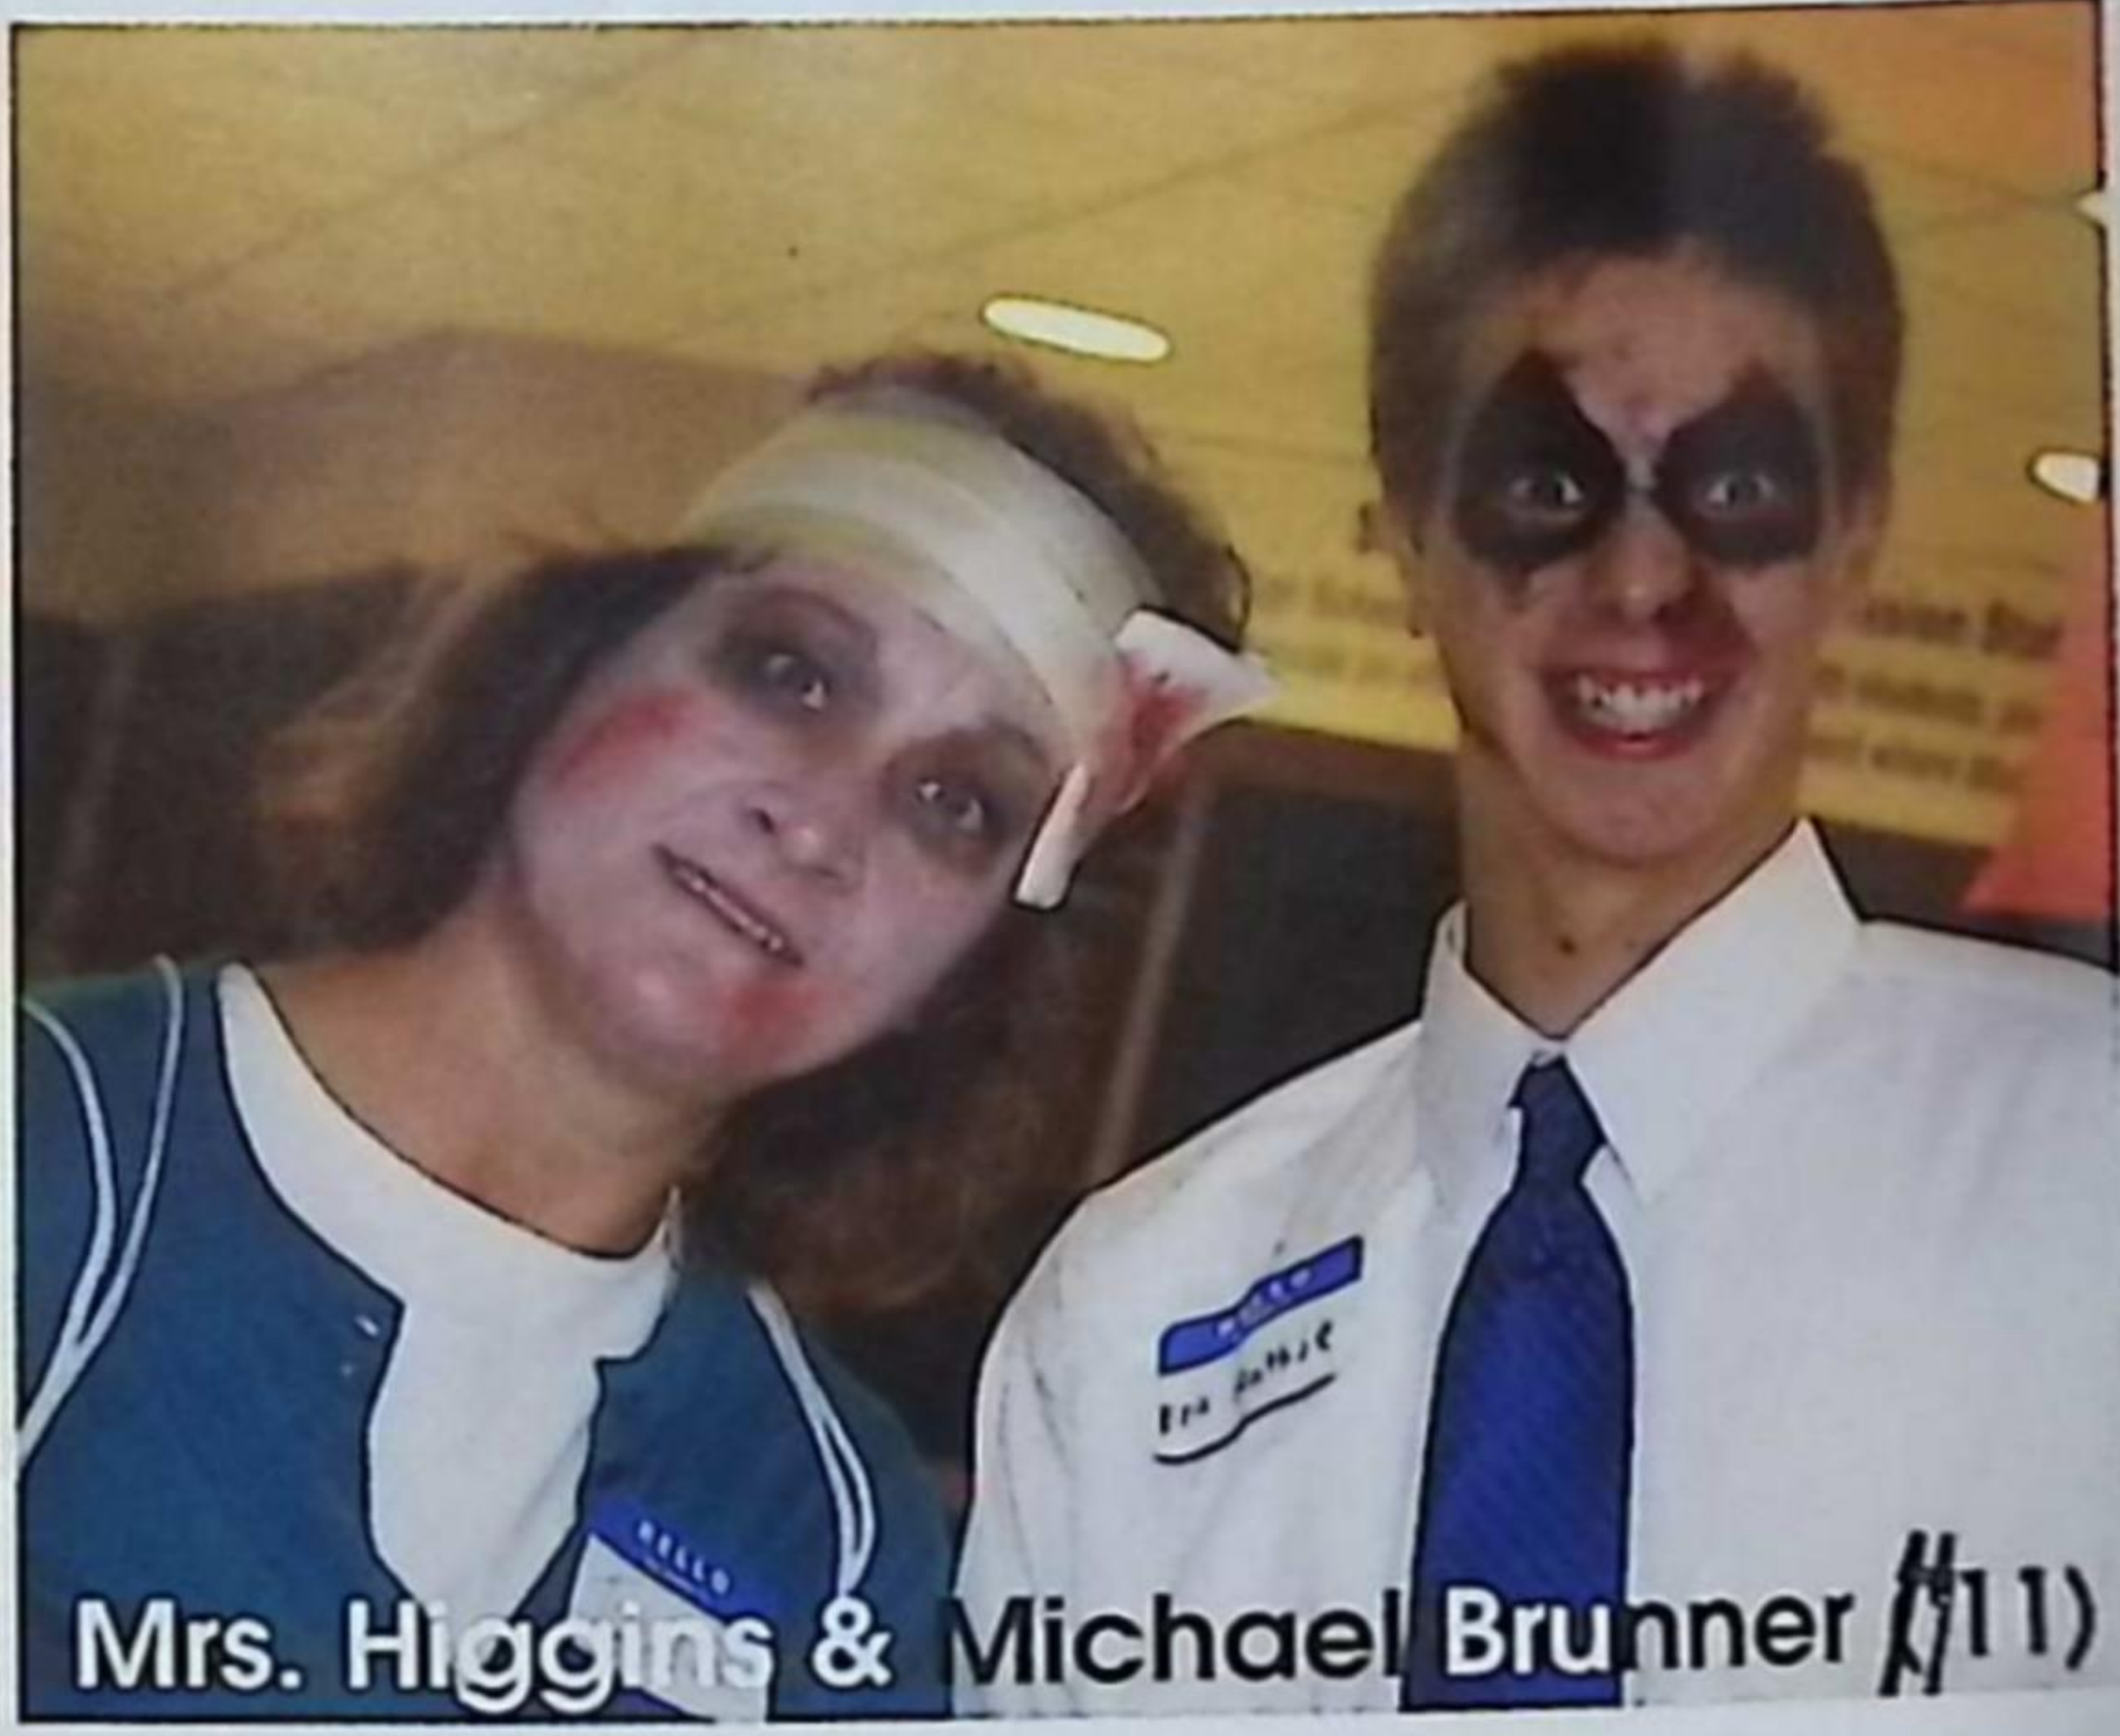
The NHS members were asked why they joined in the first place. Here are their answers.



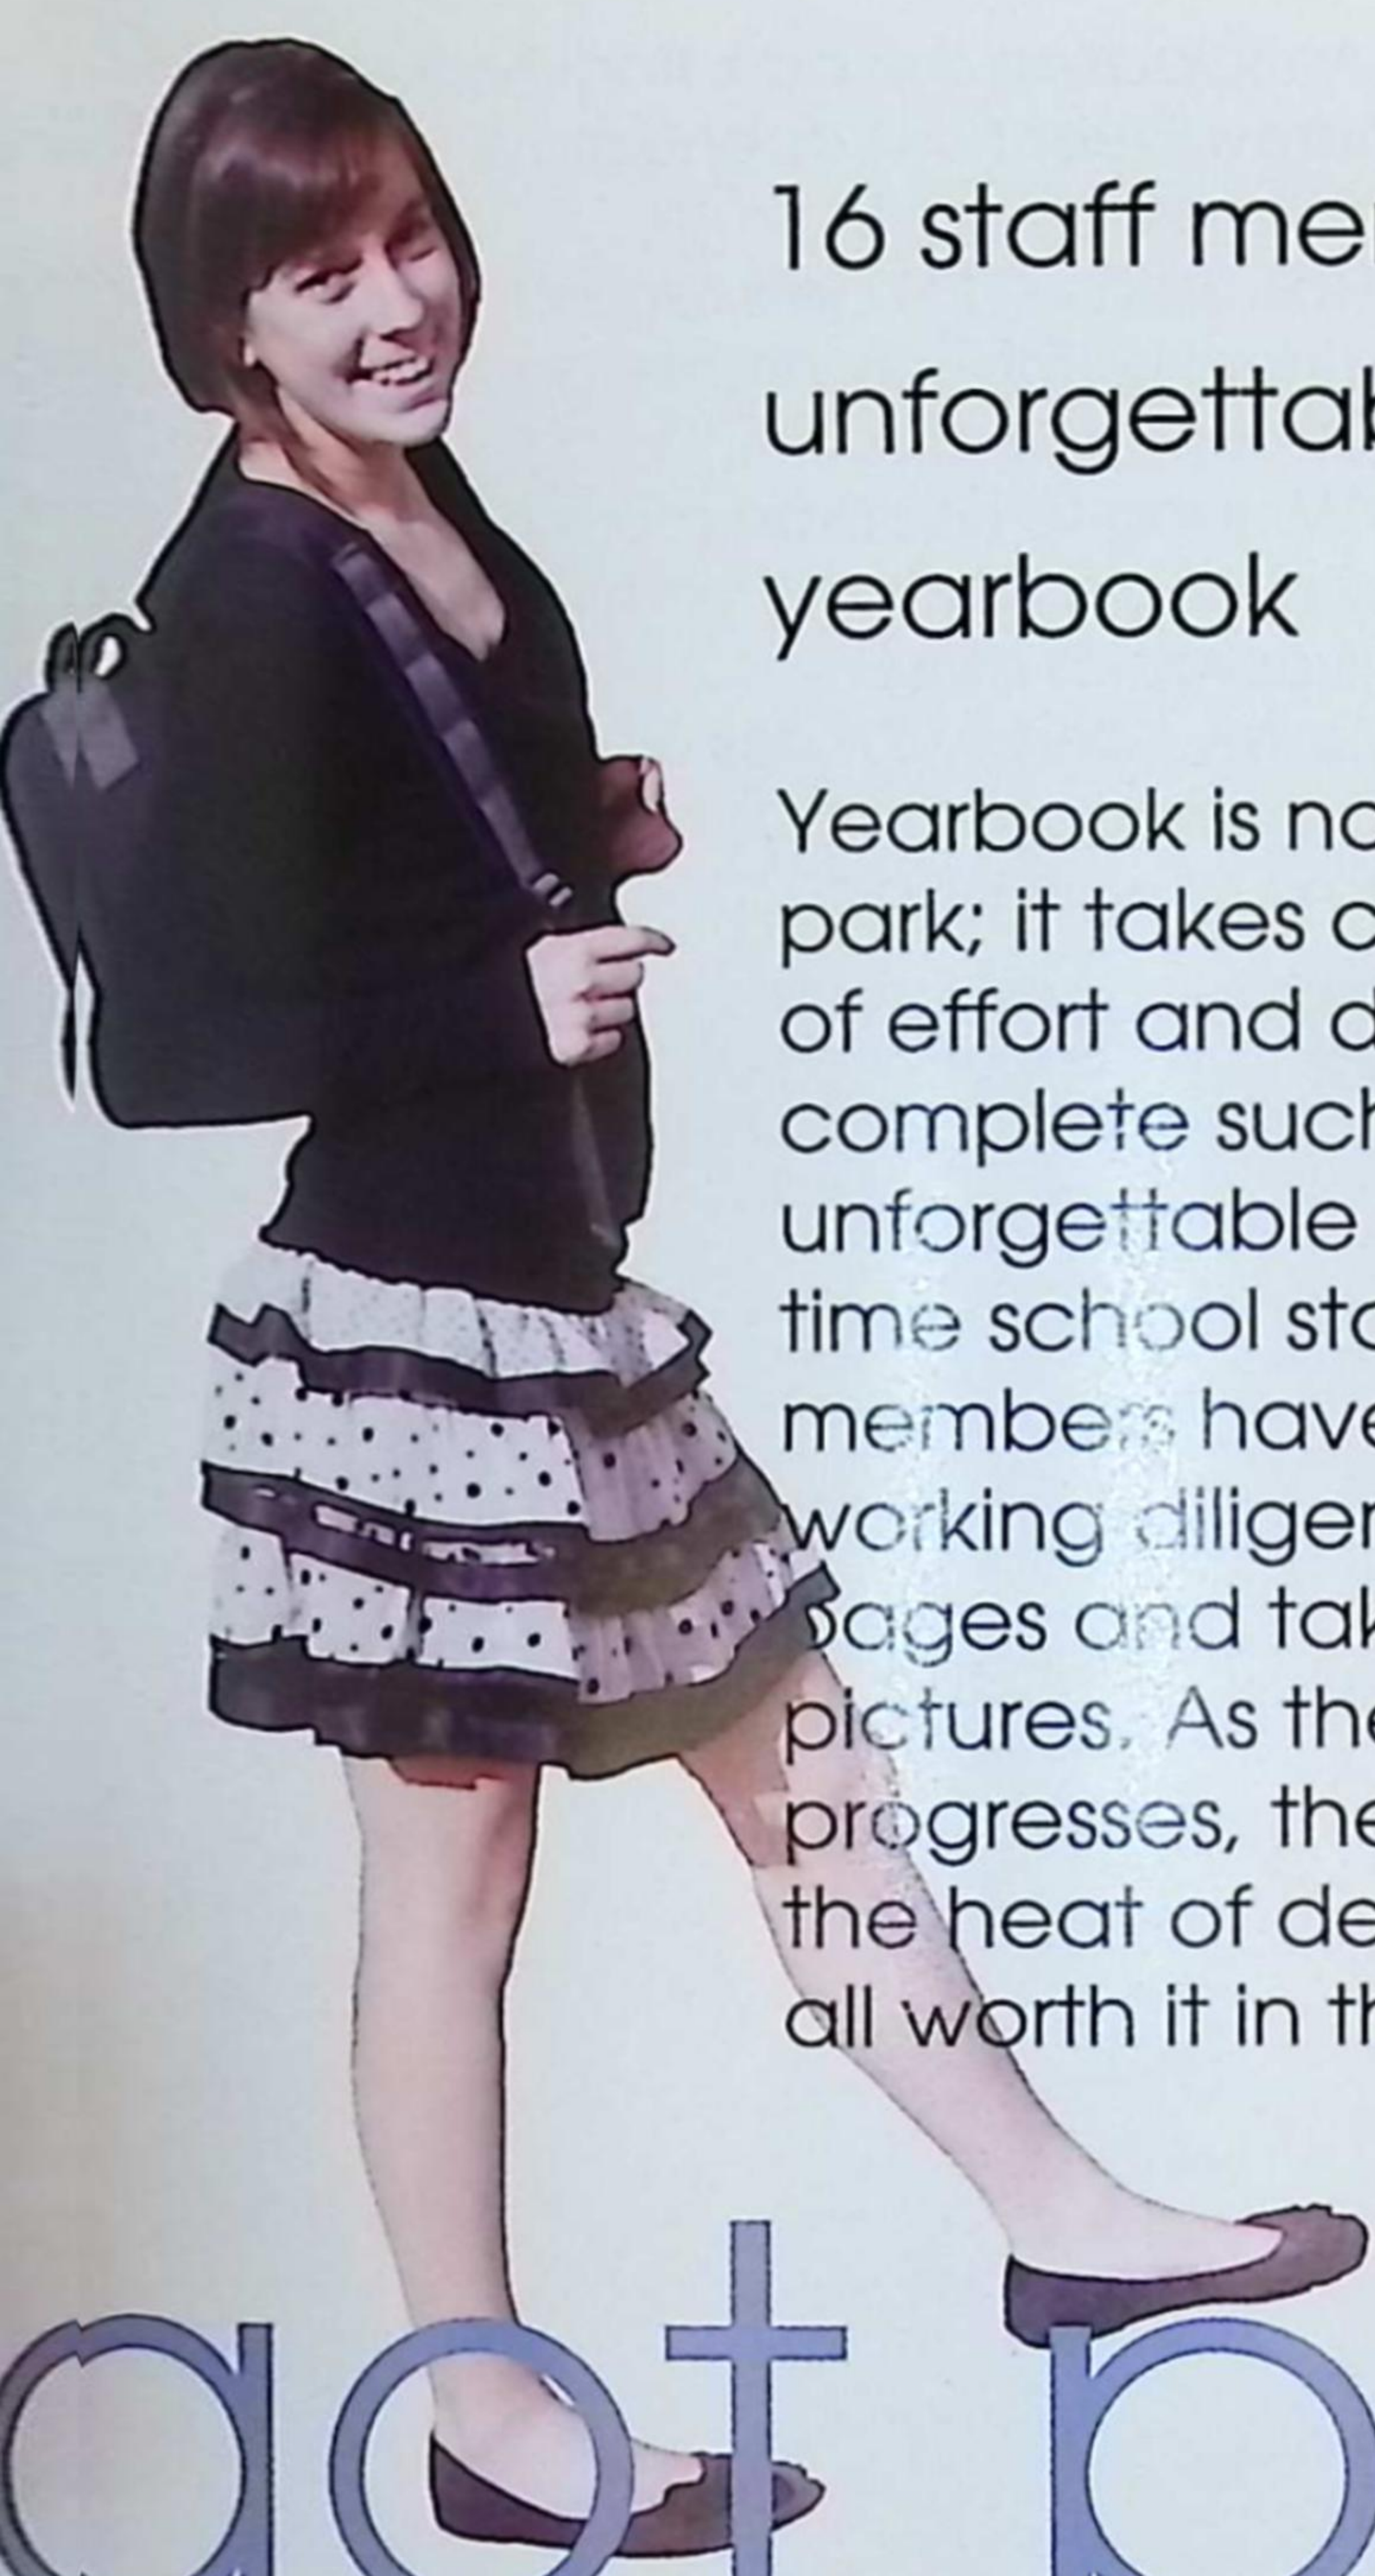
Julianne Fasgard ('11) and Paula Fraschetti ('11)



Mrs. Higgins & Michael Brunner ('11)

Hours of devoted community service, crazy haunted houses, and intense set ups, it's what NHS is all about.

National Honors Society helps out the community and helps SCHS students unite for a purpose. From haunted houses to Rake-n-Run, NHS sponsors many community events. Haunted Hollows High was the haunted house on by NHS this year. As you walked through the black hallways, every turn was met with surprise and suspense. Mrs. Higgins, advisor for NHS at SCHS, says, "The Haunted House is one of the most popular events NHS puts on; many of the members attended when they were younger." Mrs. Higgins has been in charge of the program for over 10 years. The real importance of NHS, though, is to encourage high school students to become involved and to help their community.



16 staff members + stressful deadlines + unforgettable memories = One amazing yearbook

Yearbook is no walk in the park; it takes countless hours of effort and dedication to complete such an unforgettable task. By the time school starts, staff members have already been working diligently on their pages and taking numerous pictures. As the school year progresses, they experience the heat of deadlines, but it's all worth it in the end. It's not all work and no play, though, "One day when we were all working on our computers, a fuse blew. Everyone gasped and looked around, thinking that it only happened to them. But after a few seconds, everyone started laughing. We did learn a good lesson that day, save frequently," says staffer Danielle Donakowski.

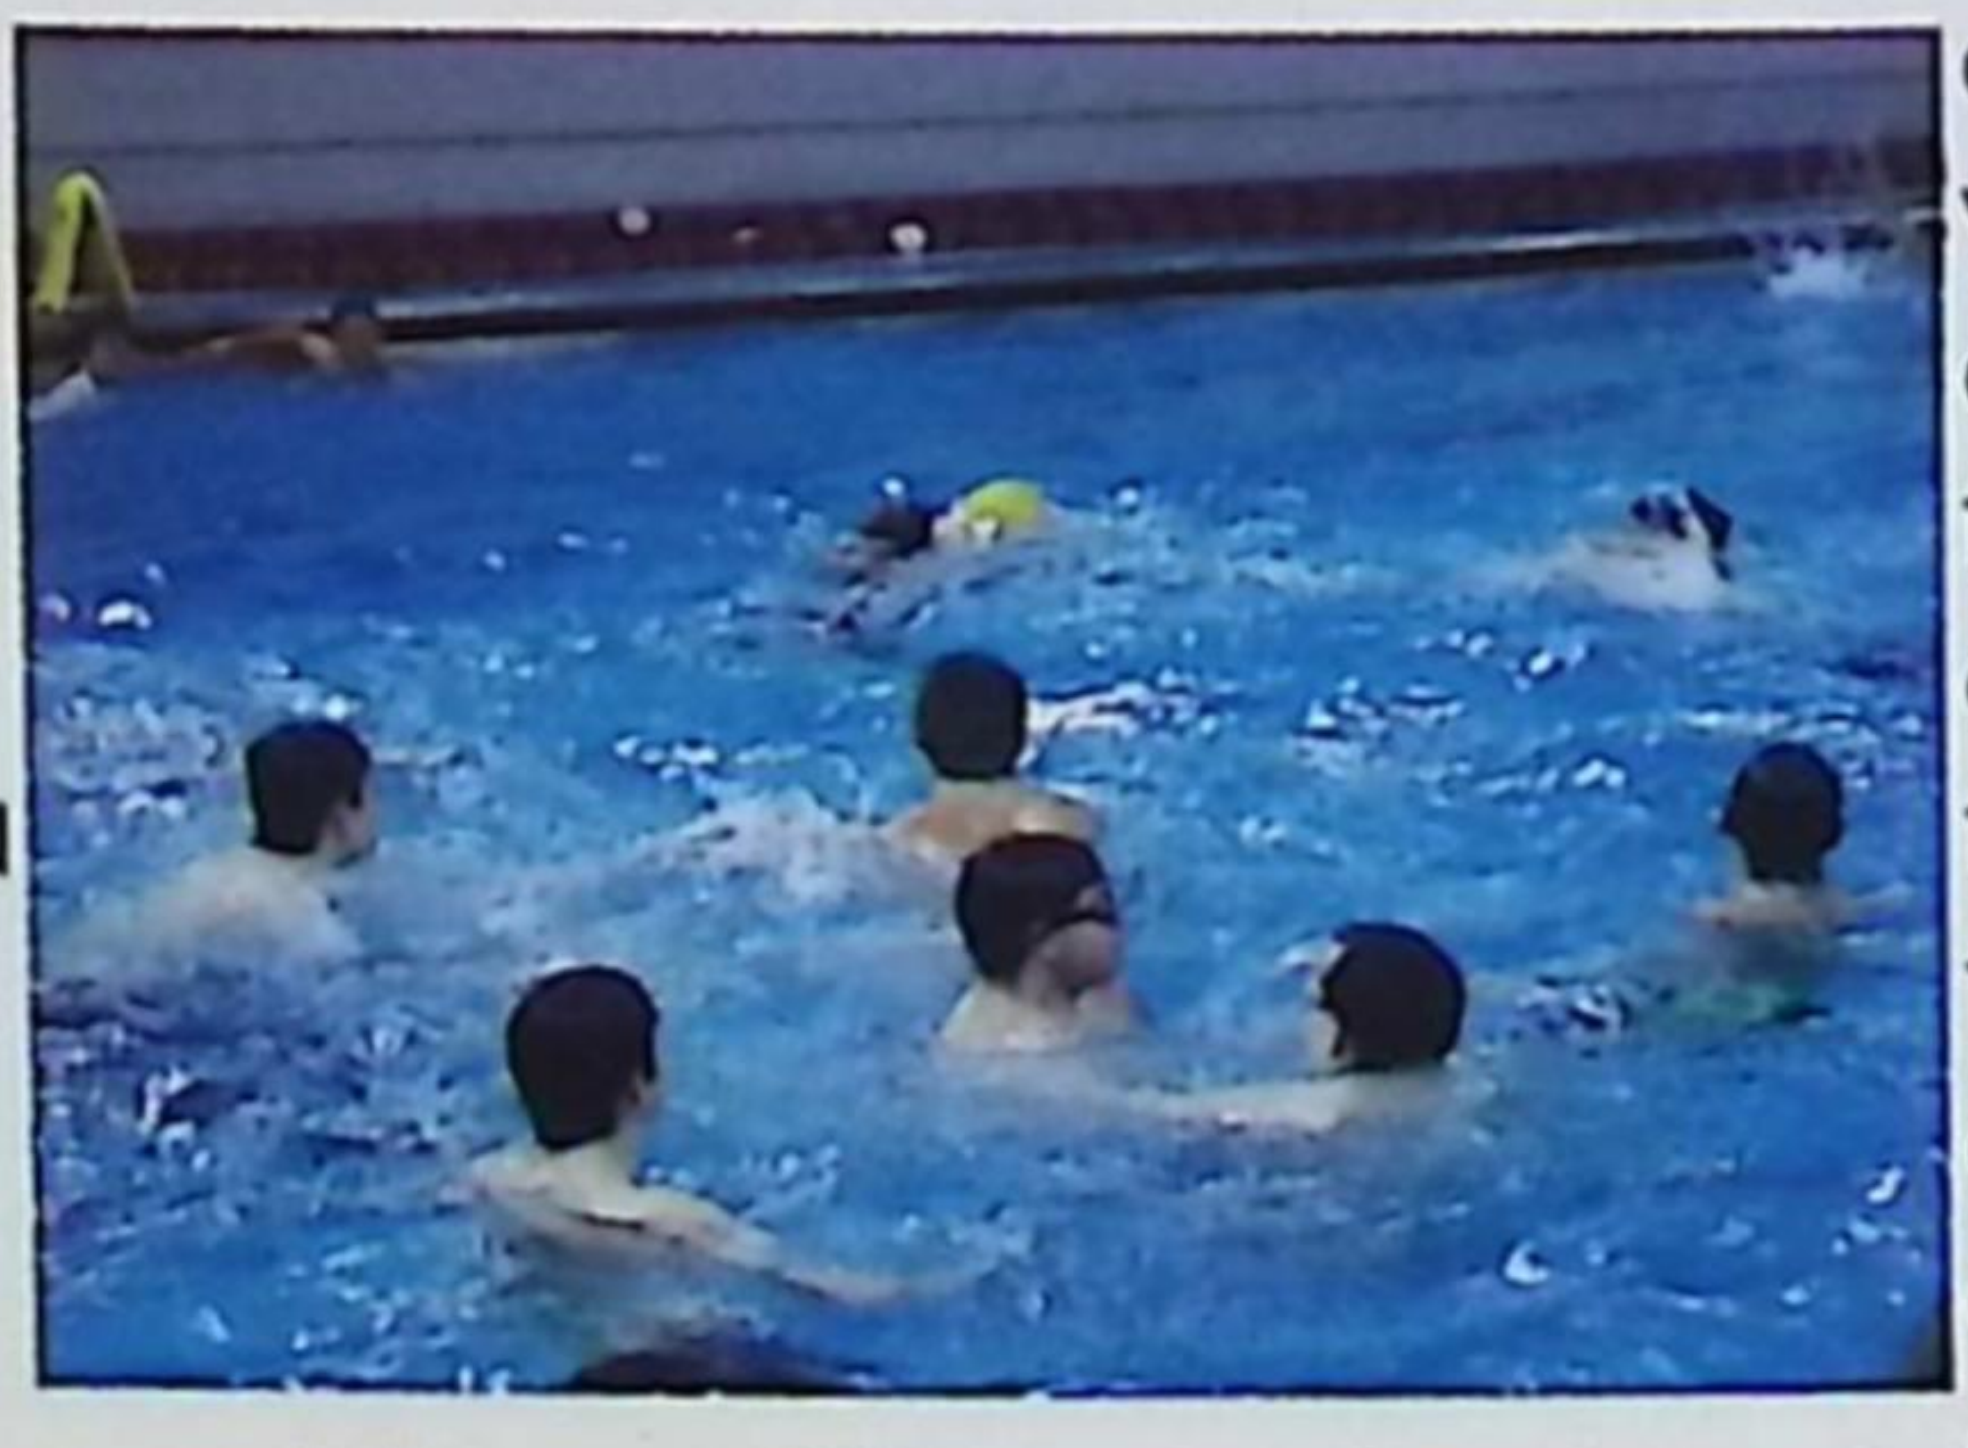
"Let's get physical, physical, physical!"
- Olivia Newton- John



Welcome to physical education! This is the only class in the school that will test your endurance, build your stamina, and allow you to release all of your pent up energy. You can walk into gym class guaranteed not to be asked to open up a textbook. Gym breaks up a students' lecture filled day by adding a little physical activity and helping them keep in shape. As a required class, every student sets foot in a gym class once in their four years at SCHS, but after a semester of gym most fall in love and take other classes in their future years. There are five different physical education options available, but no matter which one students pick they are sure to break a sweat, and leave much more fit than when they entered.

Creativity. There is no better place to express originality and individuality than art class. Each piece of art work has a different feeling, a different meaning, and certainly a different story behind it. Art is a course at St. Clair High School that allows students to release their stress and dive into their creative talents. They can let their passion flow through their pencils and brushes and onto their canvases. In art there is no right or wrong, just simply an idea that a student molds and shapes to make it their own. Some students do not even know the talent that they possess until they step into their first art class. The course does not judge you for who you are, or what you can do, but instead the amount of passion you put into your next masterpiece.

Learning a different language can help you get into a better college, meet new people, or just make you sound cultured in front of your friends.

Foreign language is very different than any of the other classes students can take at St Clair High School. Learning a foreign language makes students realize how hard it must be to learn their own language. The simplicity of some languages shows how complex the English language truly is. Although knowing a foreign language may not seem useful all the time, it may be necessary when traveling or in business. Whether you are just seeking help from people at a foreign hotel or doing business somewhere far away from home, it is helpful to know a foreign language. Knowledge of a foreign language is helpful towards communicating with many different people. Knowing some Spanish is helpful in many countries, from Mexico to Spain itself. From traveling to just hanging out with friends, knowing a foreign language can be very useful.

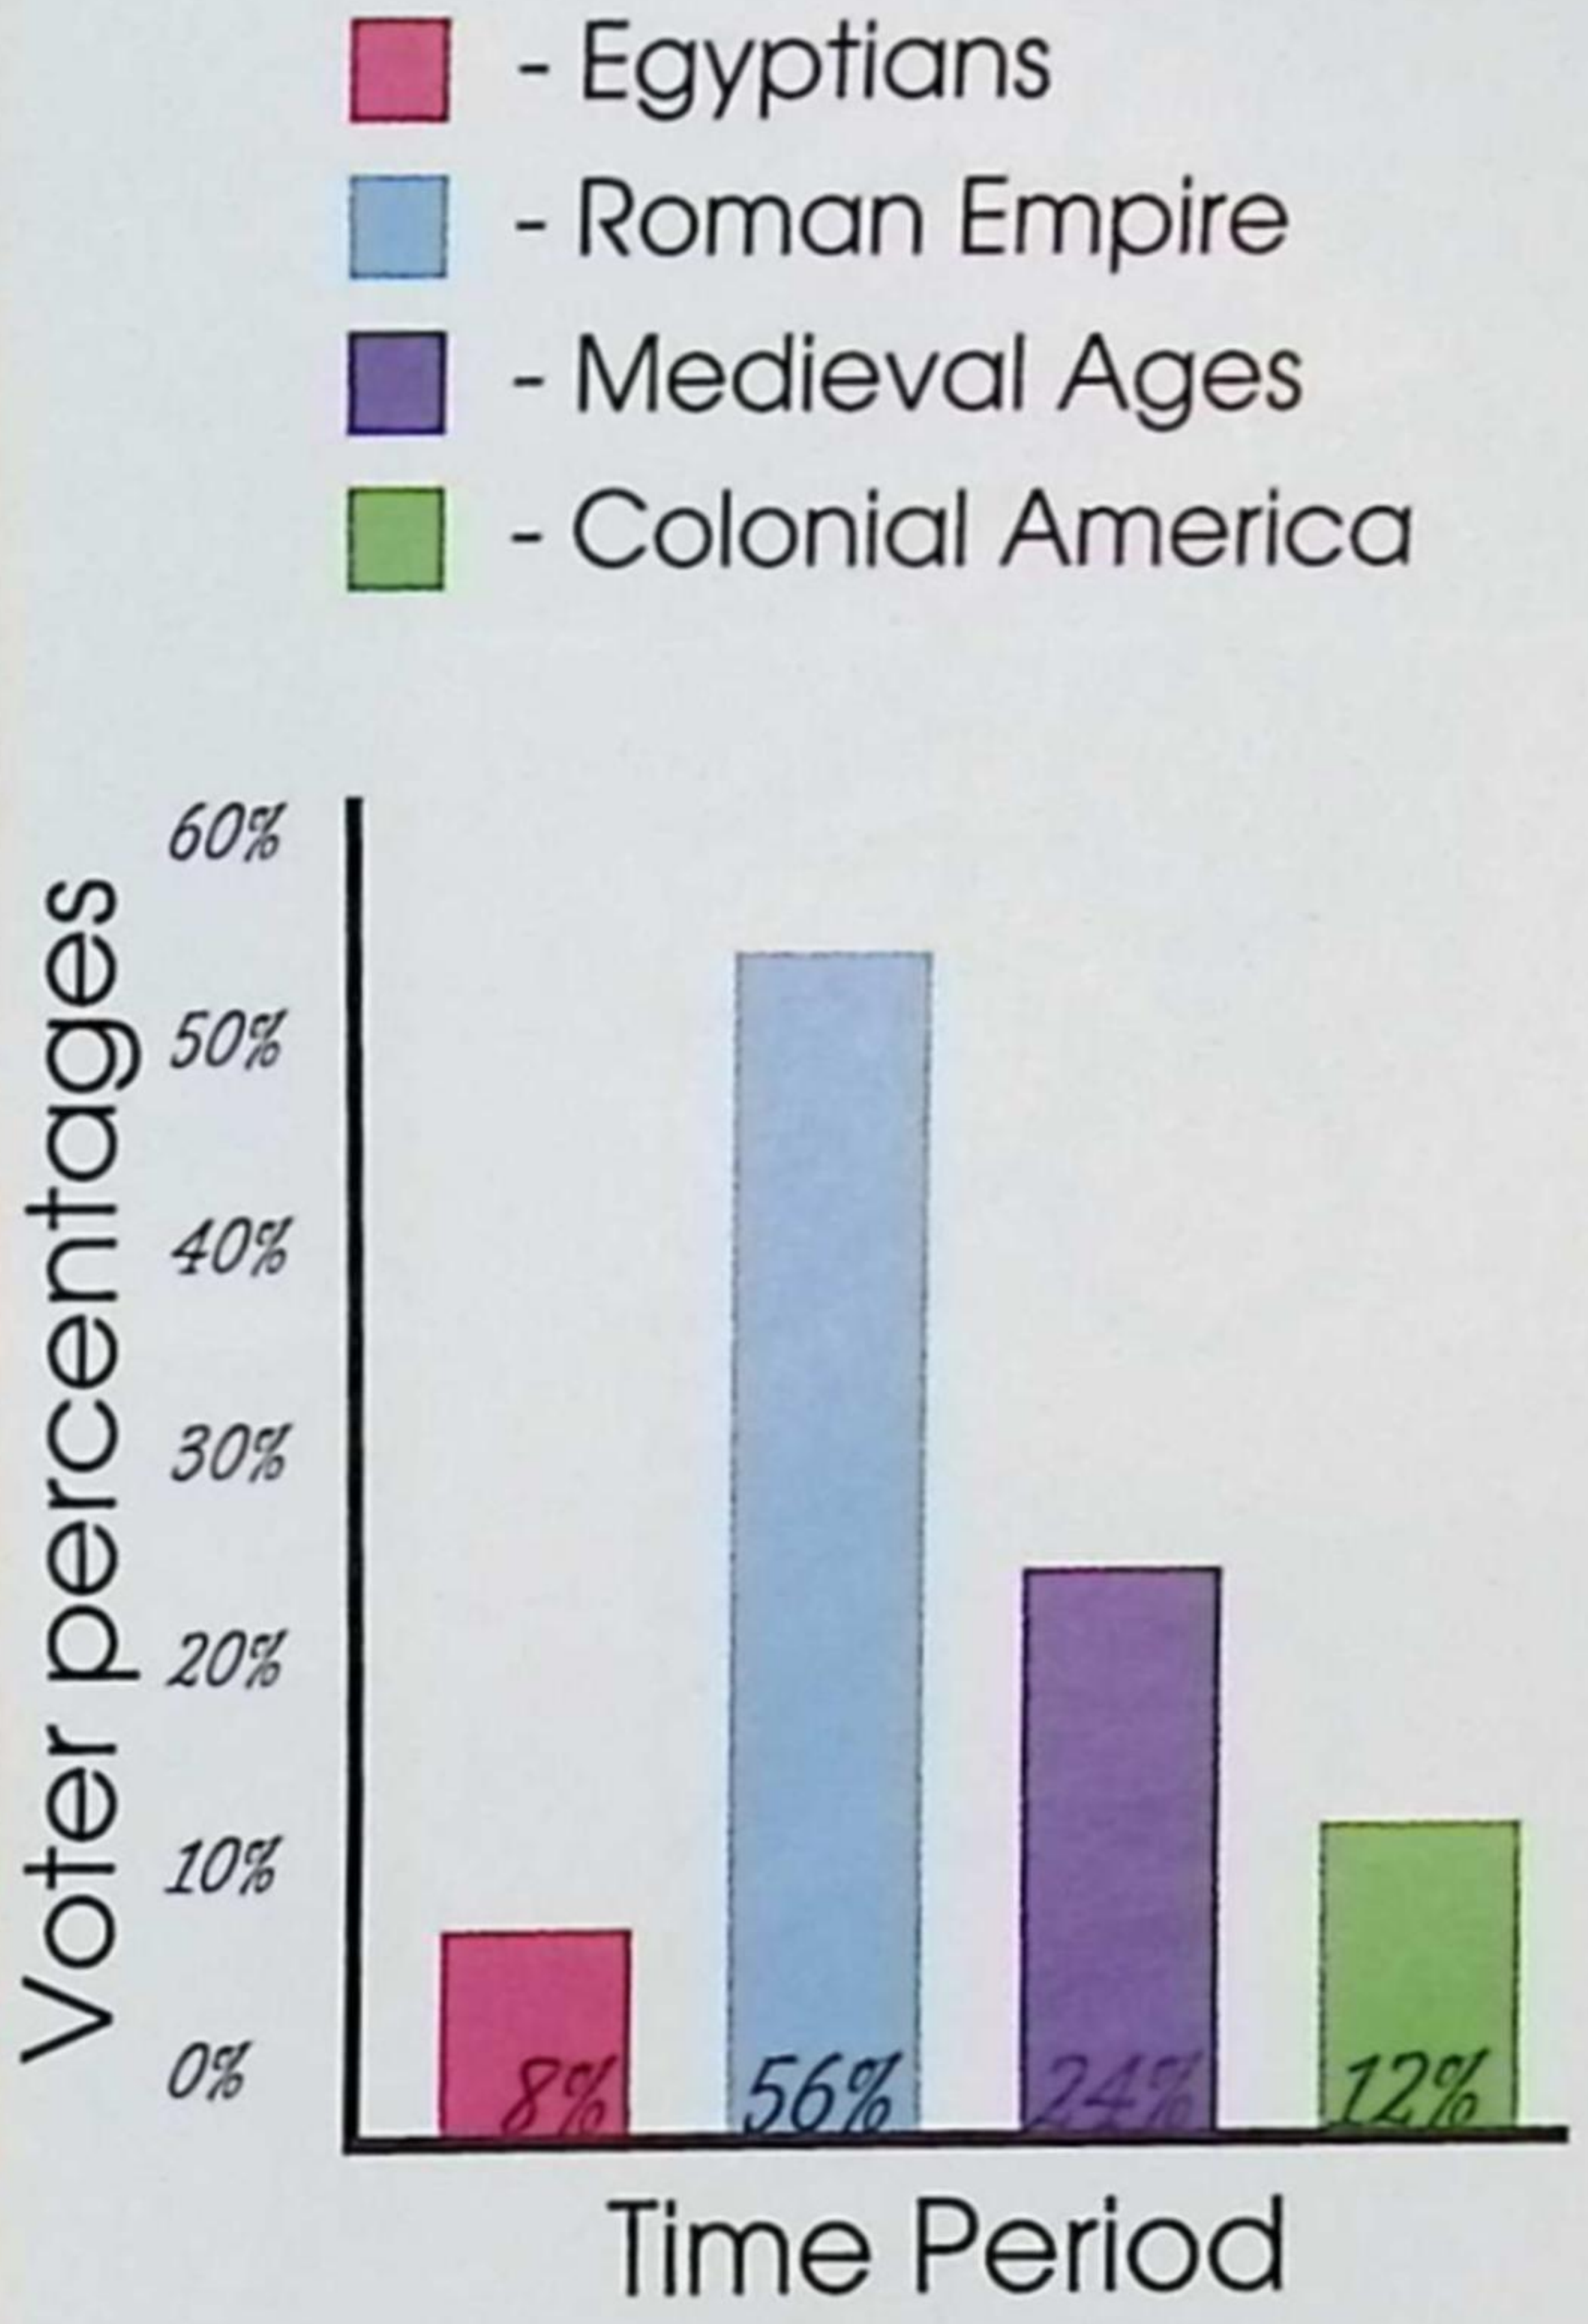
What time period would you live in?



From the fall of the Roman Empire to the fall of the Berlin Wall, there are a wide variety of events to learn about in history class, and all students at St Clair High School are graced with the privilege of doing so.

History class is about studying things that have happened in the past and learning from them. Students in Mr. Fox's World History classes had the chance to learn about different events and people through projects presented by nine groups. Each group had three or four students and was assigned one subject, like the Han Dynasty. After researching and taking notes, groups worked together to create a report and a colorful poster to present their subject. Students showed off their poster to the class while other members of the group read some of the report. Learning about multiple events is made more fun by listening to a vibrant presentation, rather than reading endless chapters in a history book. History class gives students a chance to learn from past mistakes and study what worked and what didn't. "History is a Greek word which means, literally, just investigation."

her side of the story

"Every couple usually has some cute, romantic, fairy tale-like story about how they met, and I wish I could say the same. Justin's best friend started dating my sister, so before I knew it, this complete stranger was showing up at my house. It wasn't long before they dragged me along on double dates. I acted like I didn't want to be there, being that I didn't want to be 'more than friends' with Justin, but surprisingly, I found myself getting butterflies in my stomach whenever he looked at me. It wasn't long after that when Valentine's Day came around and things went so well that night while we hung out, he decided to ask me to be his girlfriend. I said no. I know, what was I thinking? And the answer to that was that I wasn't thinking. Justin could make me laugh when I wanted to cry, he listened to me when I needed someone to talk to, and no matter what we did, we always had a good time together. So a couple weeks later at Winterfest, I called him my boyfriend in front of everyone, and that happy, surprised look on his face reassured me that I made the right choice."

Winter is known for being cold and icy, and at many times, unpredictable. With a huge blizzard that literally took people by storm, weather stations stated that it was the highest snow totals in Michigan since 2005. We've only received this much snow eight times since 1900. The storm was affectionately referred to as: Sno-pocalypse, Sno-mageddon, Sno-Bama, Sno-Job, Ground Hog White Out, Sno-Secret, and Getting Blizzard. Schools across the state were closed; students were snowed in for days and roads were unusable. As the saying goes, though, "If you don't like the weather in Michigan, wait 5 minutes, it will change".

The annual Pink Halo tournament always brings around an extra competitive edge for the St. Clair Saints, and the Varsity Boy's Basketball team was ready for it.Not only is this tournament against our greatest rivals, the Marine City Mariners, but it is also for the Pink Halo trophy given to the overall winners of the tournament. St. Clair won five of the six games. All of the boys' varsity basketball players stepped up for this game. After a fairly slow start, Kyle Bashaw ('12) came out and got the team, and the crowd, fired up with a three pointer and a buzzer beater at the end of the first quarter. The boys were unguarded all night from the three point line - a big mistake on Marine City's part. Scott Young ('11), Kyle Bashaw ('12), Tyler Lozen ('13), and Tyler Gee ('12) were all able to drain a shot from outside the arch, and Joel Seddon ('11) was able to knock two down. Jeremy Carrell ('12), Scott Young, Joel Seddon, and Drew Smith ('12) were all able to draw the foul and get to the foul line for a combined ten times. The Mariners did not just give the Saints the victory - the Saints took it.

Basketball: 18 games, 13 players, 1 team. For some, basketball is a release, for others, it's simply a hobby. Yet for the dedicated athletes on the freshmen and JV basketball teams, it's a way of life. Between practices, games, and more practices, these boys hardly have time for anything else. It's what they live for; it's what they love to do. Though most of the players on these teams play other sports, basketball is, by far, their favorite. You can tell that hours of practice, shooting hoops in their spare time, and playing 3-on-3 with their "boys"shows it has has paid off.

Just as Isaac Asimov pointed out, the only thing we can count on in this world is that things will never stay as they are, and for the past three years, the varsity basketball team has been living proof that this statement holds a lot of truth. Since 2009, these lady Saints have had three new coaches, and while the waters were rough at first, they have managed to adjust very well. This year, the Saints turned up the heat and brought their "A game", winning more games the first half of their season than they did all of last year. With a record like that, things can only get better.

freshmen girls basketball

The risk of injury follows basketball players as soon as they step on the court but the risk doesn't scare these girls off.

There are many ways a basketball player can injure themselves, the most common areas of injury are the knees, ankles, and feet. Jenna Haddon ('14) had to learn a lot about these injuries the hard way. After making the freshmen team she was feeling pain in her knee and went to the doctors to find out that she had dislocated her kneecap. Her doctor told her the worst news... no basketball. But Jenna remained positive, and said, "I'm really disappointed that I can't play, but I am a part of the team and will be there to cheer my teammates on." She has plans for the future too. "I still want to play basketball and I plan to work this summer on my skills to help during next year's tryouts." Unfortunately Jenna was a victim of this sport's uglier side, but she will work hard to overcome this obstacle, and become a stronger person because of this injury.

On the road...

With games so far away, girls find it difficult to pass the time efficiently. If you were to take a look on the bus before it departs you would see girls getting out their homework, especially on those far away trips when they have to wake up early for school the next day. A common sight you would see on a typical bus ride would be athletes jamming to their iPods pumping themselves up.. With their farthest game in Crosswell-Lexington, 40.37 miles away, (almost a 1 hour bus ride!), it's no wonder these girls try to find an exciting way to pass the time.

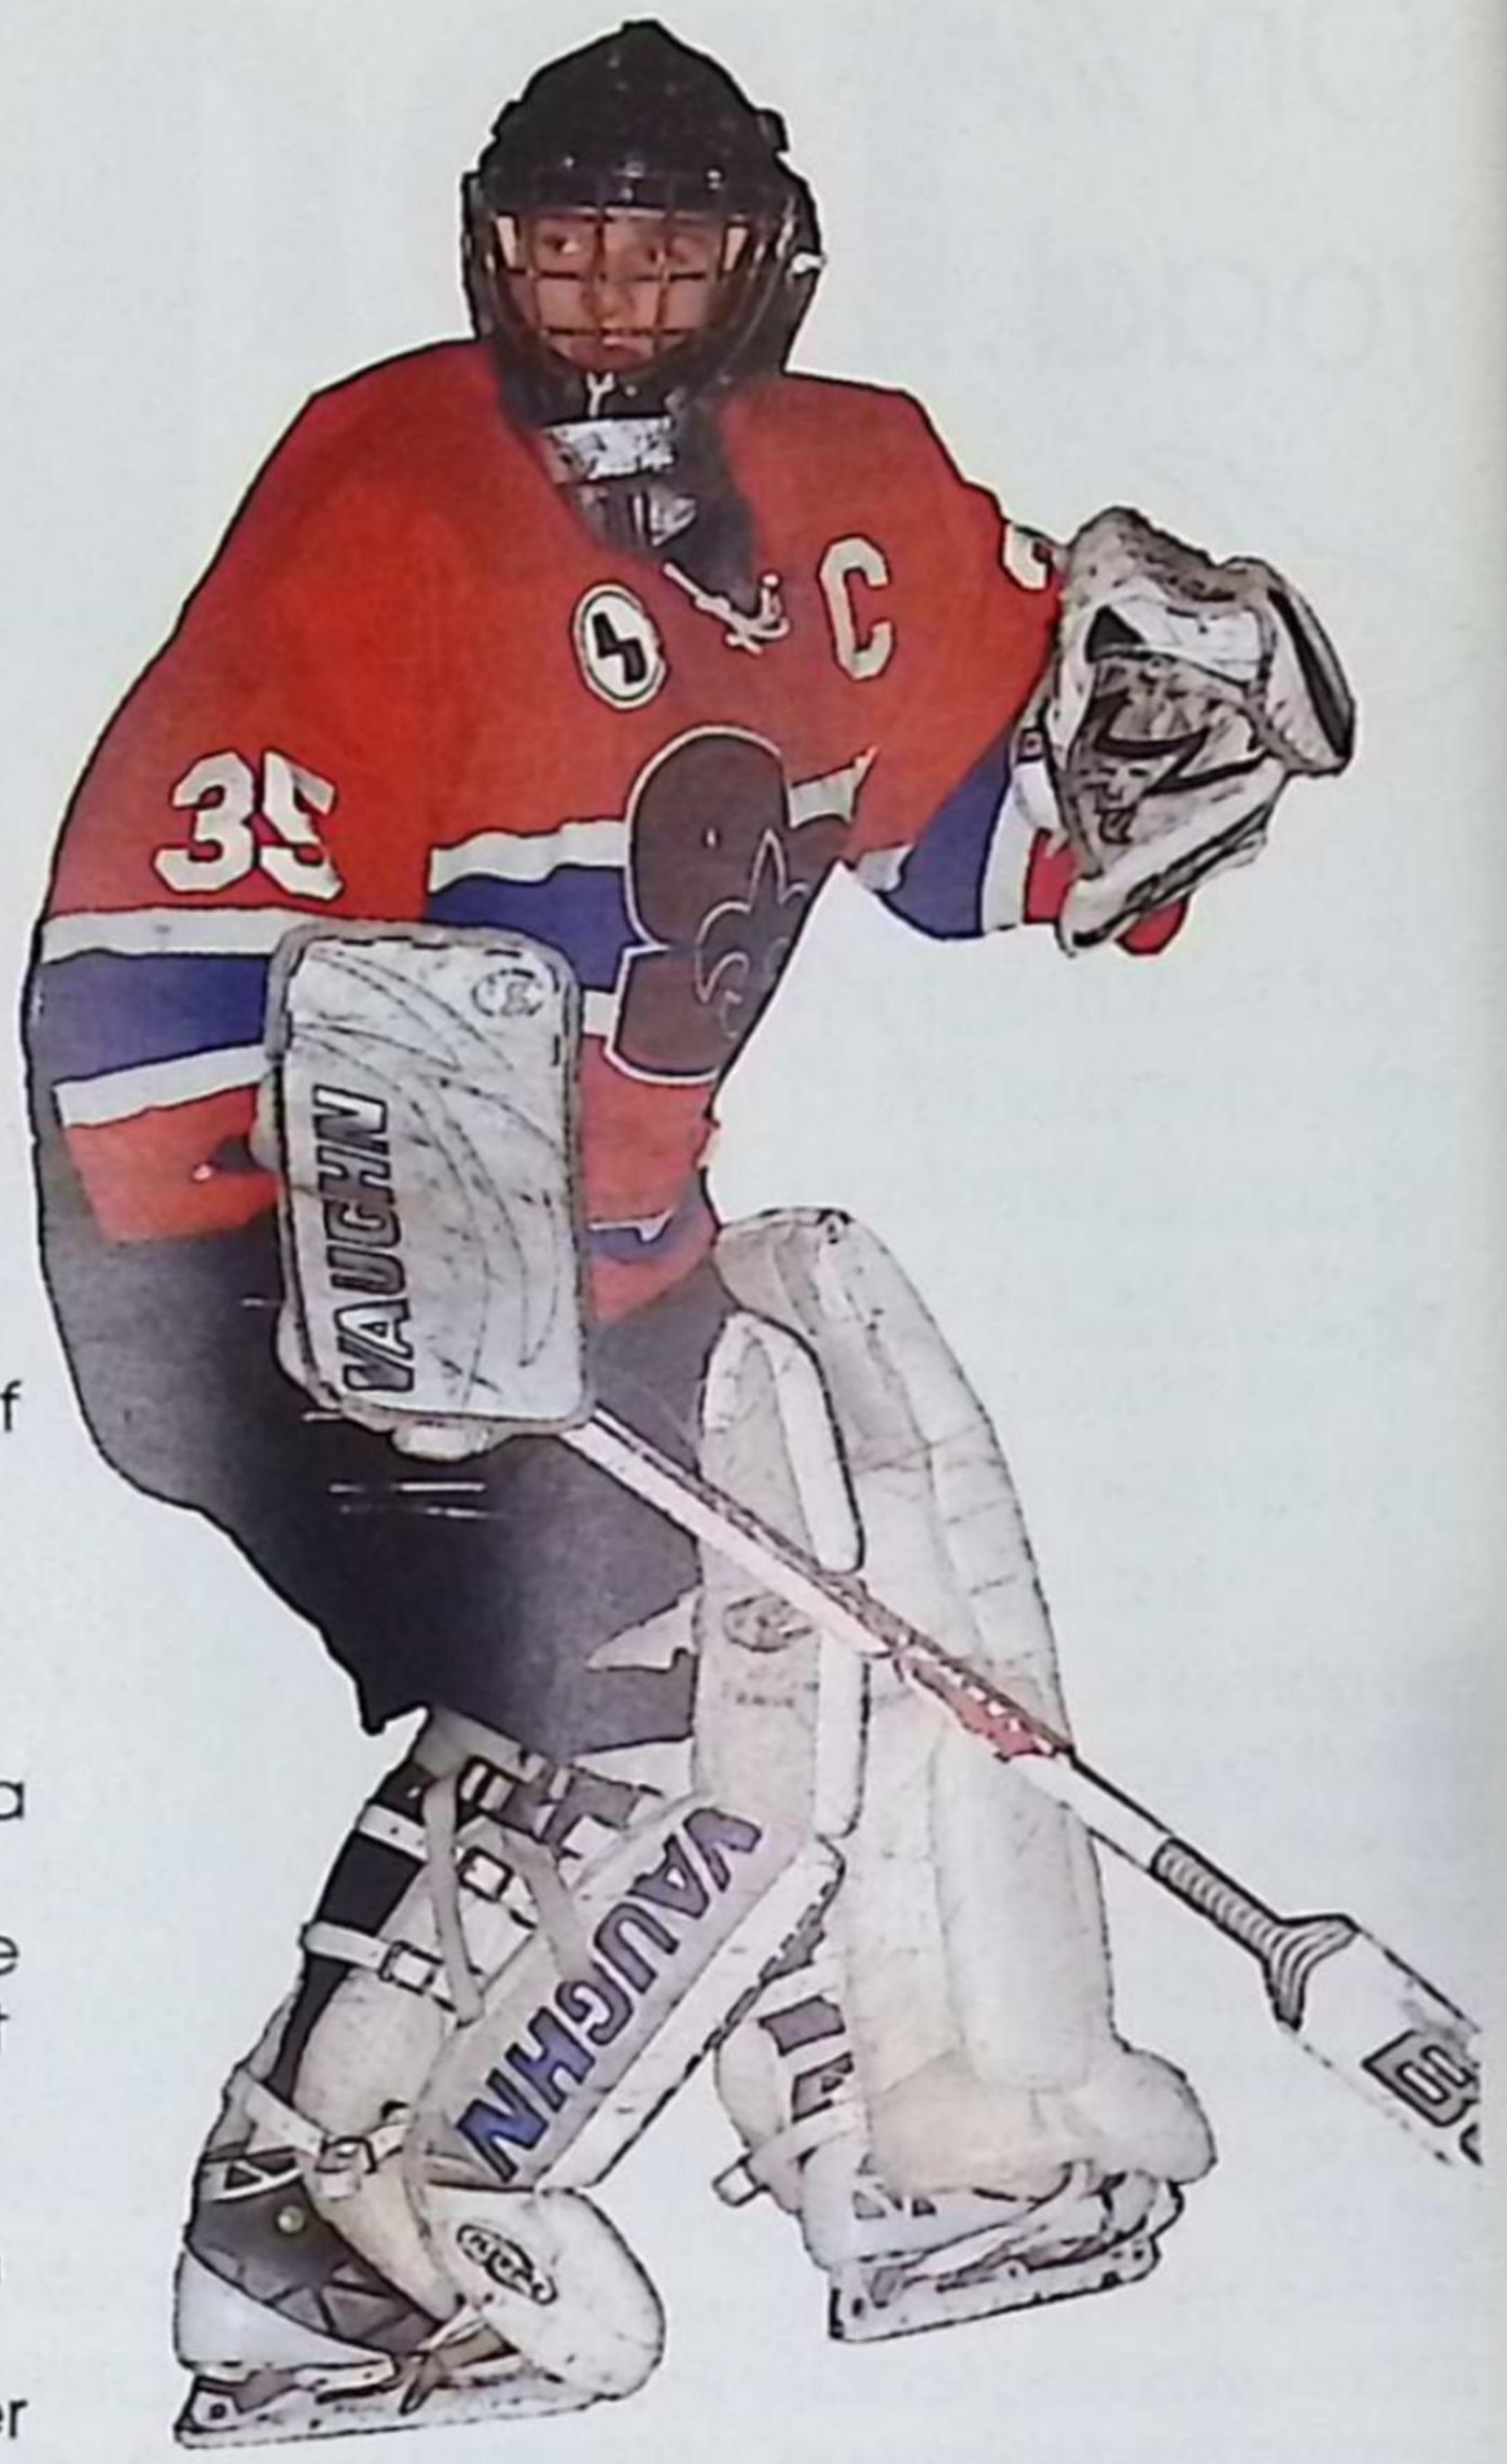
"If we play 'em 10 times, they might win nine.
But NOT this game."
-Herb Brooks



The St. Clair Hockey team had an admirable season this year with many successful victories. The whole team's favorite game was against Marysville. They had already been defeated by Marysville once, and the boys were determined to come out on top this time. The boys came ready to beat the Vikings. Marysville was winning 1-0 after the first period and were ahead 3-0 halfway through the second period until St. Clair bounced back and ended that period with a score of 3-2, which caused the game to get immensely intense. Unfortunately, Marysville scored another goal but the boys did not give up. They picked up their earlier slack and tied the game up 4-4. Marysville scored, stealing the lead once again, but with three minutes left in the game, Evan Weidenbach ('11) tied it up 5-5. Everything was going well for the Saints until goalie, and captain, Chipper Gauss ('11)was ejected from the game. Fellow goalie, Travis Brow ('12) went in net in replace of Gauss. All Saints' fans were anxiously hoping for victory. Tied 5-5 at the end of the third period, the game went into overtime. With less than a minute left, Jacob Cronenworth ('12) scored the game winning goal making it an overall successful and well-deserved victory for the Saints. Everyone on the team chipped in to make this win possible. This, and many other wins like this, caused the St. Clair hockey team to have an exceptional season.

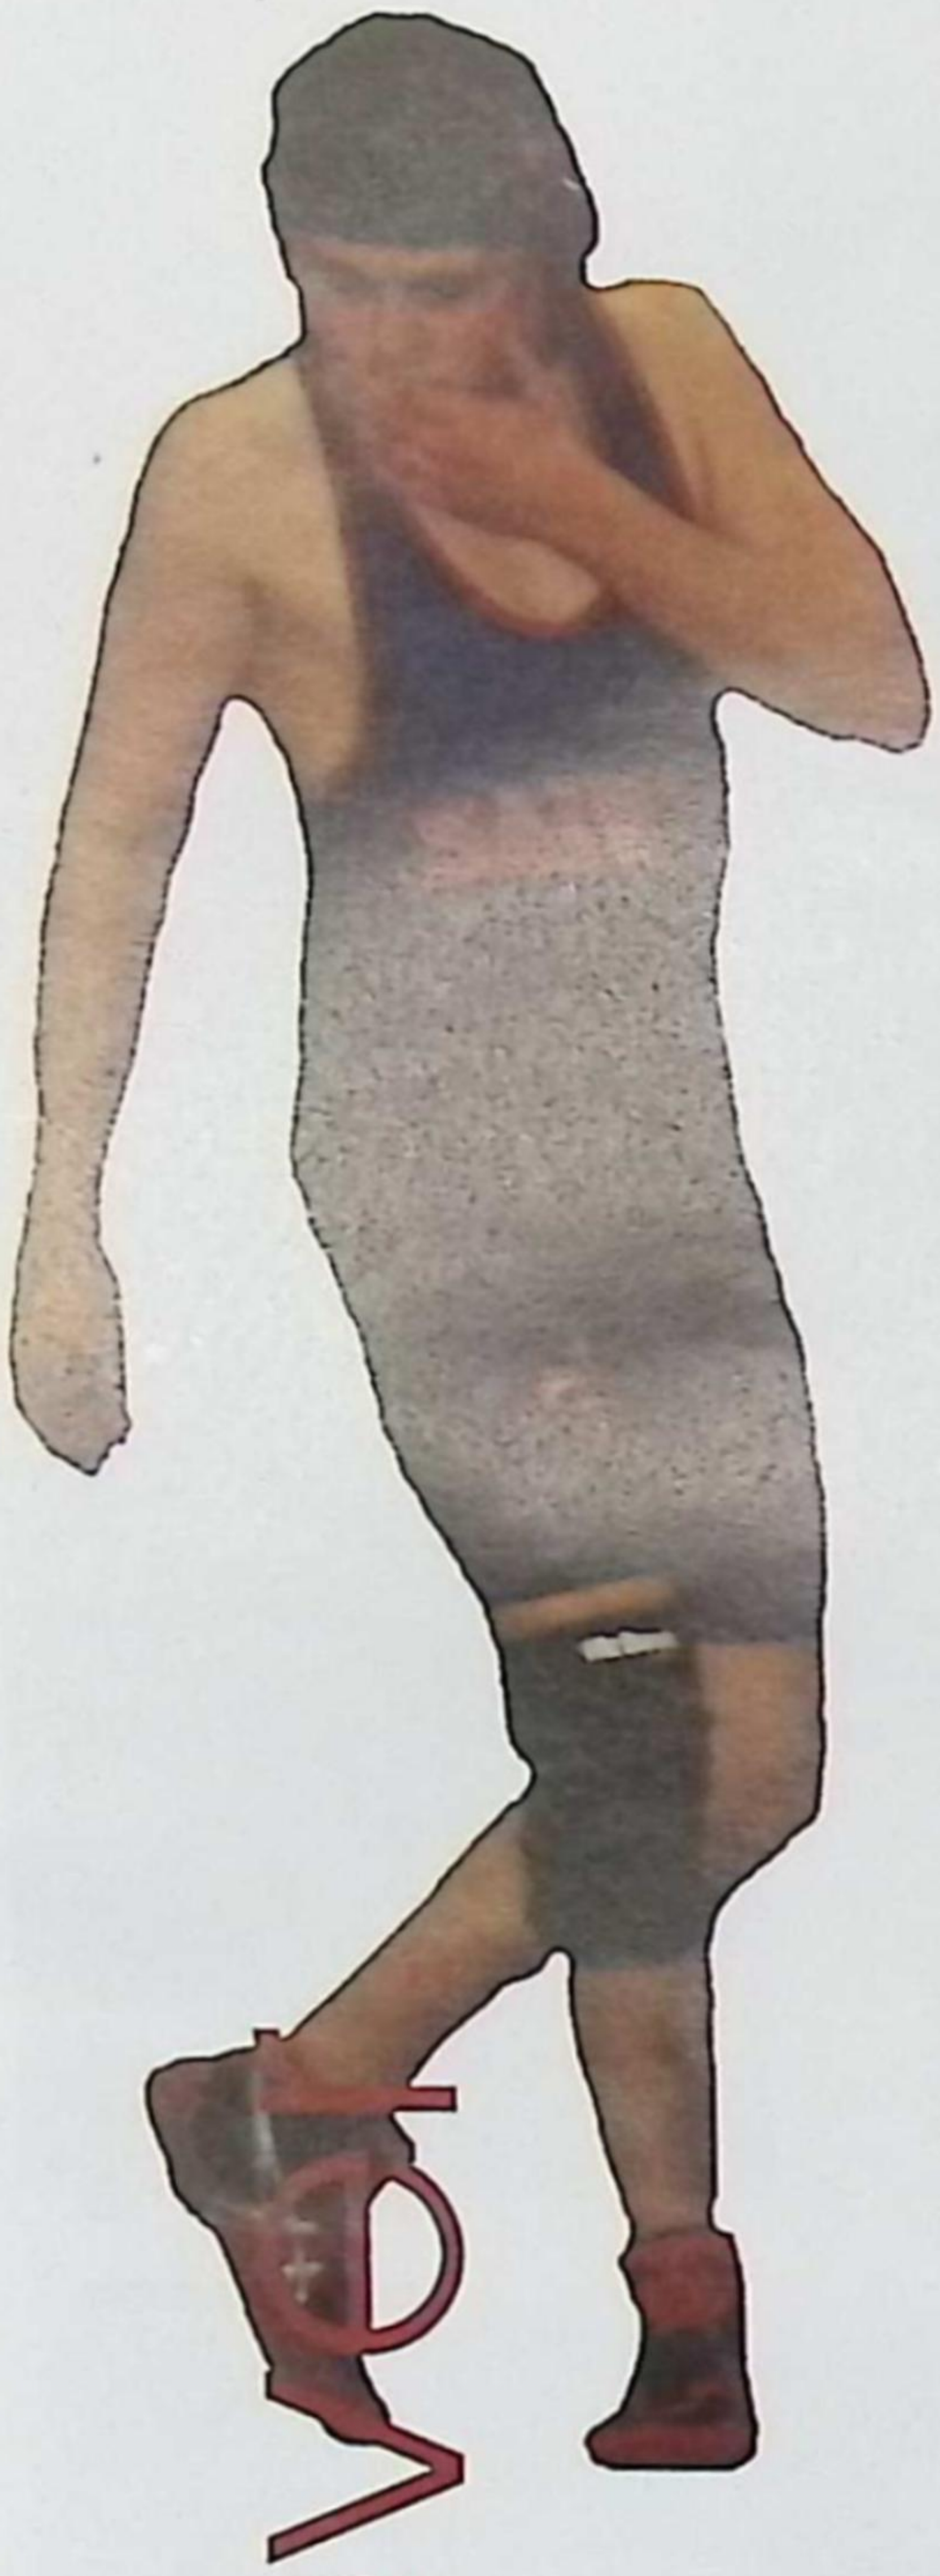
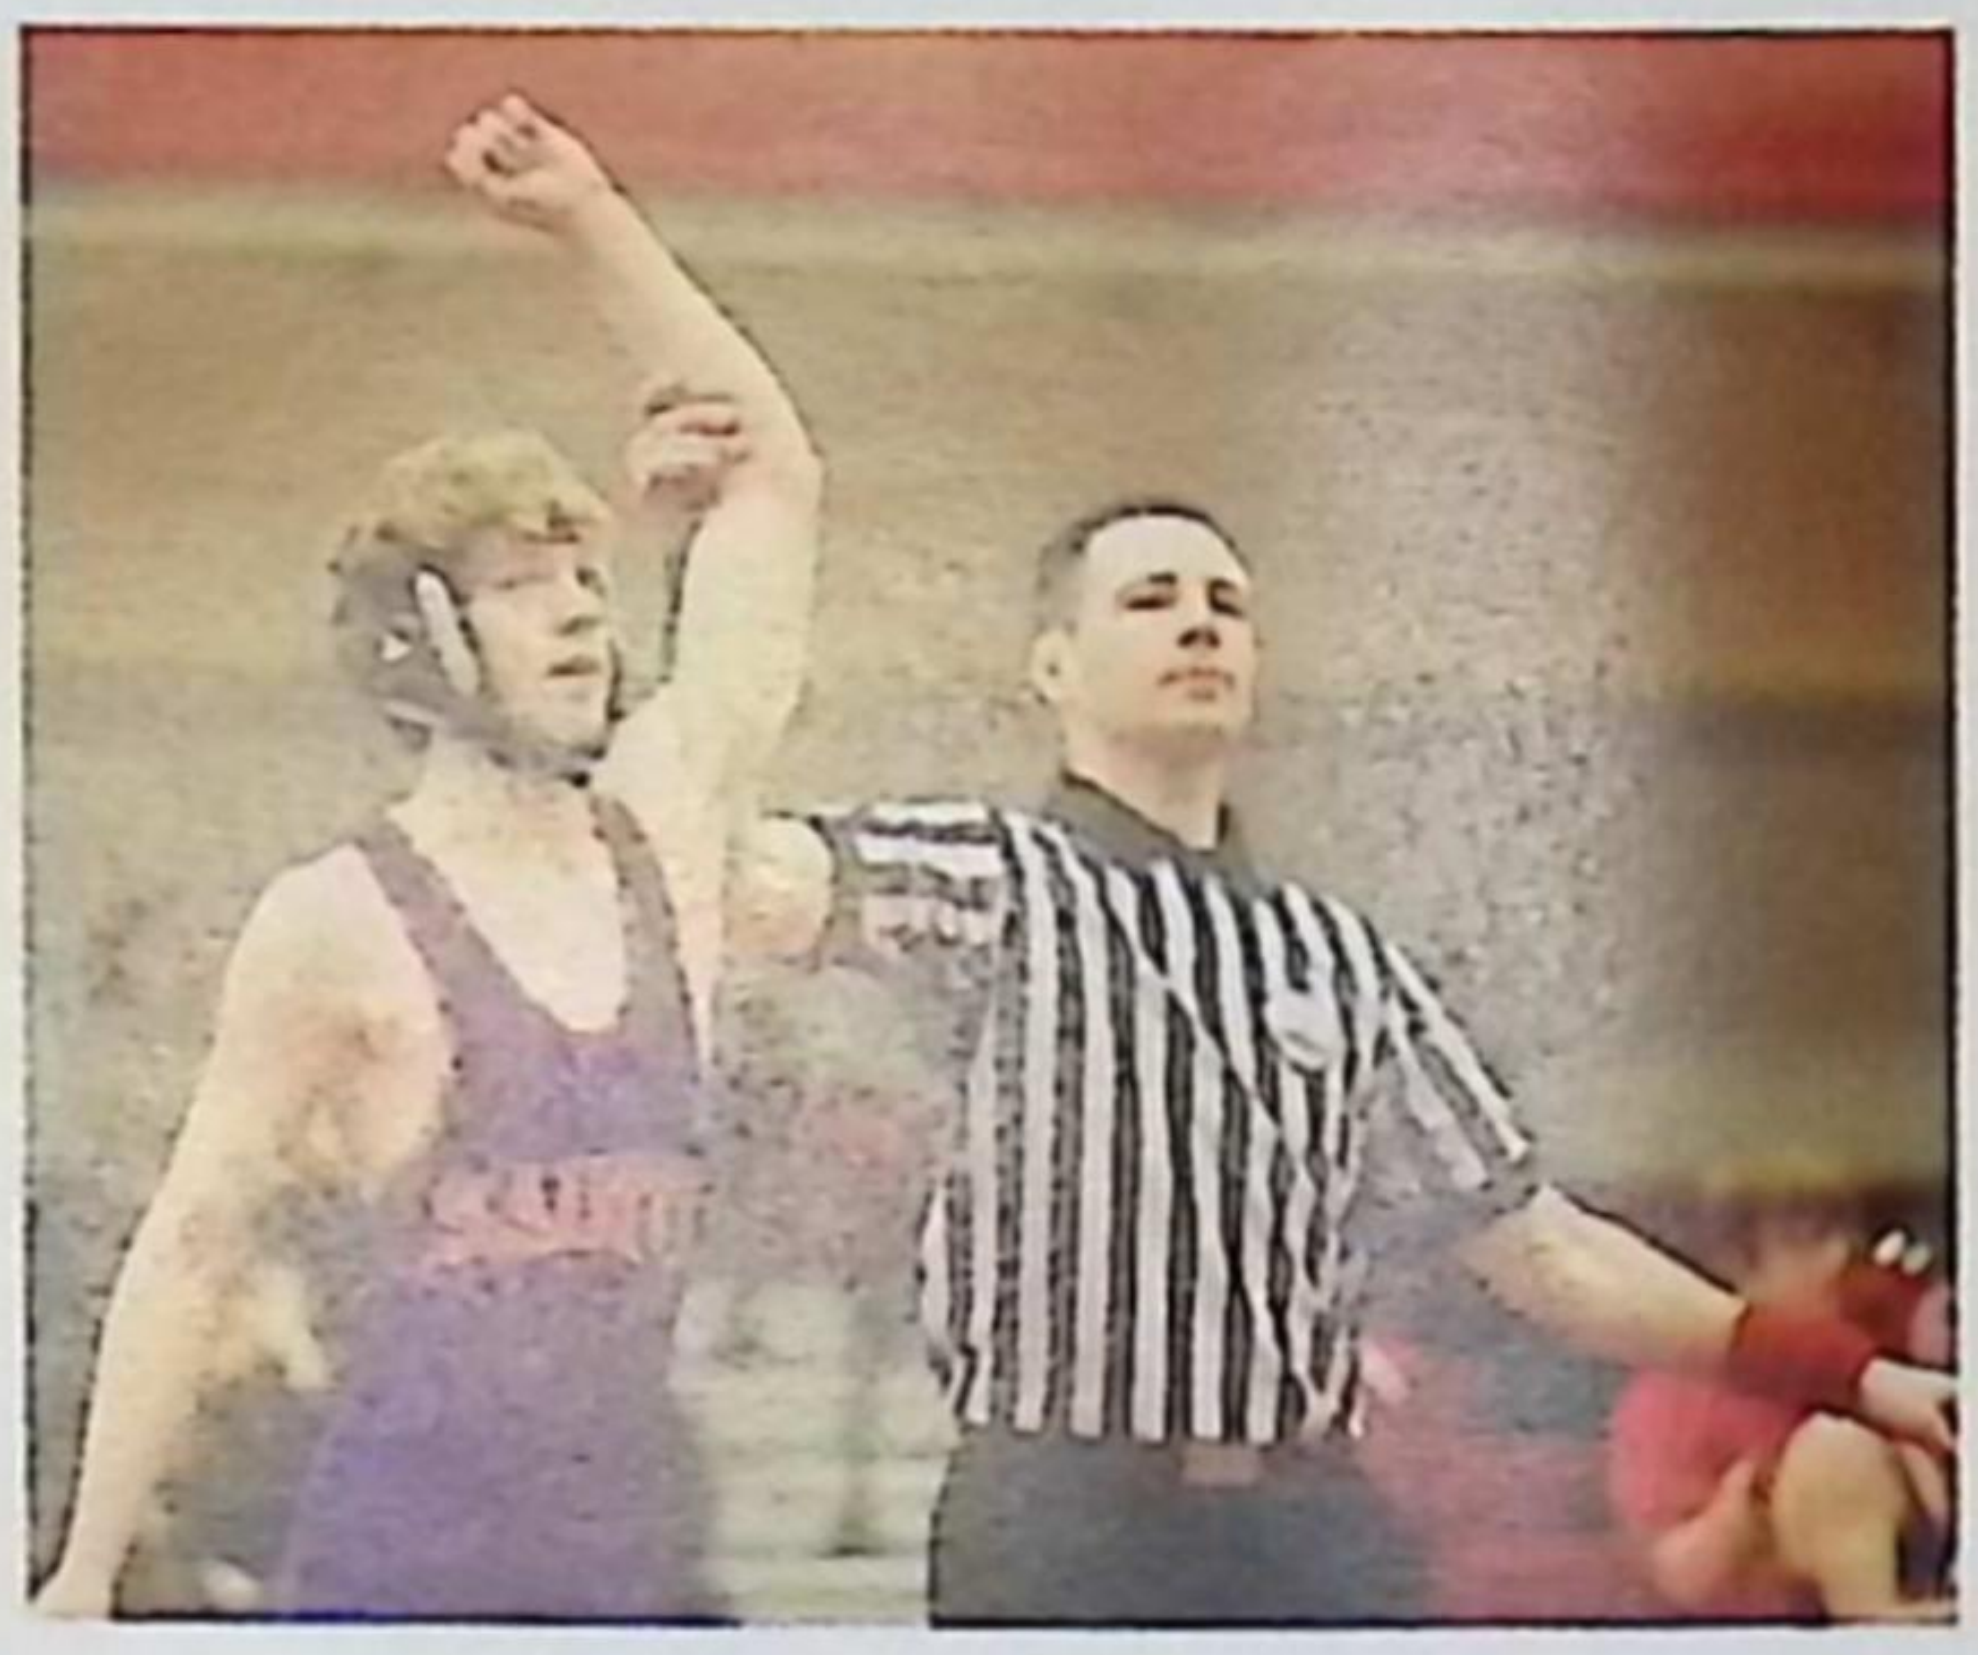
varsity wrestling



chitchat.

What happens when you gather a large group of high school boys and have them form the first wrestling team in over 10 years? Most people would think catastrophe, but this Saints team defies the odds.



With wrestling being new to St. Clair High School, many people had no idea what to expect. Will it be a joke? Is going to last? Most people questioned the idea. Much to everyone's surprise this team has blown everyone out of the water. With only a handful of experienced wrestlers, and not much clarity on what was going to happen, coaches wasted no time whipping these boys in to top notch shape. This team leaves us with no questions now about the future of the program, just high expectations.

"I think that everything is possible as long as you put your mind to it and you put the work and time into it. I think your mind really controls everything." - Michael Phelps

Imagine this: when you get to school in the morning, it's dark out, before peers even awaken. When you finally leave that night, it's dark again. Why would anyone stay at school that long? For swim practice, of course. Staying at school for twelve hours straight may seem crazy, but the hard work pays off. The members of the boys' varsity swim team train everyday to improve their strength, speed, and precision. A lot of students think swim class is hard, but team practices are even more intense. The team members don't complain about the work though Hunter Lomasney ('14) instead says, "Look what the chlorine does to my skin. It's like a desert!" A more noticeable change is all of their lightened hair, turning almost white on some of the swimmers! Yet another issue, according to Justin Duchene ('12), is the early mornings; "Waking up at 4:50 is not very fun." Even though there may be a few minor downfalls with swim, all of the boys are dedicated to the team and to their own personal improvement.

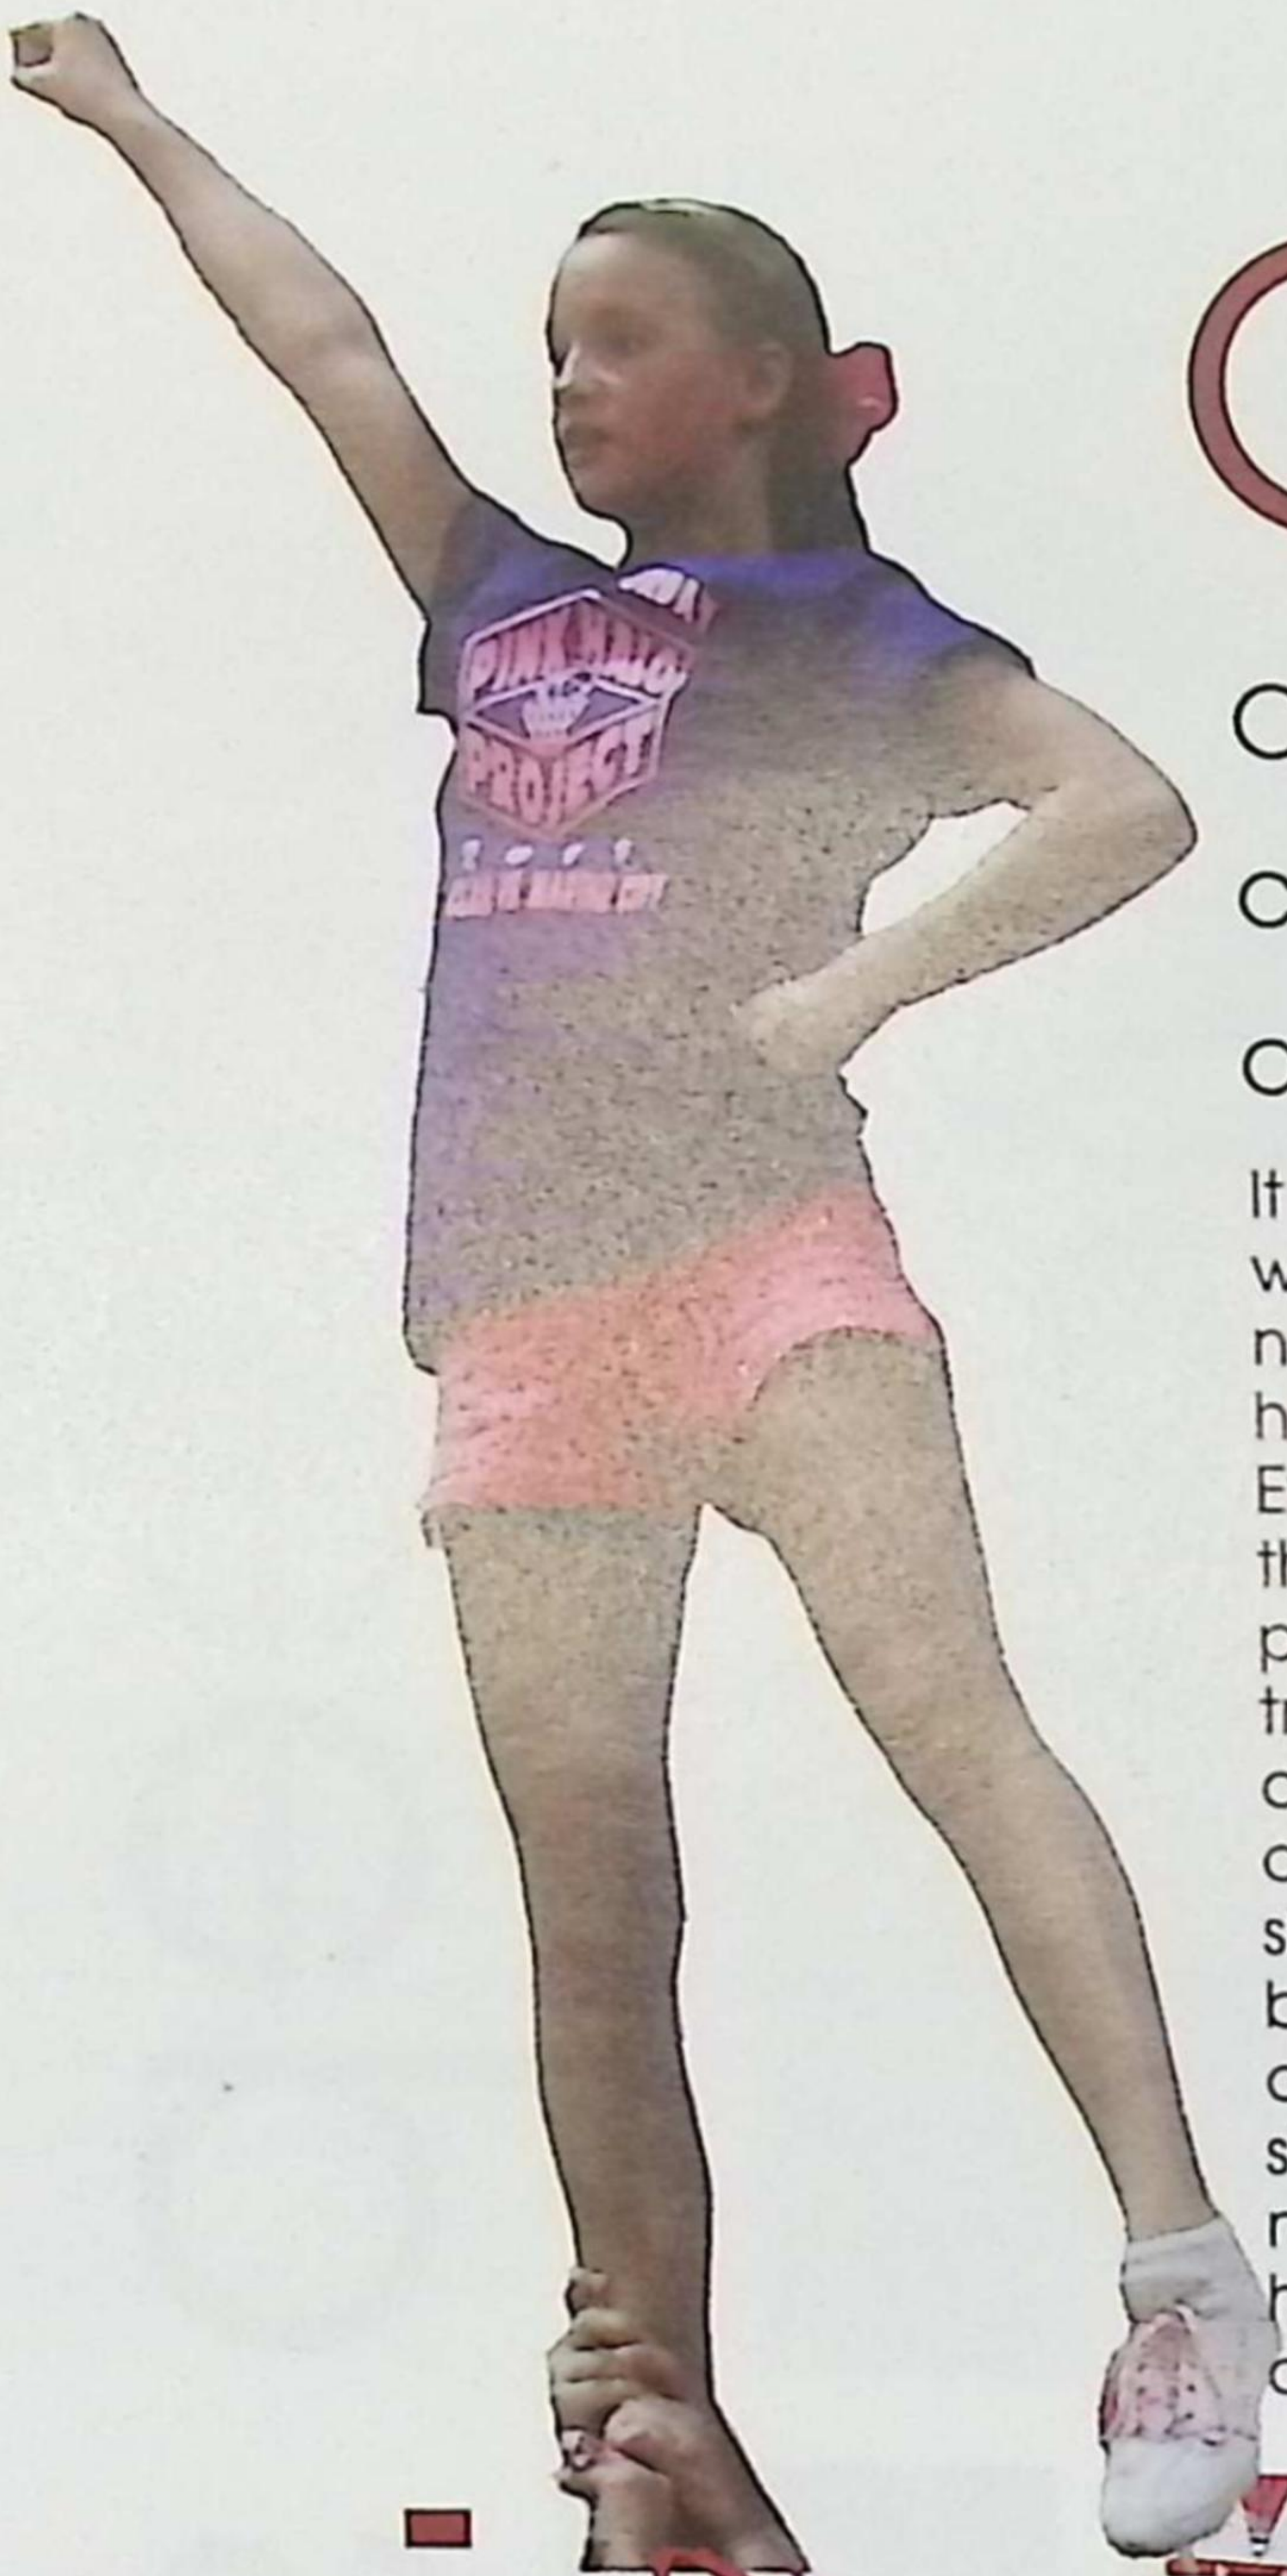
varsity cheerleading



chitchat.

Cheerleading is certainly the most unique sport, consisting of immense amounts of hardwork, passion, and the unescapable drama.

It is a constant debate whether cheer is a sport or not, and cheerleaders try hard to prove themselves. Every day, cheerleaders fight the remarks made by their peers who cannot see the true athleticism required for cheer- especially competitive cheer. The pure skill and talent necessary to be successful for this sport are extreme, and most often, shocking to those who do not understand all the handwork, determination, and passion involved.

Another aspect of the cheerleading world is the drama that comes along with the unique sport. After many disputes during football season, many of the experienced cheerleaders chose not to return, and the team was left without leadership. Others had no choice but to step up and fill the roles. After many difficult practices, exciting competitions, and an incredible Pink Halo performance, every cheerleader would consider the season a success.

"Just remember all of the good times that we had, or the challenges we faced, and that no matter how far we are apart, our friendship will last forever."

The JV cheer team had a season filled with ups and downs. They experienced many victories that were greatly celebrated. Yet, none of those victories could make up for the loss of their teammate and friend, Kailey Langell. "Kailey always brought enthusiasm to our team at practice and competitions, and she could always lighten a mood with her smile," explained Chelsea Fraley ('13). "We were all really close to her, and it was Kailey who brought us all closer together," Jordan Hurner ('12) said as she thought back to all of the touching memories that Kailey was apart. "Kailey was one of the hardest workers on our team. She never had a hard time making us all laugh," said Jacqueline Neisz, ('12). It was a heart breaking loss for everyone who knew her, but the time that she spent on the team greatly impacted the success of their season, and brought a smile to all who had the pleasure of knowing her as a person, a teammate, and most of all, a friend.

You better make like Lightning and flash, 'cause if you don't Duck that Hit... your pass is grass.

Many things change when senior year comes around, and dodgeball is no exception. Last year, Team Japan took the title and deprived the other hopeless teams of bragging rights. However, with a new year, comes new victors, and although experts say the chances of being struck by a bolt are very slim, Lightning stormed through the St. Clair gym. Shocked by the sudden outburst from the underdogs, Team Japan's reign had ended, leaving Lightning to take charge. From a Lady Saint's perspective, it was no different; they had been waiting since they were merely freshmen to Duck That Hit, and senior year was their last opportunity to make hit happen. In an intense battle with FSU, Duck That Hit ducked up their competition and came out on top. At the end of the battle, (beyond the controversy over names and arguments over unfair calls) the 2010 dodgeball tournament brought the heat and struck Saint Clair Saints as a "ducking" success!

"Coming back from mission trips like Haiti, I tend to have little respect for the way people here act and what their concerns are. After seeing what the people down there have to endure, people have it easy here. But after a while, I came to realize that even though Americans have all these luxeries, they come with their own set of problems as well. In Michigan, we have homes to endure the cold with but we also have bills, taxes, and other things to worry about as well. Both nations have the same basic problems of family and relationships, but the big difference is the living conditions.

The funniest thing to happen to me while I was down there was while waiting for some of the team members to come back from shopping, I made a family of pet rocks and tried to barter them with the vendor outside the hotel. I tried convincing him that in America, pet rocks were a multi-million dollar franchise. He didn't buy it."

Many charitable events took place this year at St. Clair High School, and it was evident that students and staff alike were feeling extremely generous. The Saints participated in a pop can tab drive to benefit the Ronald McDonald House, created care-packages for soldiers; sold, and purchased, Tim-Bits to support Blue Jeans for Babies; donated clothing for Kids In Distress, held the annual Pink Halo tournament to support cancer, and put on multiple blood drives throughout the school year.

Another charitable opportunity presented itself to St. Clair High School when one of the most dreadful ice-day of this winter occurred. After being shaken up from the terrifying ride into school, a nice surprise was presented to the student body. Due to a cancelled order at Neiman's, fourteen dozen bagels were generously donated by the supportive, nearby grocery store. Classrooms were drawn at random, and Mr. Cook personally delivered the bagels.

Worship among our Mission group brought us together. Next November I also have an opportunity to travel to Guatemala through Servant Missionaries. The third annual Pink Halo tournament was hosted for the second time in two years by SCHS. The Pink Halo Project not only helps provide cancer victims with treatment options, but also helps build camaraderie between the Saints and the Mariners when a greater cause presents itself. When necessary, both rival schools are able to come together to help fight the battle against cancer. Everyone in attendance can agree that the tournament was extremely effective. Many opportunities were created for generous people to donate. Some of these included: selling of baked goods, a silent auction, donations of money, and an arranged blood drive. Overall though, the support of the fans was the project's greatest feat. By showing their incredible support, the Saints were able to assist in making great strides for abolishing cancer.

Simon and Paul were in the same physics class. One day in class, they were taking a test that was worth a large portion of their grade. The teacher passed out the test and sat down at her desk. Simon and Paul sat on the far side of the room, away from the teacher's desk. The teacher looked up and saw that Simon and Paul's desks were very close together. Both of their heads were down and they were taking the test in silence. The teacher got up from the desk and began walking around the room, with a special eye on Simon and Paul. As she walked over to the boys' seats, she noticed their eyes wandering. The teacher noted that the boys' papers were especially close to the edges of their desks. The teacher abruptly snatched away and ripped up their tests, accusing them of cheating. Are the boys guilty or innocent?

> "I've got to be where my spirit can run free. Gotta find my corner of the sky." - Pippin

This year's theatre troupe opened with Arsenic and Old Lace, an American classic comedy. Mortimer Bruster is known for his disapproval of marriage, but he falls for the beautiful Elaine Harper. We are then introduced to his two charming aunts, Martha and Abby Brewster. One evening Mortimer discovers a dead body in the window seat, revealing the secrets of his truly dysfunctional family. This show was special because of the dedication of all of those involved. A complex set combined with grueling hours, can really run a person down, but, as they say, "the show must go on." Everyone put in their all for a great and memorable show.

The theatre troupe's musical was the coming-of-age story of Pippin. This musical was the first time that the theatre troupe did a production a second time. Pippin wowed the audience with their opening number "Magic To Do" and captivated their audience with "With You." The cast had many new members, but with persistence their hard work paid off. Pippin is the story of a young man who goes through life seeking that one spectacular moment. He experiments with many different mediums, but in the end discovers that it is the little things in life that are significant. Pippin leaves the audience pondering the things in their life they truly value.

Along with the satisfying feeling that they are helping out the community, members of the National Honor Society also get fulfillment from being able to put their participation in NHS on their college application.

National Honor Society not only benefits its members; it benefits the community as well. Members of NHS learn new leadership skills as well as gain new roles of leadership within their committee. Two of National Honor Society's most recent projects, the Red Cross Blood Drive and Holiday Babysitting, strongly benefit the community.
At Holiday Babysitting, two or three members babysit a group of kids on a Saturday before Christmas. The parents of these children have the day to themselves to do Christmas shopping while their children enjoy activities like the Game Room and Cookie Decorating. The Blood Drive, run by NHS through the Red Cross, benefits people inside and outside of St. Clair County. Students can donate during school and members of the community are also encouraged to donate as well.

Student Council is striving for the best, at SC, for schoolwide spirit and success.

2011 marks a fresh start for the competition of the Saints' Spirit Challenge. Last semester student participation increased from 62% to 82%. The council has successfully put on many events such as the 12th annual Dodge Ball Tournament and the Soldier's Care Package project. During their meetings, they discuss different ways to further encourage the student body to participate. As student council members, students learn how to plan and prepare for major events and how to lead committees and accomplish tasks. Student council members are expected to lead by example. Whether they are a general members or executive officers, every student on the council plays an active role during the meetings. Their goal is to try to appeal to the entire student body as much as possible and make Saint Clair High a more spirited place.

SC Jazz Band

SC Marching Band

When the Saints came marching into Florida, they sure made a splash.

It was the obvious highlight of the winter for all of the band classes; the trip to Disney. Band students counted the days until it was time to leave the cold, wintery weather of Michigan and head for Florida. In the few days before the plane ride, band students flaunted their school spirit by wearing their Marching Saints fleece jackets, which they affectionately deemed "The Fleece". In Disney, the bands had the opportunity to march down Main Street in front of thousands of onlookers. The jazz band had the chance to perform onstage as well. When they weren't playing, though, there was quite a bit of downtime. The students had fun going on the rides, visiting the animals, and seeing the sights. Everyone involved agreed that it was a very memorable experience!

Choir is not just songs being sung, but stories being told...

Every song has a story to tell, and during the January choir concert, the story was love. All of the songs in the collection were about love. The brave soloist songs touched the hearts of the audience, but the real tear-jerker song of the night was the duet of Jacob and Melynda Geml. They sang the song "Endless Love," which their father used to sing to their mother. After the touching song, Mr. Geml jumped onto the stage and gave both of his kids a loving embrace. It was a perfect example of true family love, and love in general, as the unique voices of SCHS came together in the stunning performance.

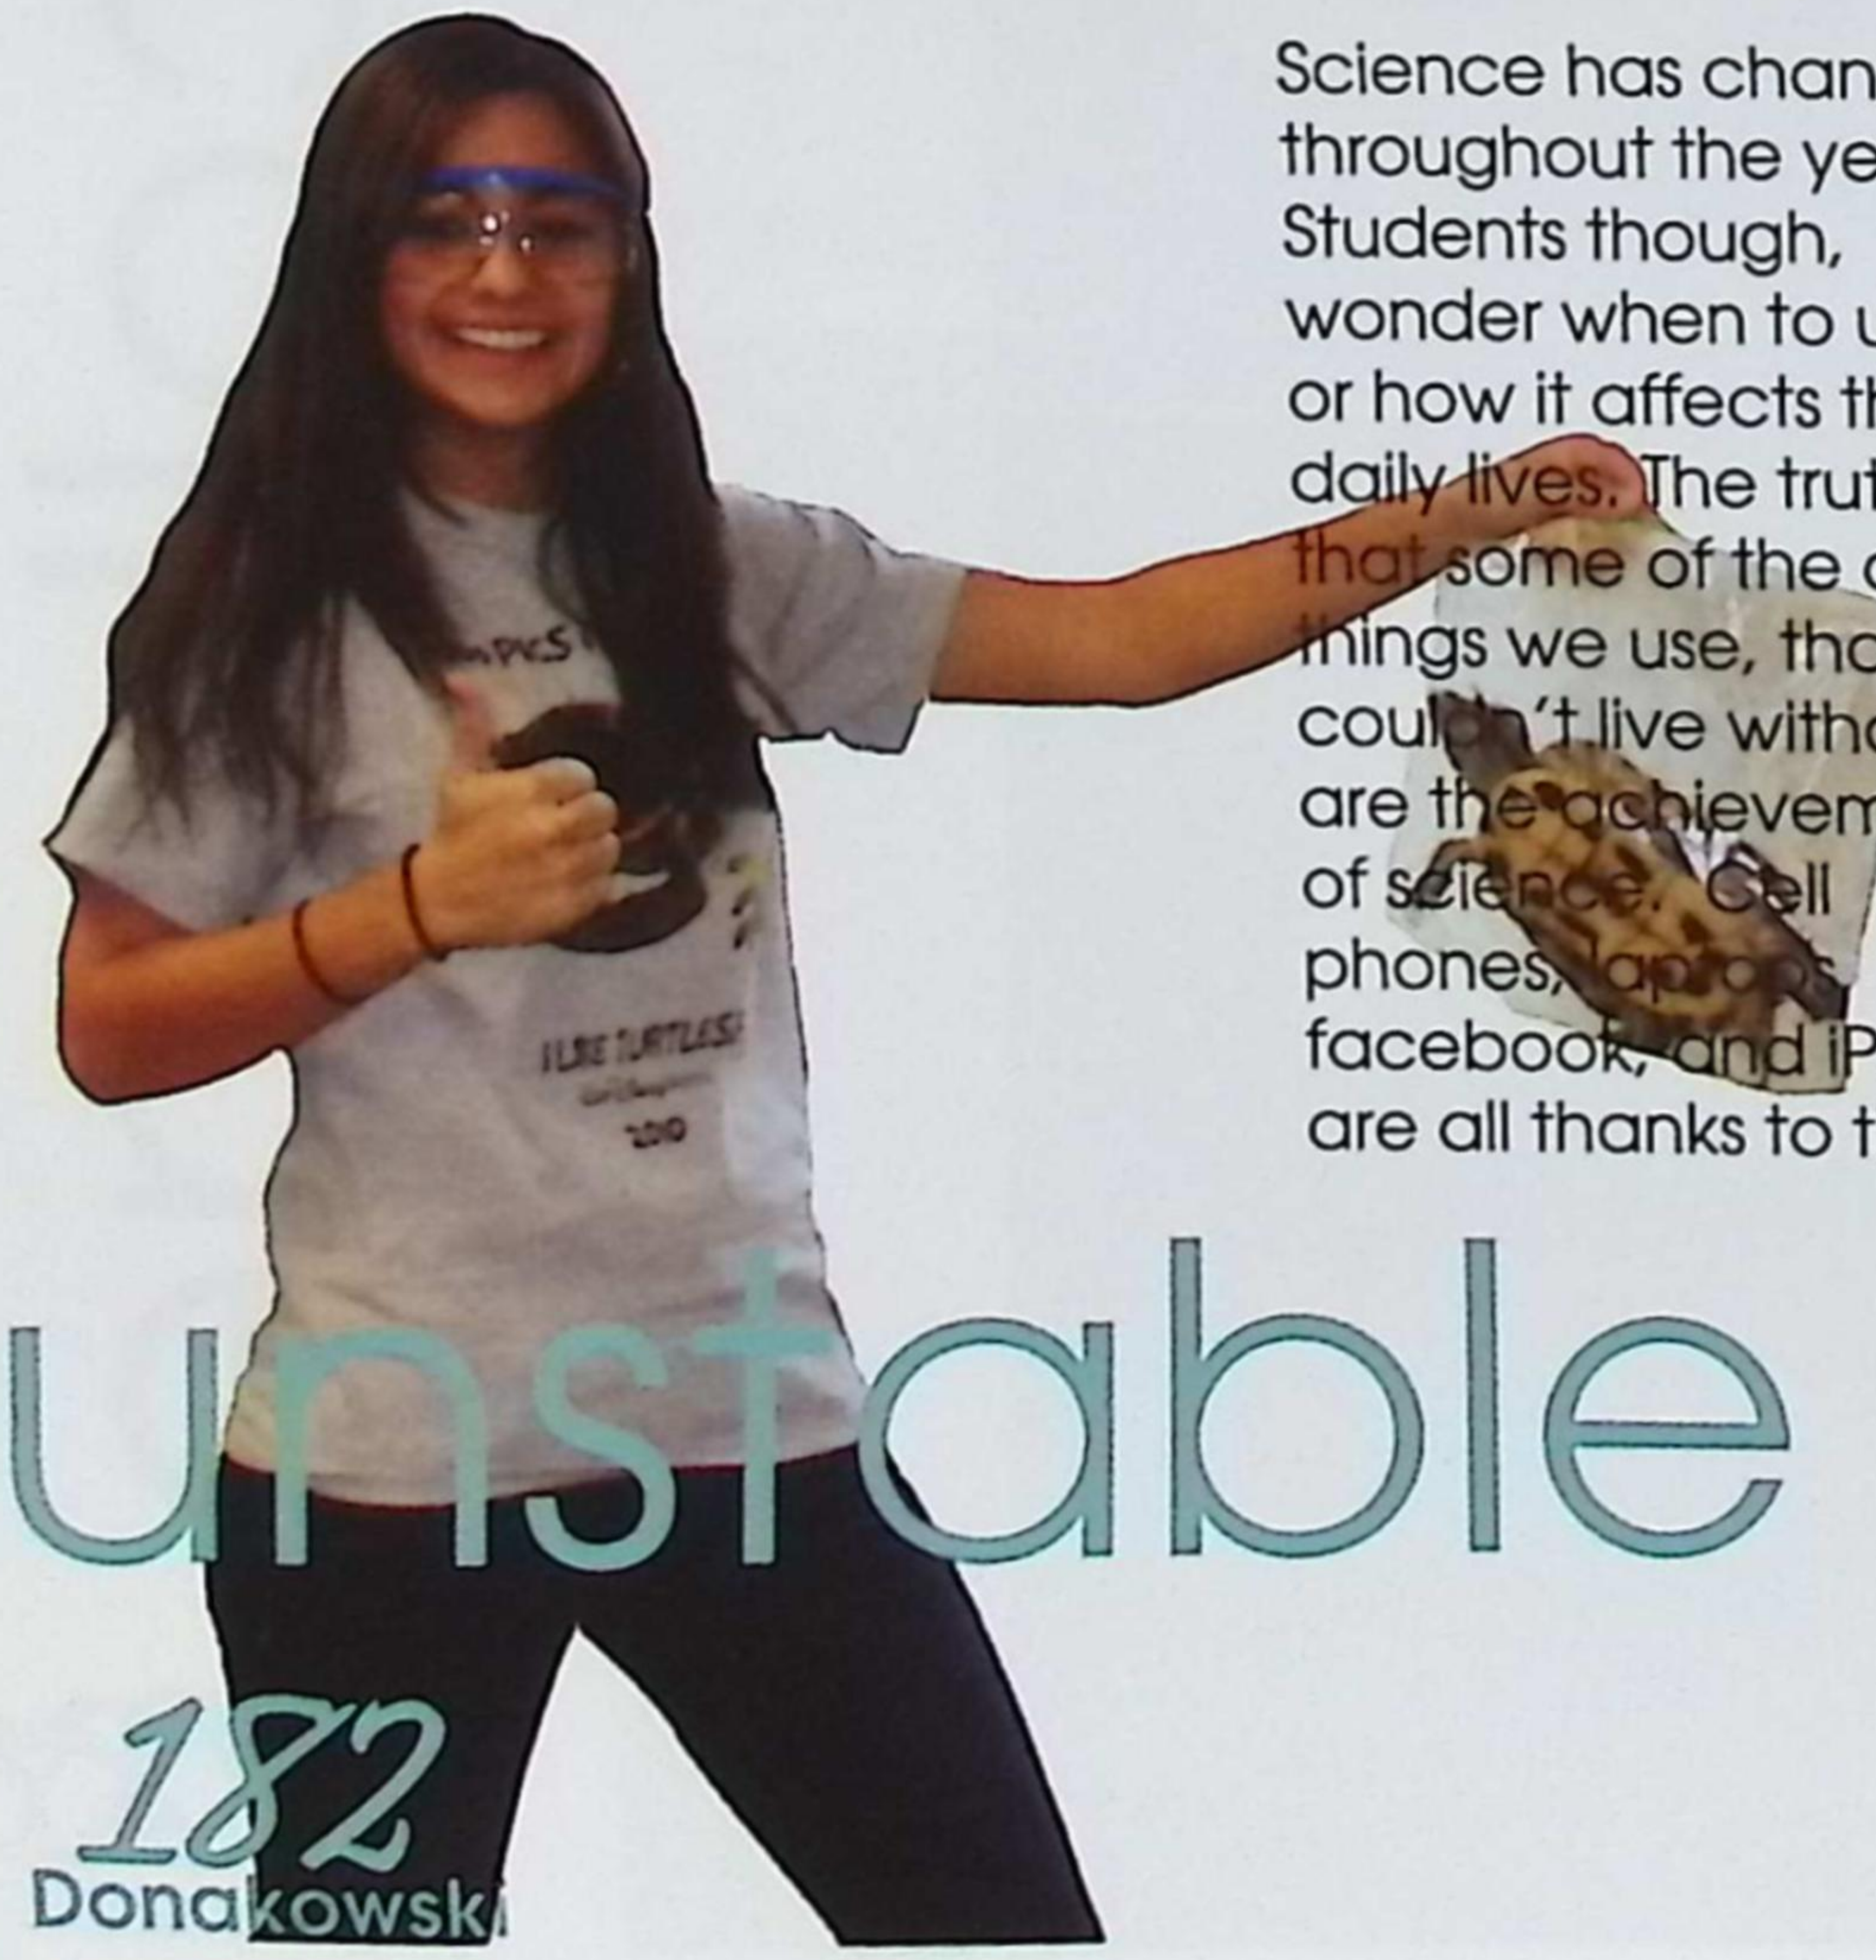
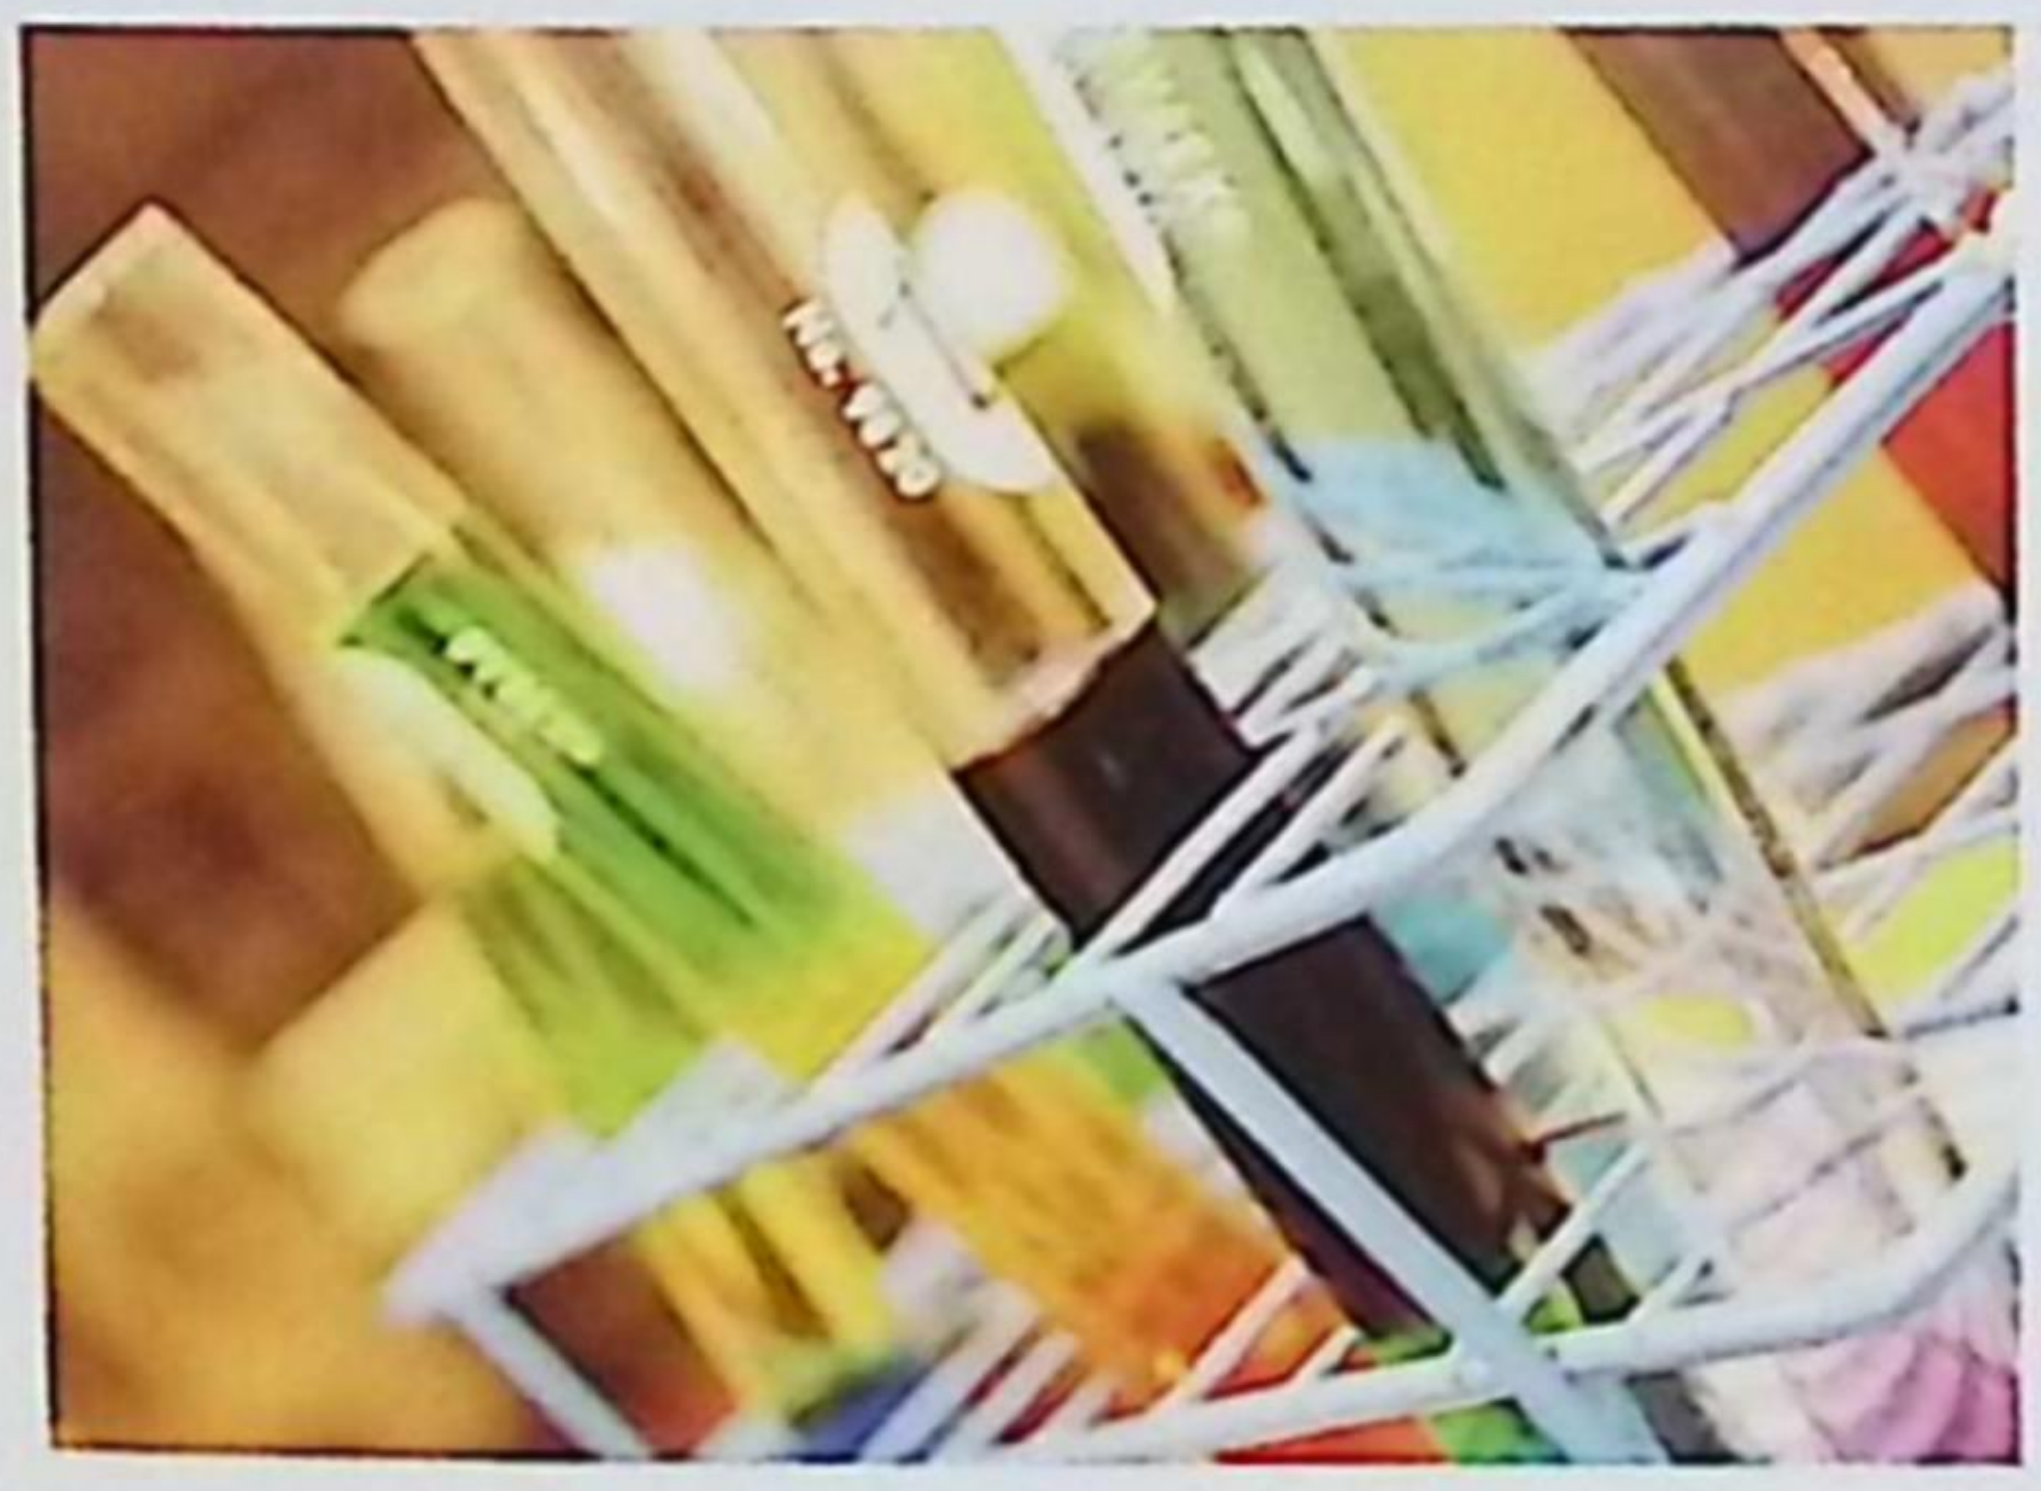
"Science is simply common sense at its best that is, rigidly accurate in observation, and merciless to fallacy in logic."
-Thomas Henry Huxley





Science has changed throughout the years. Students though, wonder when to use it or how it affects their daily lives. The truth is that some of the daily things we use, that we couldn't live without, are the achievements of science. Cell phones, laptops, facebook, and iPods are all thanks to their advancements. However, science has made more than just materialistic items. Hearing aids were created for the deaf, eyes have been given to those that are blind and, most commonly, prosthetics for the disabled; all of these discoveries have given normalcy back to peoples' lives. Technology is ever changing, with things being discovered everyday by bright minds. The question is, what will be discovered next?

Out with the old and in with the new!

Embrace the change.

For years students have listened to the screech of chalk against a flat green board, or watched as a teacher wrote notes on an overhead. Now, it's time for change. Students and teachers are being introduced to the new SMART Board, which is a touch screen board that can be hooked up to a computer similar to a projector. It can be used for just about anything, from learning new concepts, to just doodling and playing high tech games. Over the summer, teachers attended seminars to learn how to make these fantastic screens an easier and more convenient way students to learn. Saint Clair High is updating to new technology with the hopes that students will enjoy learning a little bit more.

Writing weekly essays may not be the most fun thing to do on Sunday night, but literature class is necessary for a good high school education.

Students at St Clair High School are required to take four English classes before they graduate. A variety of classes can be taken: ELA 9, ELA 10, ELA 11, ELA 12, or AP Lit. Students in Mrs. Deluge's ELA 11 class have read stories like The Canterbury Tales and Macbeth. Macbeth is a classic play written by William Shakespeare. The Canterbury Tales is a combination of stories that tells the tale of a group of pilgrims taking a journey to the town of Canterbury, England, during the Middle Ages. Each story comes from a person with a different background and shows what Medieval life was like. Reading stories like The Canterbury Tales can show an ELA student how writing styles have evolved over the years. Though it may seem unimportant at the time, all the reading and writing done in English class is essential to finishing high school.

"Well, you see teacher, I was up really late doing my homework and then I forgot it on my counter!"

o matter who you are, ou'd be lying if you said ou've never made up a ory or two about not doing our homework. "I felt this otivation to do the whole ook on the bus ride home, o I did. After the first 116 pages, I got bus-sick and uked all over the workbook nd all my homework! What coincidence, eh? So I tarted an extra credit report bout World War I & II in my ar going back home after dinner and, lo and behold, my clumsy little siblings all all got the same unpleasant feeling and hurled all over it and the World War library book. It was already too late to start another one, so my mom wrote me a note excusing me for not bringing in my homework. I was looking at it on the bus when Martin, who was sitting next to me, felt really sick and guess what happened?" Sounds familiar, right? Okay, okay well maybe you're not crafty enough to come up with a story like that, but we all have excuses for things we do…or don't. Each day is a constant battle to get things done, and often in high school, excuses are our last resort. I guess if you can learn something from not doing homework it's: "let's not and say we did."

Although during our elementary school years some were embarrassed by their bottle cap glasses, as time has passed we've learned to embraces our "specs." Whether Fossil, Coach, or Walmart; those lucky enough to rock glasses have learned that it is cool to wear them. Although when we were younger, our glasses may have gotten us called a great deal of names, ultimately they have become part of the four- eyed wearer's personality. There are some who have learned to accept their [illegible] and there are [illegible] who shied away from them and switched to a simpler look: contacts. Whether you are the squinty kid who refuses to wear his glasses during class, or the kid who stands out with his glasses; glasses are a unique part of who we are.

Have you ever wondered if one of your classmates will be famous someday? At St. Clair High School, it is very possible. Walking through the halls, you don't always notice that somebody is an All-State runner or the winner of a beauty pageant. When you talk to somebody at lunch, you might never know that they have an amazing voice or excel in skateboarding competitions. This school is buzzing with talent and potential for fame. Fame is achievable to anybody who is determined and diligent enough to work for it. Some students dream of becoming famous, others take the initiative to make those dreams a reality. Look around, because the person you're sitting next to could be a star some day!

It's hard to believe that this walk began with a crawl. Time has passed, moments have been left behind, and people have come in and out of our lives. However, we can always count on the ones who have helped us develop into the young men and women we have become. We can always count on our parents. We fight with them, we lie to them, we sneak around them, we disobey them, we disrespect them, and we take them for granted. We offer them so many reasons to give up on us, but they love us anyway. And whether we say it or not, we love them too. We will take countless steps in our lives, and they can all be traced back to our first crawl; each step began in that place we call home. So for our parents who love us even when we don't deserve it, we thank you. We may not always want to admit it, but we couldn't have made it without your unconditional love.

Hannah ~

As this chapter of your life comes to a close, we hope you understand that high school graduation is not only a time of completion, of finishing, of ending, but also a time to celebrate your many achievements, and a time of new beginnings.

Life will forever be a learning experience, so always strive to do your best, and work diligently towards pursuing your dreams. There will be challenges, but remember that they are only stepping stones along the way of achieveing your goals. Don't ever consider the possibility of failure, because as long as you are persistent, you will be SUCCESSFUL!

We are so very proud of you ~ and Remember...

Love you!

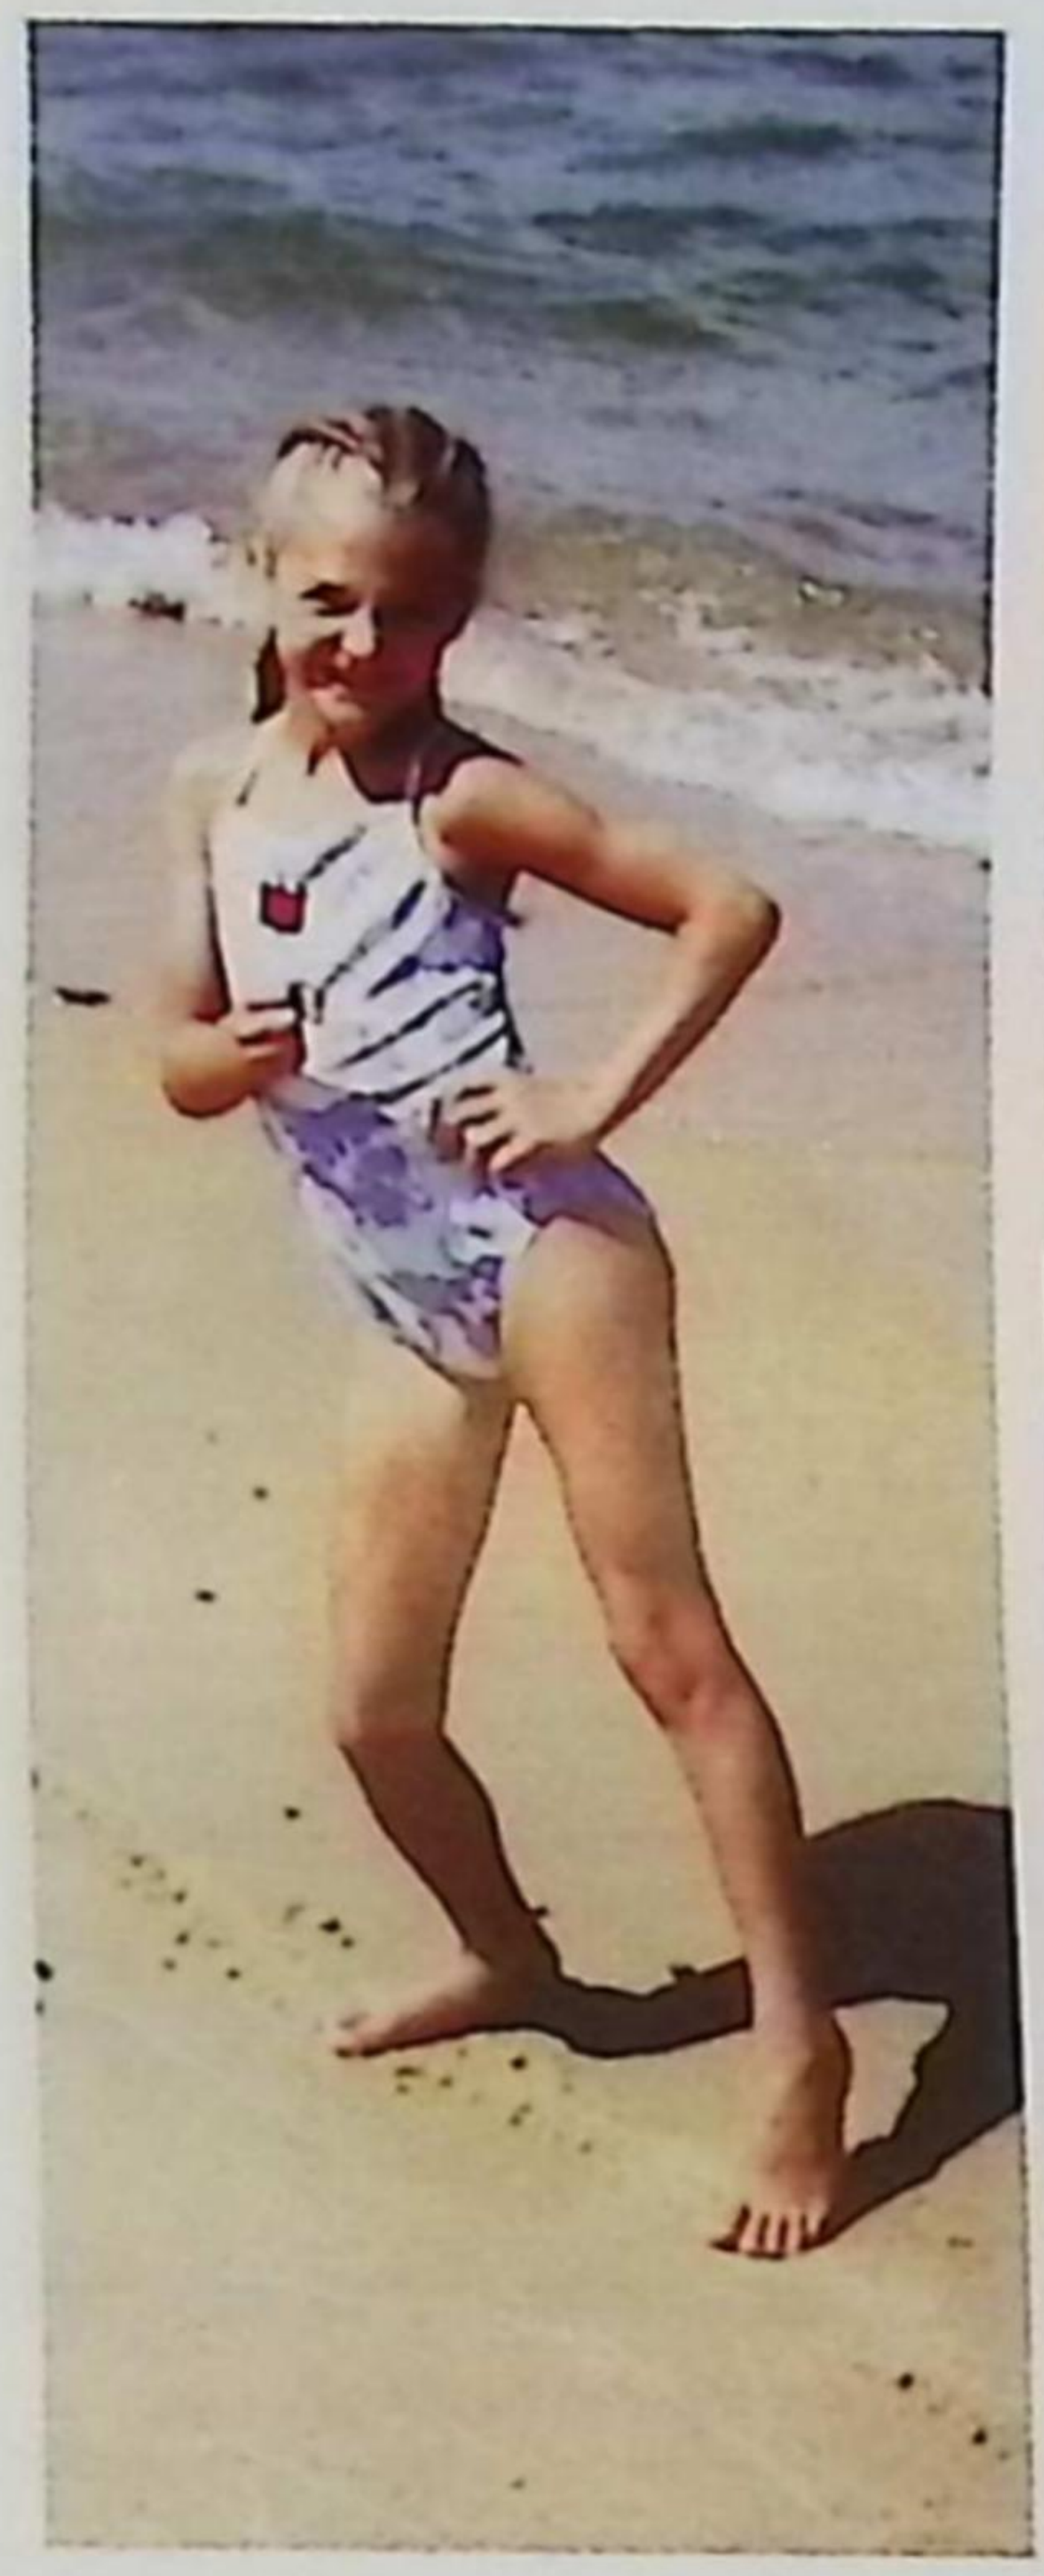
mackenzie joachim



Mack,
You are our "free spirit" - fun, loving, and wild. From the time you could walk/talk, you became very independent and strong willed. Use that determination to succeed in life. You are a beautiful girl; we hope you discover the passion we know you have inside to lead you in the right direction. Never forget that you are loved! Remember that friends come and go, but your family will always be there.
You have our hearts.
We love you always and forever,

Nicole -
You have grown from a sweet, "full-of-energy" little girl (with a cute haircut) into a beautiful, caring and unique woman with a sense of humor that never ends!
Although there were some difficult times as you struggled with illness and trying to keep up, you've made an amazing come back, and I am so proud of you! Don't ever feel that you are alone - there is always somebody there for you to reach out to, especially me.
Dream BIG and grow into it - and wherever you go... my heart goes with you!
Conrgatulations Nicole, YOU DID IT!
I love you - Mom

"...and wherever you go... my heart goes with you."

anna schmidt

Anna,
You have lit up this world with your humor, smile, and beautiful spirit. You have brought so much joy into our family and to those who know you. Your sense of humor and the way you can keep a light heart when things get tough, and the way that you can laugh at yourself are things not many can do; it is a true strength. The way you create fun wherever you go makes you fun to be around. All these precious gifts that you possess will forever make your life an incredible one. You always touch others by your happy nature, and that is truly priceless.
Anna, you have always been a blast to be around, even as a baby you made us smile and laugh. You have created priceless memories for us. The fun we have had is because of you. With the friends you have brought into our lives, and all the fun we have had together, saying "thank you" doesn't even come close to expressing how grateful we are.
Annie, there are no words to describe how loved and cherished you are. We are so blessed because of you and the joy you have brought to us.
With all our love,
Mom, Dad, Alex & Addie

PS - Mrs. Hayes and Mrs. Butlin, to name a few, thank you for always being there for J.T. with your love and support. We appreciate you!

tabitha queener

Our sweet baby girl - this is your time to shine. As you go out into this world, the sky is the limit on what you can accomplish. We knew from the moment we looked into your eyes you were meant for something great. We have laughed, cried sometimes, an talked often over the years about hopes, dreams, boys, and what shoes to wear with this outfit.. haha! We didn't know if all the things we taught you were locked in your little head. Now we know while you were rolling your eyes and crossing your arms, yo were also listening! As you travel down the road to wherever your life is going to lead you next, know that Dad and I will always be in the background should you ever need us. We are so proud of the woman you have become and we look forward to many more memories and laughs along the way. Your journey, my sweet baby, is just beginning. Now you get to write your own ending... Love you so much.

As spring begins, the seniors fall under the intoxicating spell of the infamous `senioritis' and the rest of the school prepares to step up and fill the big shoes that the graduates will leave behind. Spring is a busy season for SCHS students and staff alike; there are sports, boat regatta races, prom, battle of the crown, the class of the year grand prize, the end of the year assembly, and finally graduation. This year the seniors dominated "The Class of The Year" competition (as always) and were awarded two hours of fun in the gym complete with carnival games and a barbeque luncheon, while a crowd favorite movie "Mean Girls" played in the back gym. Everyone had something to do this spring; it was a time of great pride for our Saints. At last we can finally say, summer is just around the corner...

i am strong. i am fabulous. i am real. i am not you. i am not living up to your standards. i am hannah. i am graduating. i am living large.

1. Having a ball at the Senior Picnic, this group of friends gets all twisted and tangled together on the Twister mat.
2. Letting everybody know that he's number one, Cameron Collins ('12) prepares for a wild dune buggy ride on the beaches of Panama City.
3. Giving her new flippery friend some love, Katherine Karadjoff ('13) gets a slippery hug in The Bahamas.
4. Obviously the fastest and most good looking men in the race, Chad Zisler and Justin McDonald ('11) show the other seniors how it's done.

The countdown to spring break began with the first bell of the school year. From the beaches of Panama City, Florida, to the Jaguar in Riviera Maya, Mexico, the students of Saint Clair High School were doin' it big. They left their homework and raincoats behind and dove into the waves of their spring break getaways. While busy basking in all the legal fun that each paradise had to offer, students wished Saint Clair was home to a crazy spring break hotspot (other than good old Puttygut Road, of course). Coming back to responsibility and reality was far from easy, but on the bright side, they were only 365 days away from next year's spring break!

spring into action and onto summer

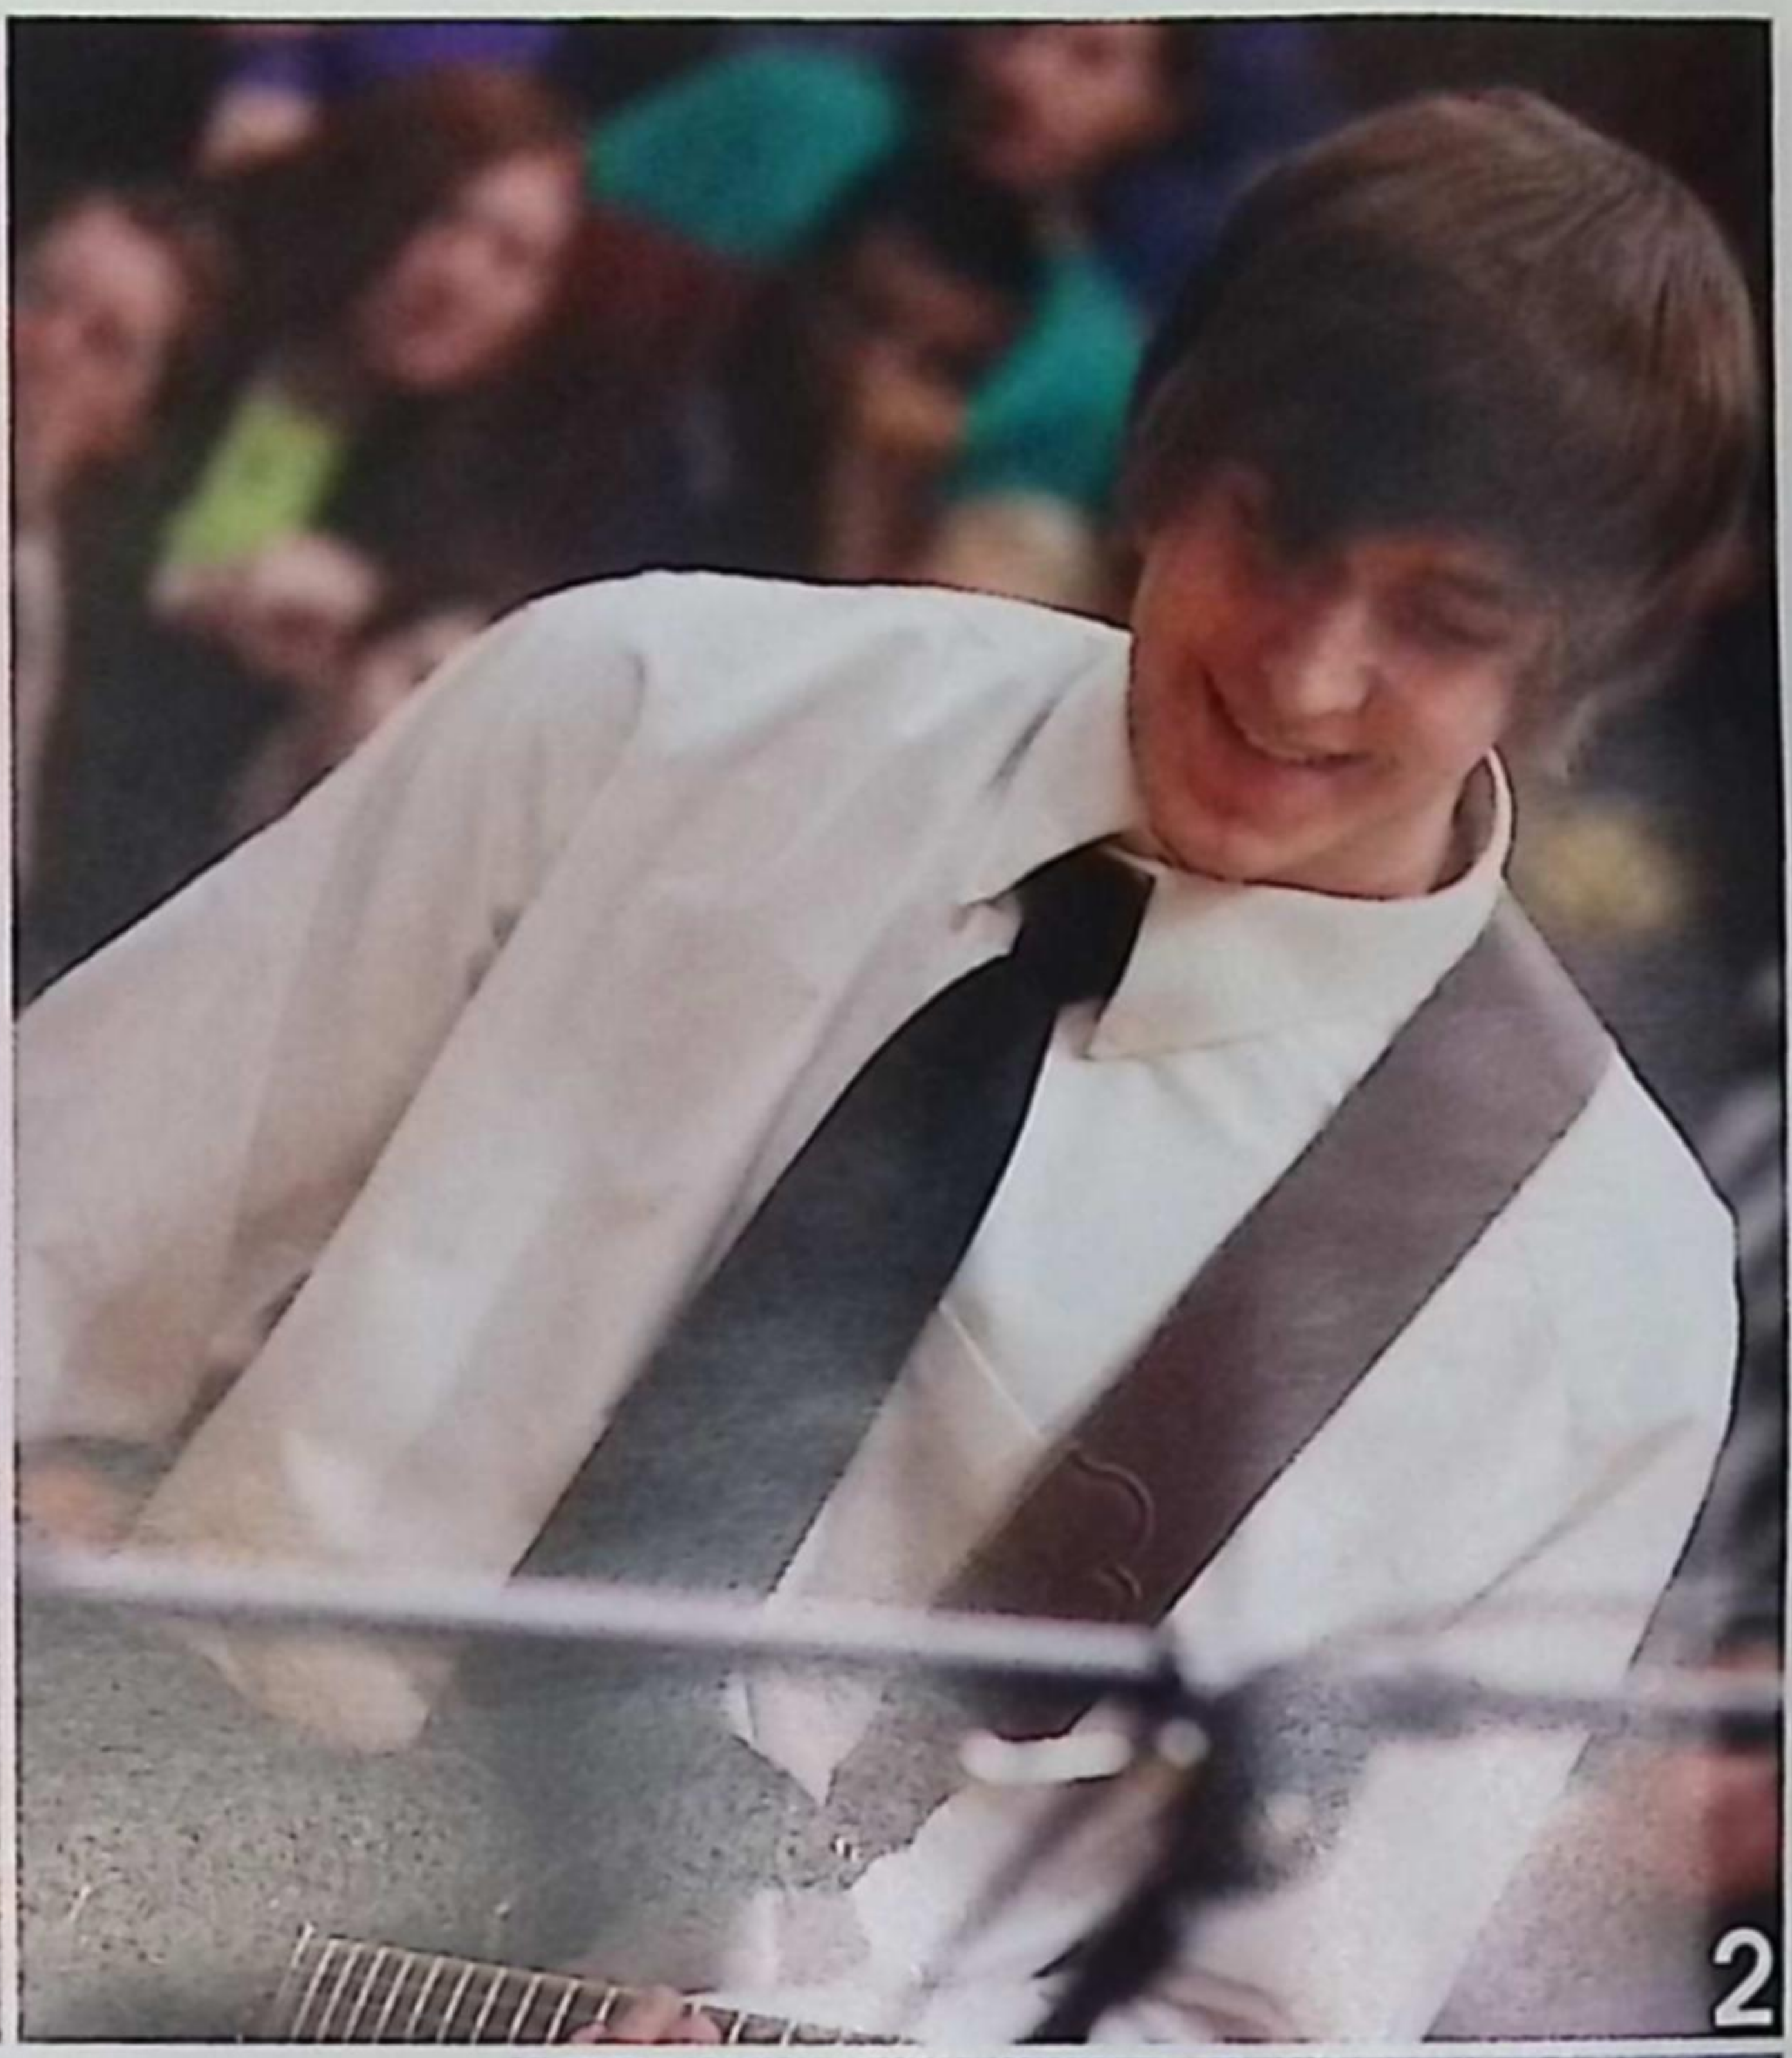
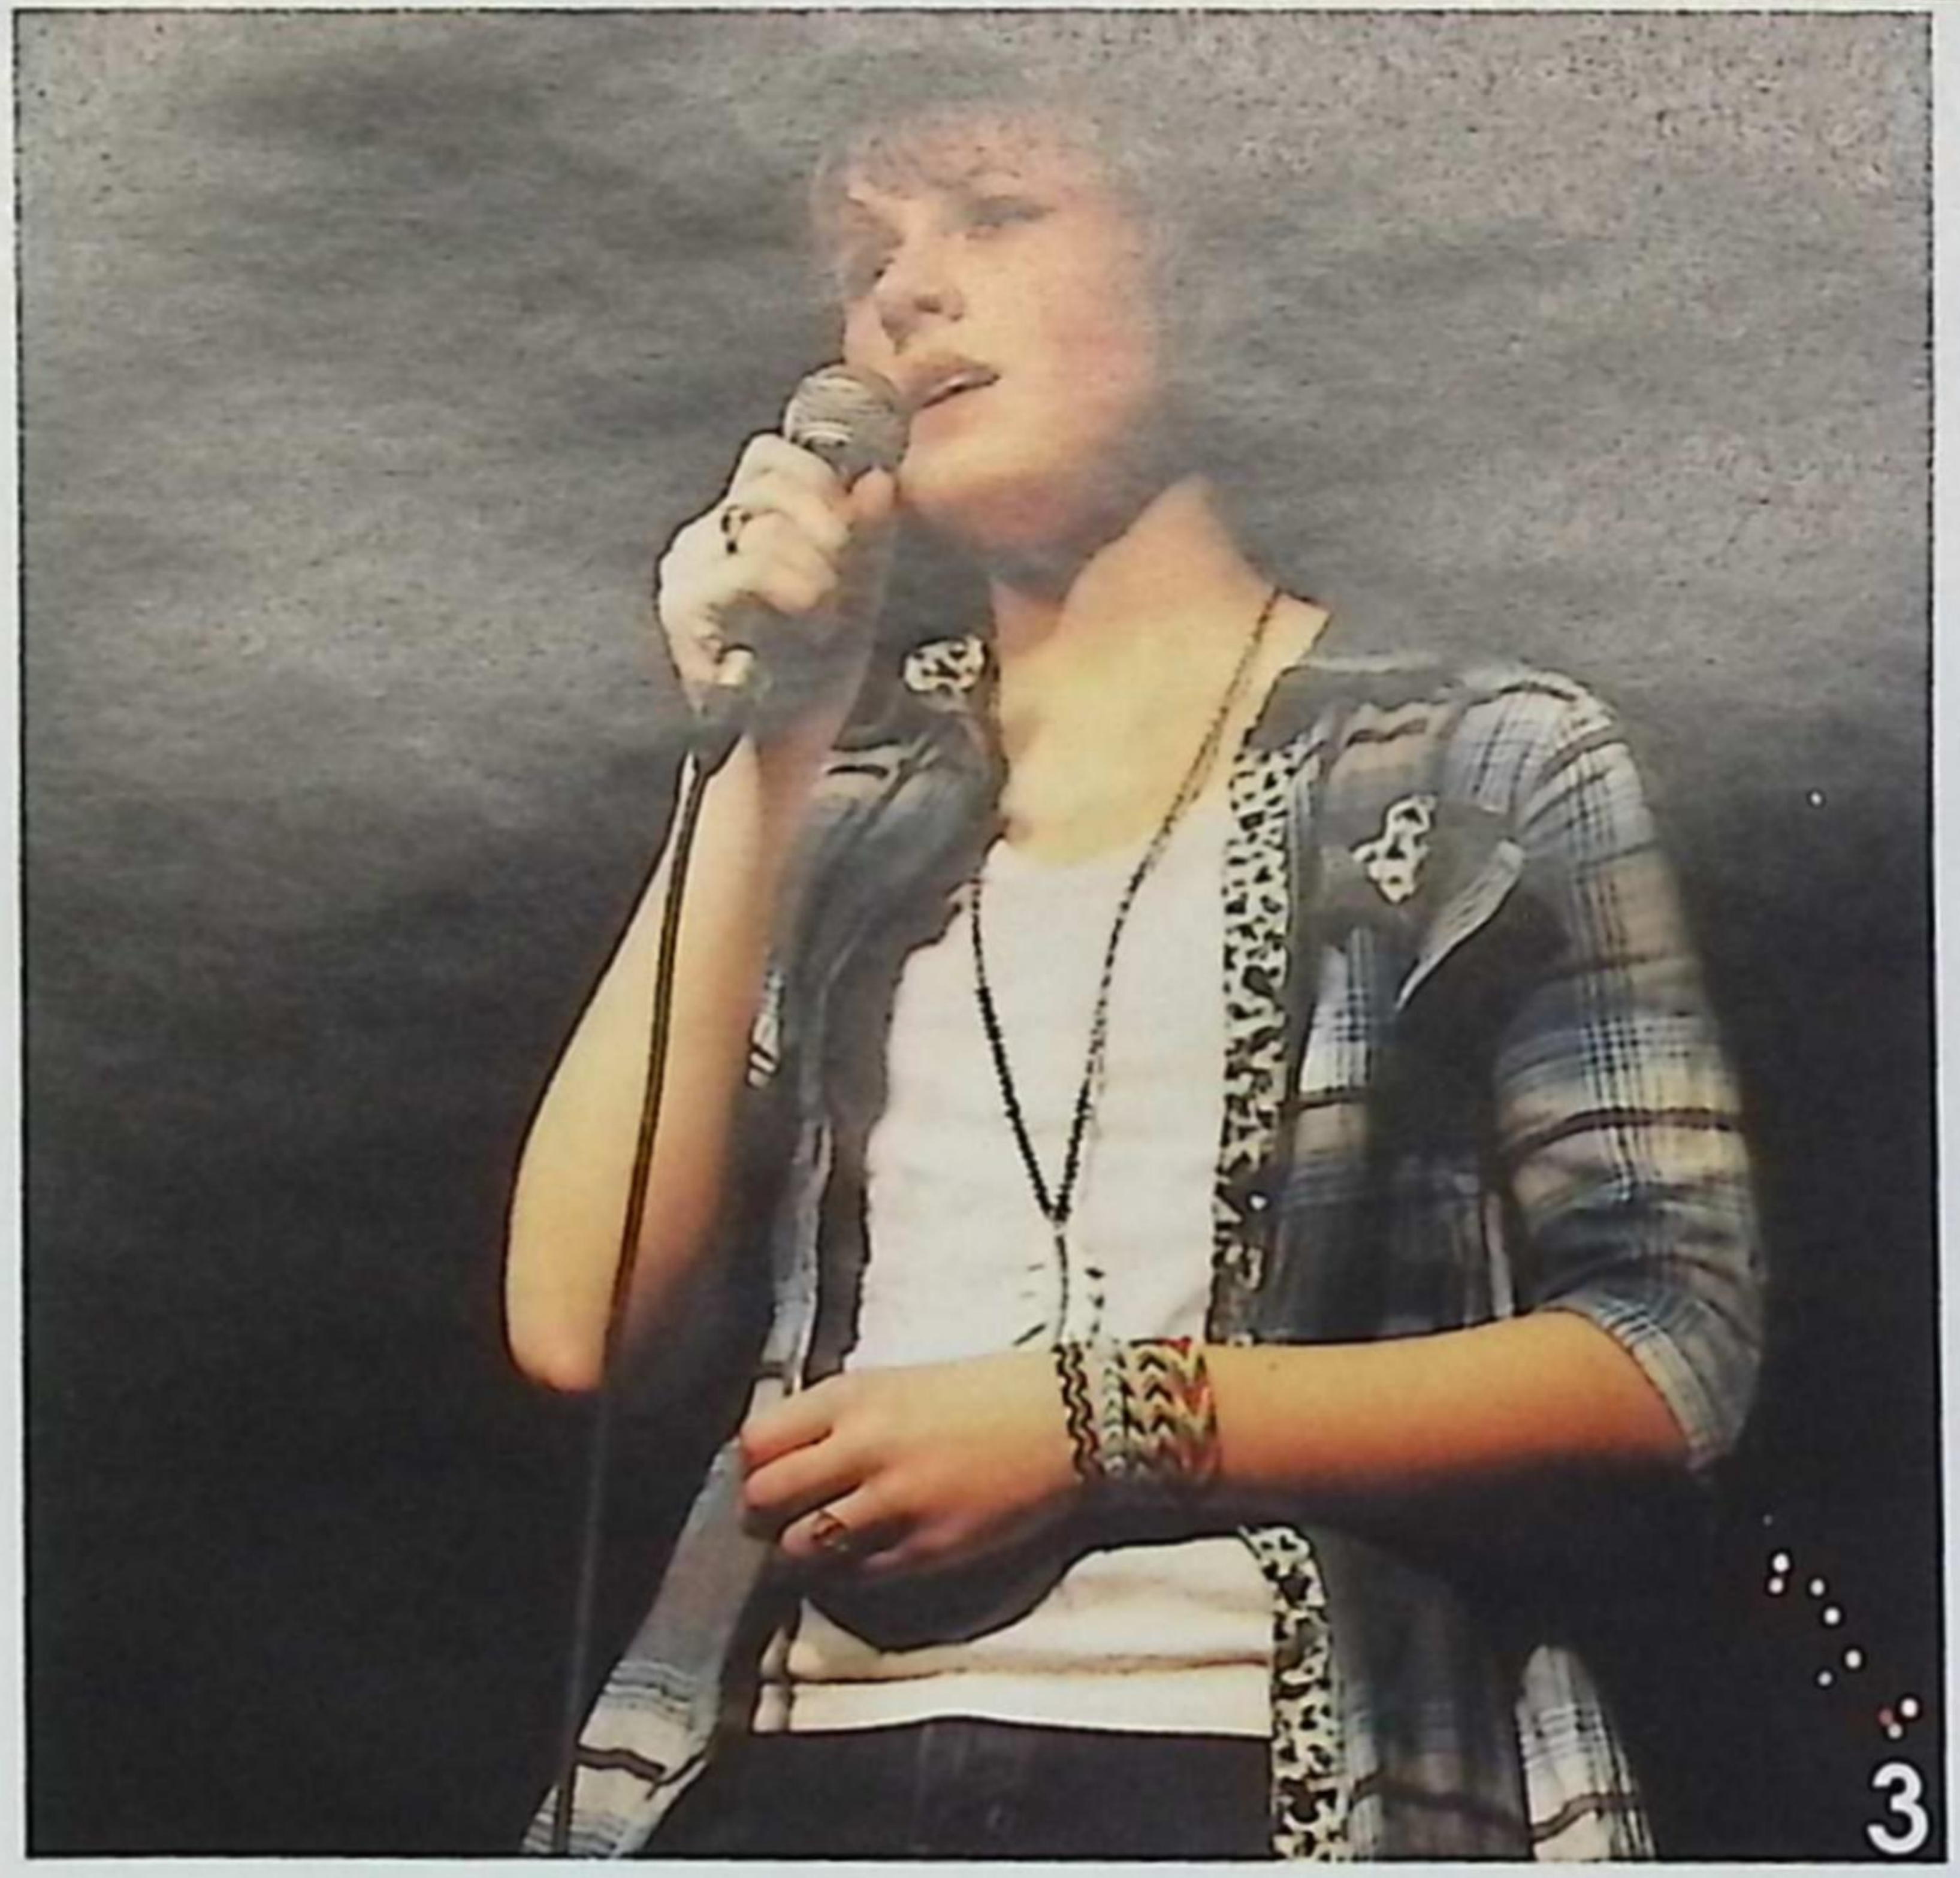
1. In complete paradise, these boys strike a signature pose on their resort at Riviera Maya, Mexico.
2. Having the honor to be the DJ on the Seniors' last day, Christopher Martus ('13) plays all the class favorites.
3. Ready to go back out under the spring break sun, Calving Marshall and Michelle Litton ('11) make the best of their getaway.
4. After careful and tedious carving in the white sand, the "PCB Crew" (yes, even Alex) joins together in a brotherly bond.





1. Performing "Magic to Do," Anson Pavlov ('11) shines while singing the opening number of the hit musical Pippin.
2. Feeling the adrenaline rush, John Shell ('11) smiles wryly after performing with the jazz band.
3. Mustering the ability to perform in front of her student body, Holly Hutcheson ('11) sings at the Coffee House.
4. Dancing to a number from Cinderella, Erika Stagier ('12) embraces the attention from her peers and teachers.

Which part of your work can you most relate?

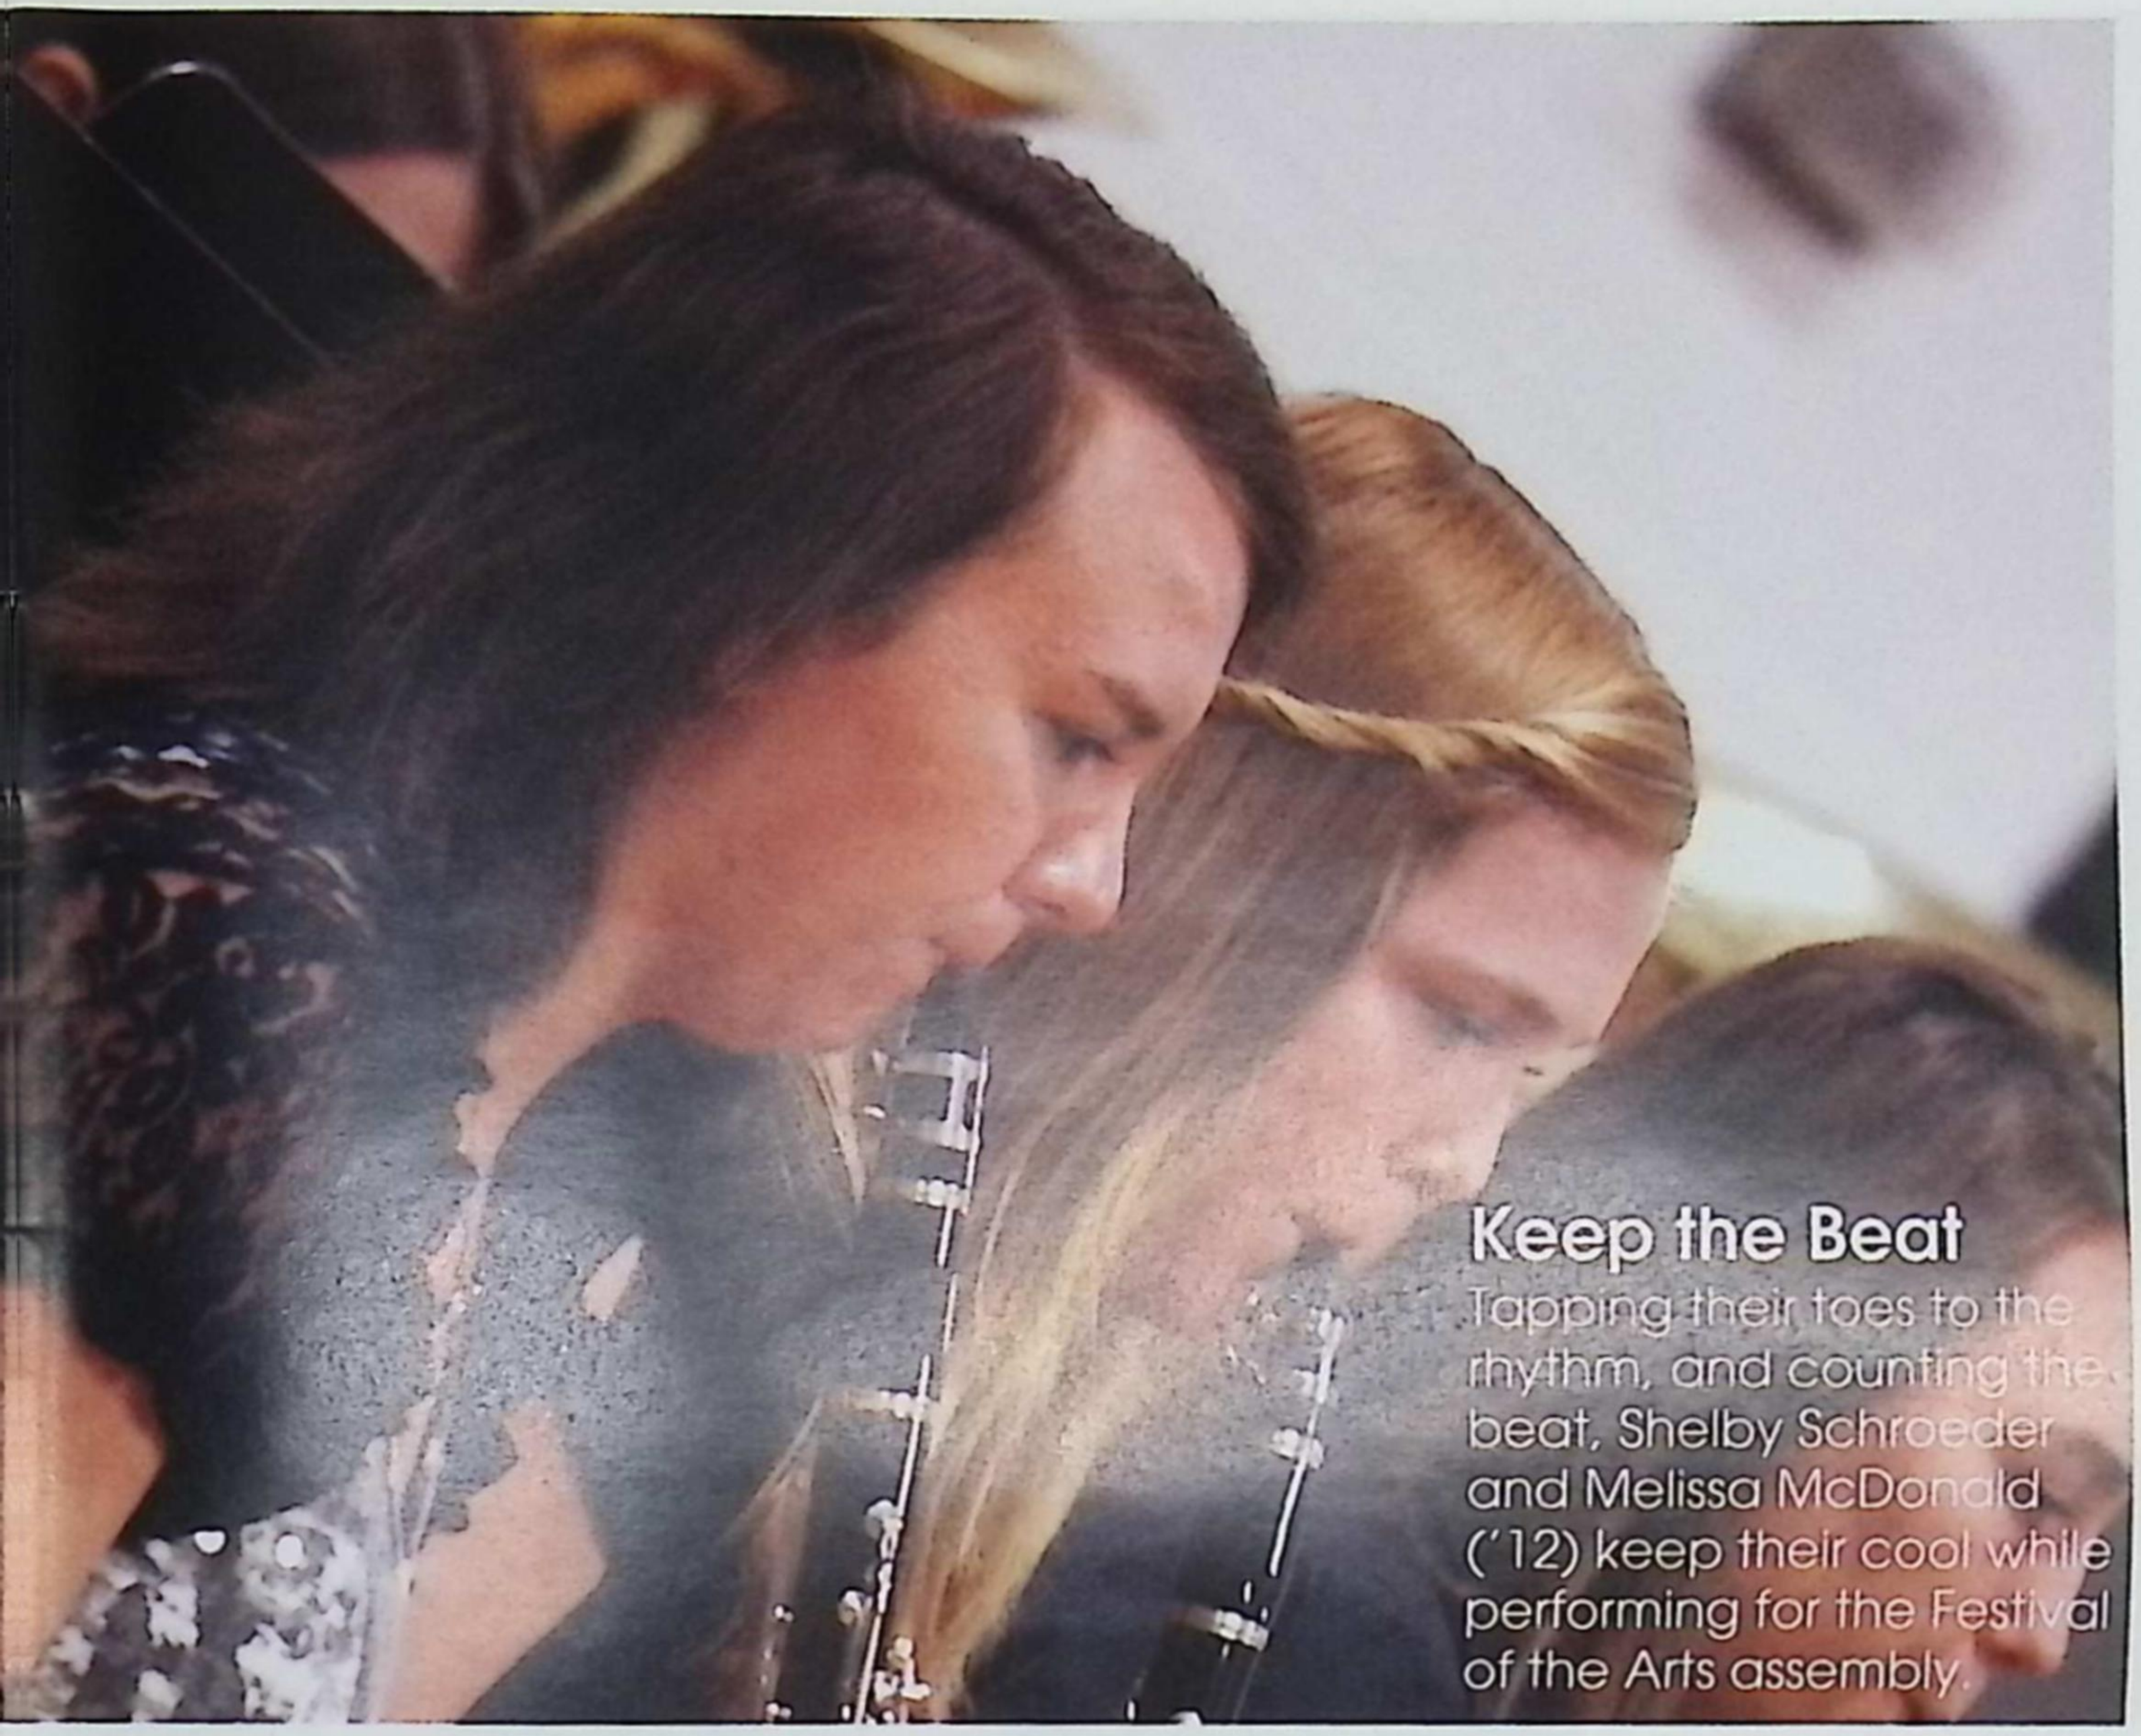
"What I relate most to are my shoes because they represent both sides of my personality." -Sarah McGowan, Art student ('11)

"The song I most relate to is "I'm Yours" by Jason Mraz. I like this song because I am always there to help my friends in a time of need." -Garrett Hadwin, Choir student ('13)

"The instrument I relate to most is the bass clarinet; I have been playing it for six years." -Joanna Gorecki, Band student ('12)

"The character I most enjoyed was Martha. She is very indecisive and at times scared. She was refreshing, because I'm not at all like her." -Bridget Dietlin, Drama student ('11)



Keep the Beat
Tapping their toes to the rhythm, and counting the beat, Shelby Schroeder and Melissa McDonald ('12) keep their cool while performing for the Festival of the Arts assembly.

festival of the arts

time to shine

"Creativity is allowing yourself to make mistakes. Art is knowing which ones to keep."

-Scott Adams

As the school year winds down, the SCHS community takes time to appreciate those students with special talents. These individuals are those who went the extra mile, whether it was staying after school to work on a vocal ensemble, or staying late into the night for theatre rehearsal. At St. Clair High School each spring we dedicate an assembly to these hard working students. Festival of the Arts consists of a school wide assembly, an evening performance at the Performing Arts Center, and also the student body comes together for the annual Coffee House. Students get the opportunity to appreciate their fellow students, talents and, at the Coffee House, students also get the opportunity to try out their talents in front of a different audience. While some students are recognized for their athleticism, others their academics; it is through this Festival that other students are known for their talents.

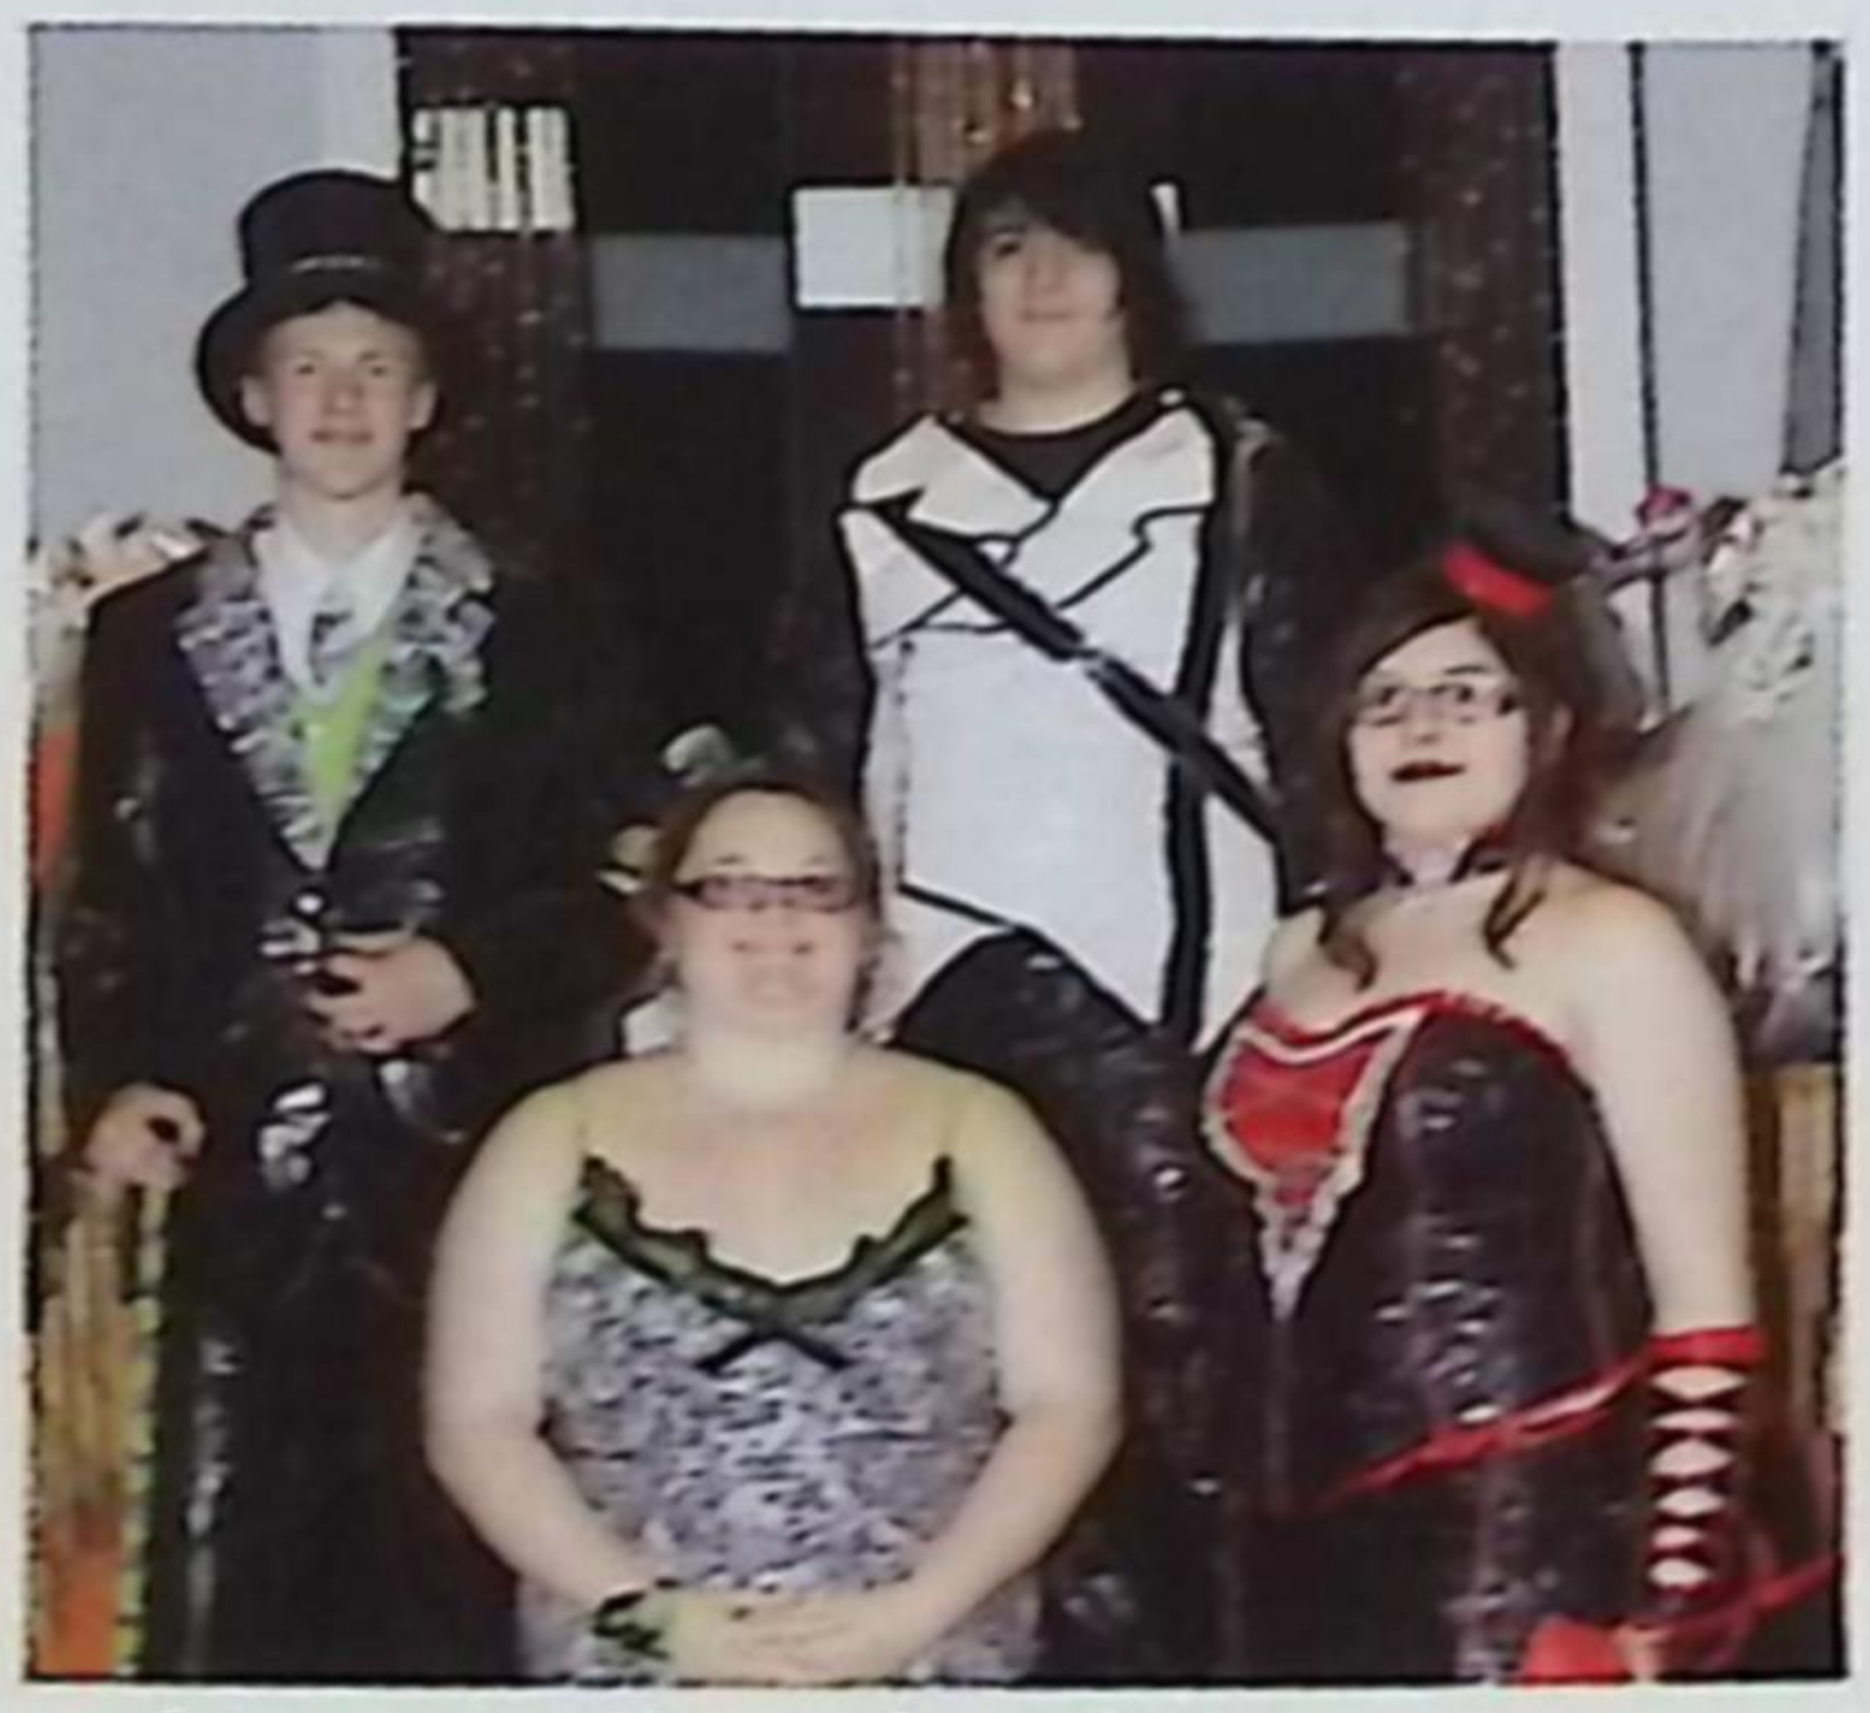
"There are short-cuts to happiness, and dancing is one of them."

- Vicki Baum

Does their prom attire look a bit strange to you? Well, that is because their tuxes and dresses are made entirely out of duct tape. Amy Collier ('11), Adam Billing ('12), Celena Comerio ('12), and her date, all chose to give up comfort for a chance to win up to $5,000 each. They all entered the "Stuck at Prom" contest for an opportunity to get some serious green.



According to Amy Collier ('11), she went through 15 or more rolls of duct tape and spent a total of 30 to 35 hours making her dress.

Everything was made out of duct tape; even the corsage is made out of that sticky adhesive. They may have spent hours upon hours creating these outfits but unfortunately, they also spent the whole night dancing in their itchy duct tape outfits. However, it will all be worth it if they are awarded the $5,000 grand prize.

5. William Muggelberg ('11) isn't afraid to get down and dirty for the opportunity to be crowned Prom King.

Where do you learn your dance moves and what is your favorite move?

" I learn my moves from God, and my favorite is the moonwalk."
- Michael Brunner ('11)

" I learn most of my dance moves from That's Entertainment Dance Studio and music videos. I'd say my favorite dance move is the bend and snap."
- Margaret Woodard ('11)

" I learn my dance moves from T.V. and songs and my favorite is the dougie."

saying good-bye

"I hope your dreams take you...to the corners of your smiles, to the highest of your hopes, to the windows of your opportunities, and to the most special place your heart has ever known."

Music blaring, lights flashing, every heart racing as we jump, groove, and shimmy. Legs aching with the beat of the music, sweat soaking our new dresses and suits, mouths dry from the howl of pure joy. The pain and soreness will set in later, but during the dance, the music pulses and exudes excitement. Although this year's Homecoming week was more subdued, Saints' spirit was still bursting through the seams. Homecoming is a way for students to dress up, get down with friends, and just blow off some steam. This year we enforced a new dance policy with wristbands. Although the chaperones and the teachers seemed to like the idea, students thought otherwise. Students were forced to wear a wristband to help enforce proper dance behavior; if a student was misbehaving then the wristband would be cut and if they were caught again they would be dismissed. Even with the new dancing rules students had a great time and memorable evening.

Challenging himself at each and every game, and activity, Michael Brunner ('11) clings on to the sides of the hamster wheel at The Senior All Night Party.

"I wanna rock and roll all nightand party every day." -Kiss

After a long day of embraces, tears, friends, and family photos, the seniors take one last night to be together. The Senior All Night Party is a parent sponsored night filled with many different activities and tons of adventures. These graduates are kept entertained with scuba diving, bull riding, a salon, Henna tattoos, and the annual seniors' fire truck ride. The seniors are kept hostage from 8 o' clock until 3 in the morning. Although the Senior All Night party is one of fun and games, it also is a night for the seniors to say their last goodbyes. There may be graduation parties over the summer, but the Senior All Night Party is a night dedicated to them and their accomplishments.

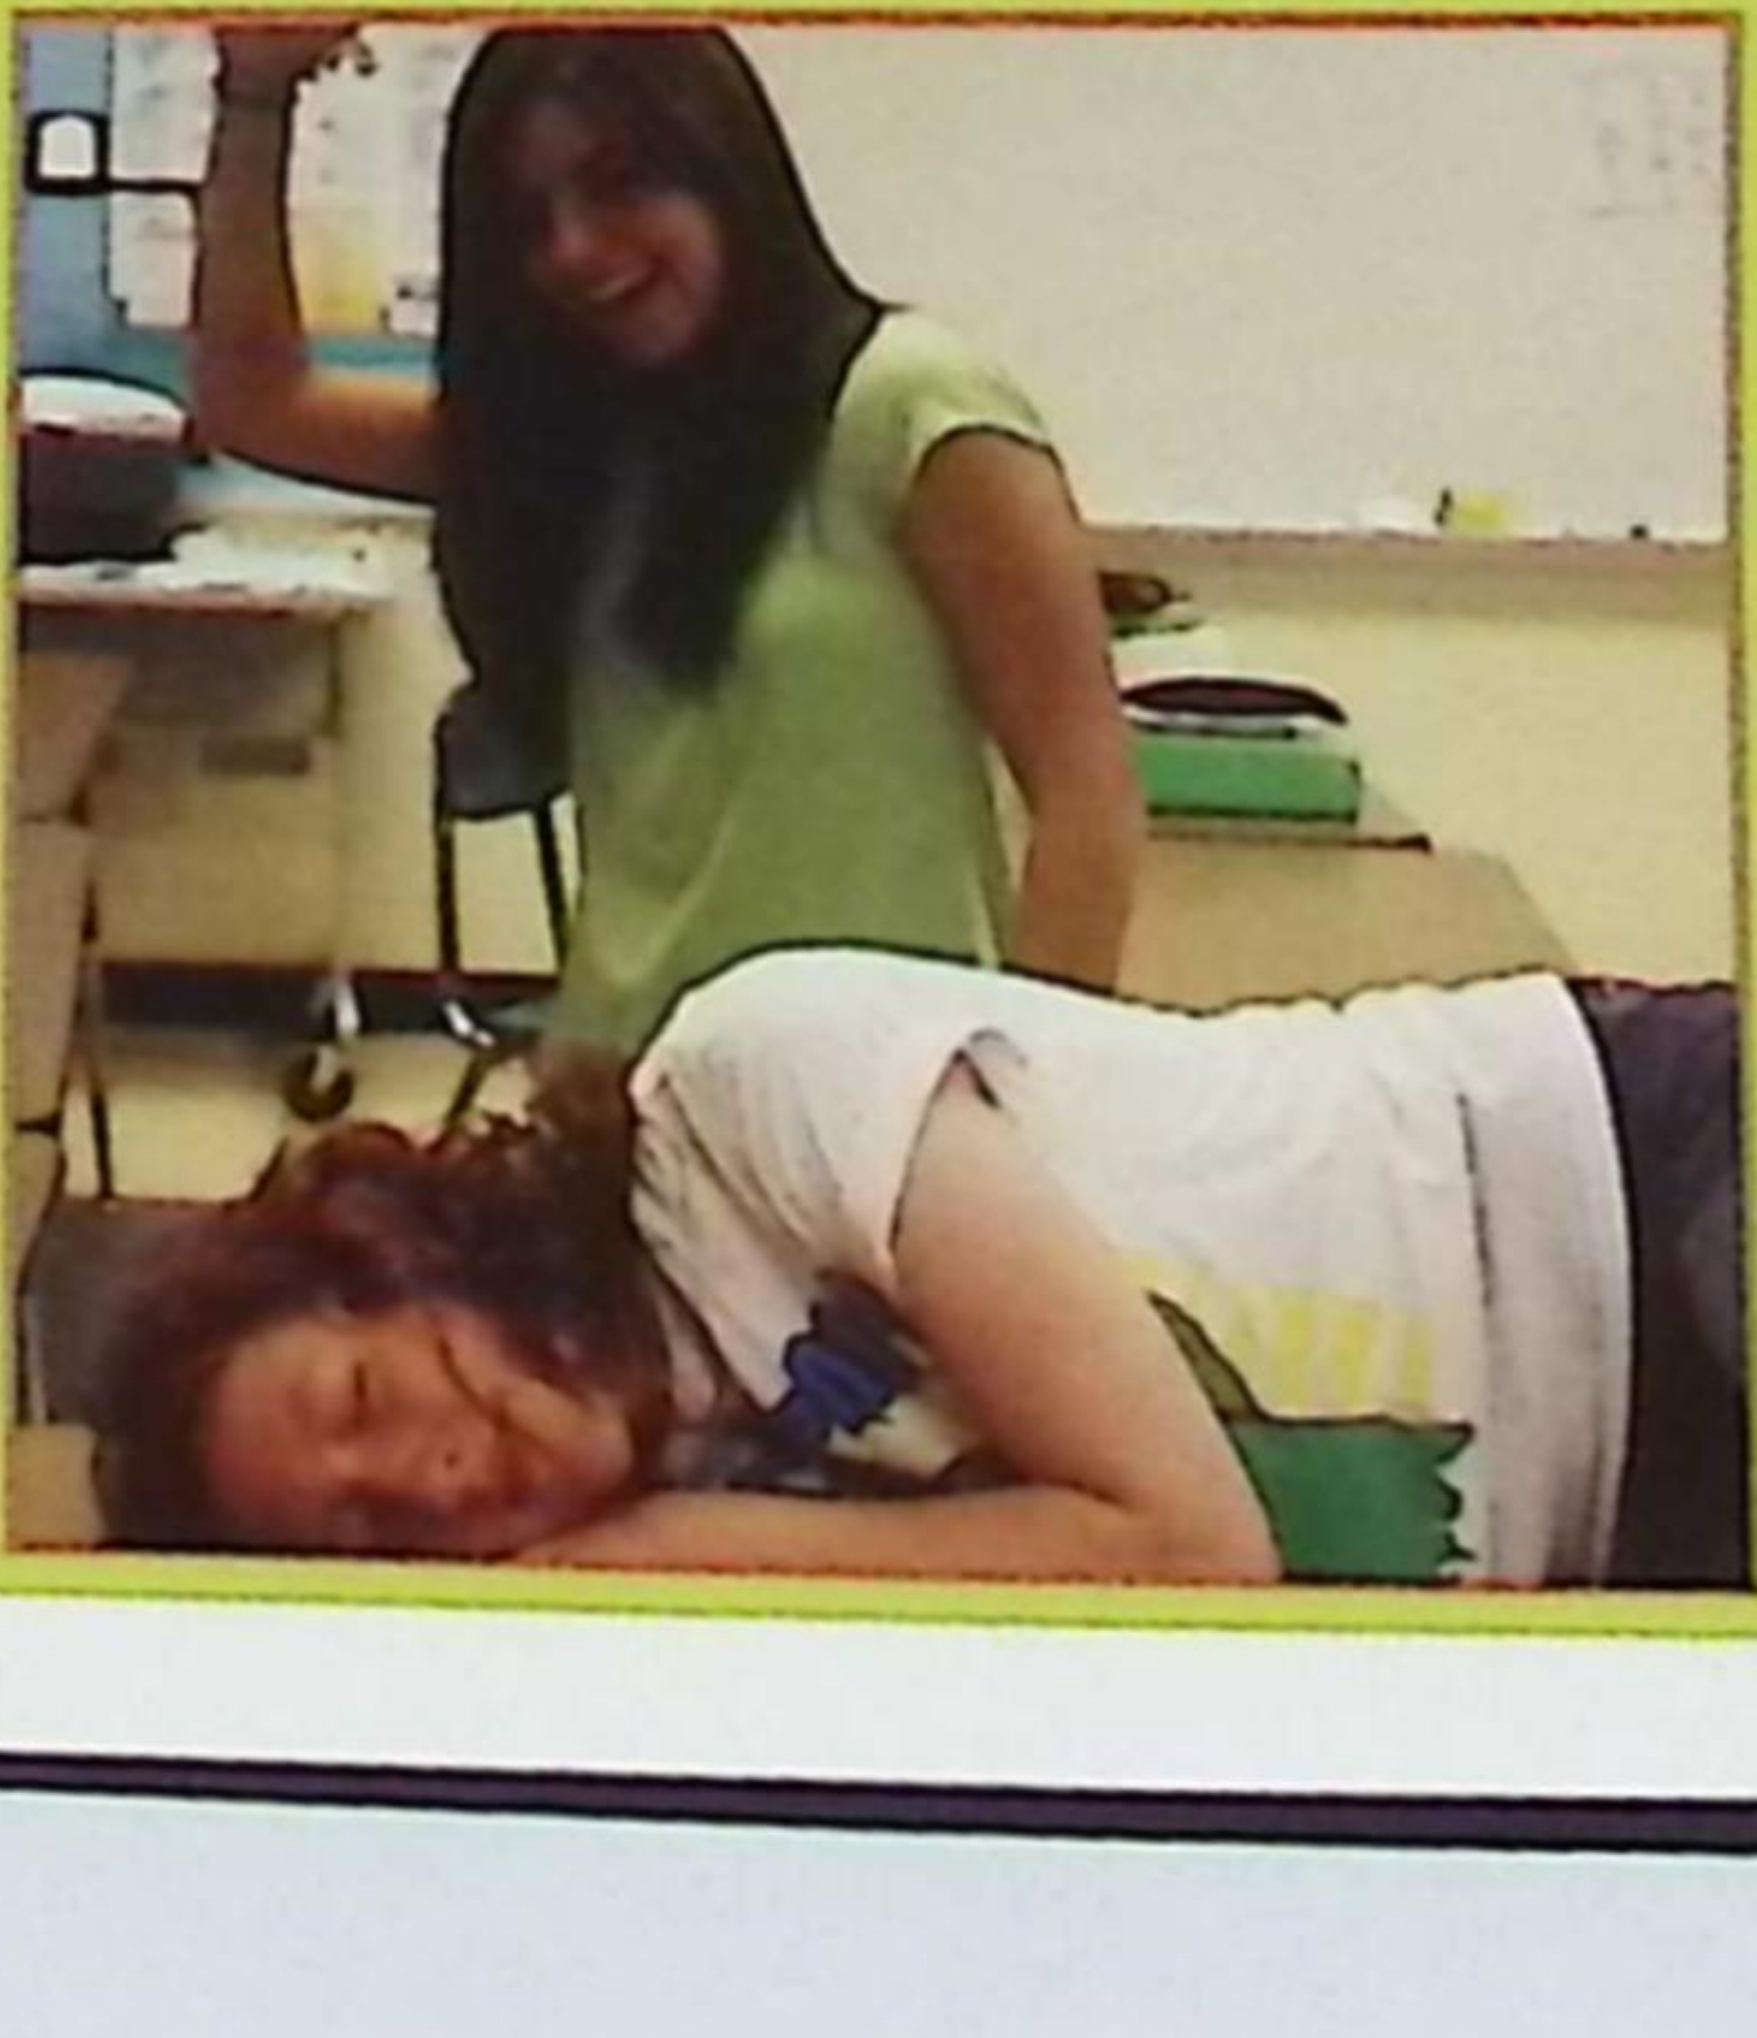
"To stay up all night after graduation I plan to stick to one simple motto: 'Imma do me.'"
-Patrick Miller and Jacob Wiseheart



"After graduation I plan to come home, take my robe off and switch into some P.J.'s, and take a power nap. Then I'll wake up rejuvenated and ready to party all night with my good friend Kaitlyn Davis."

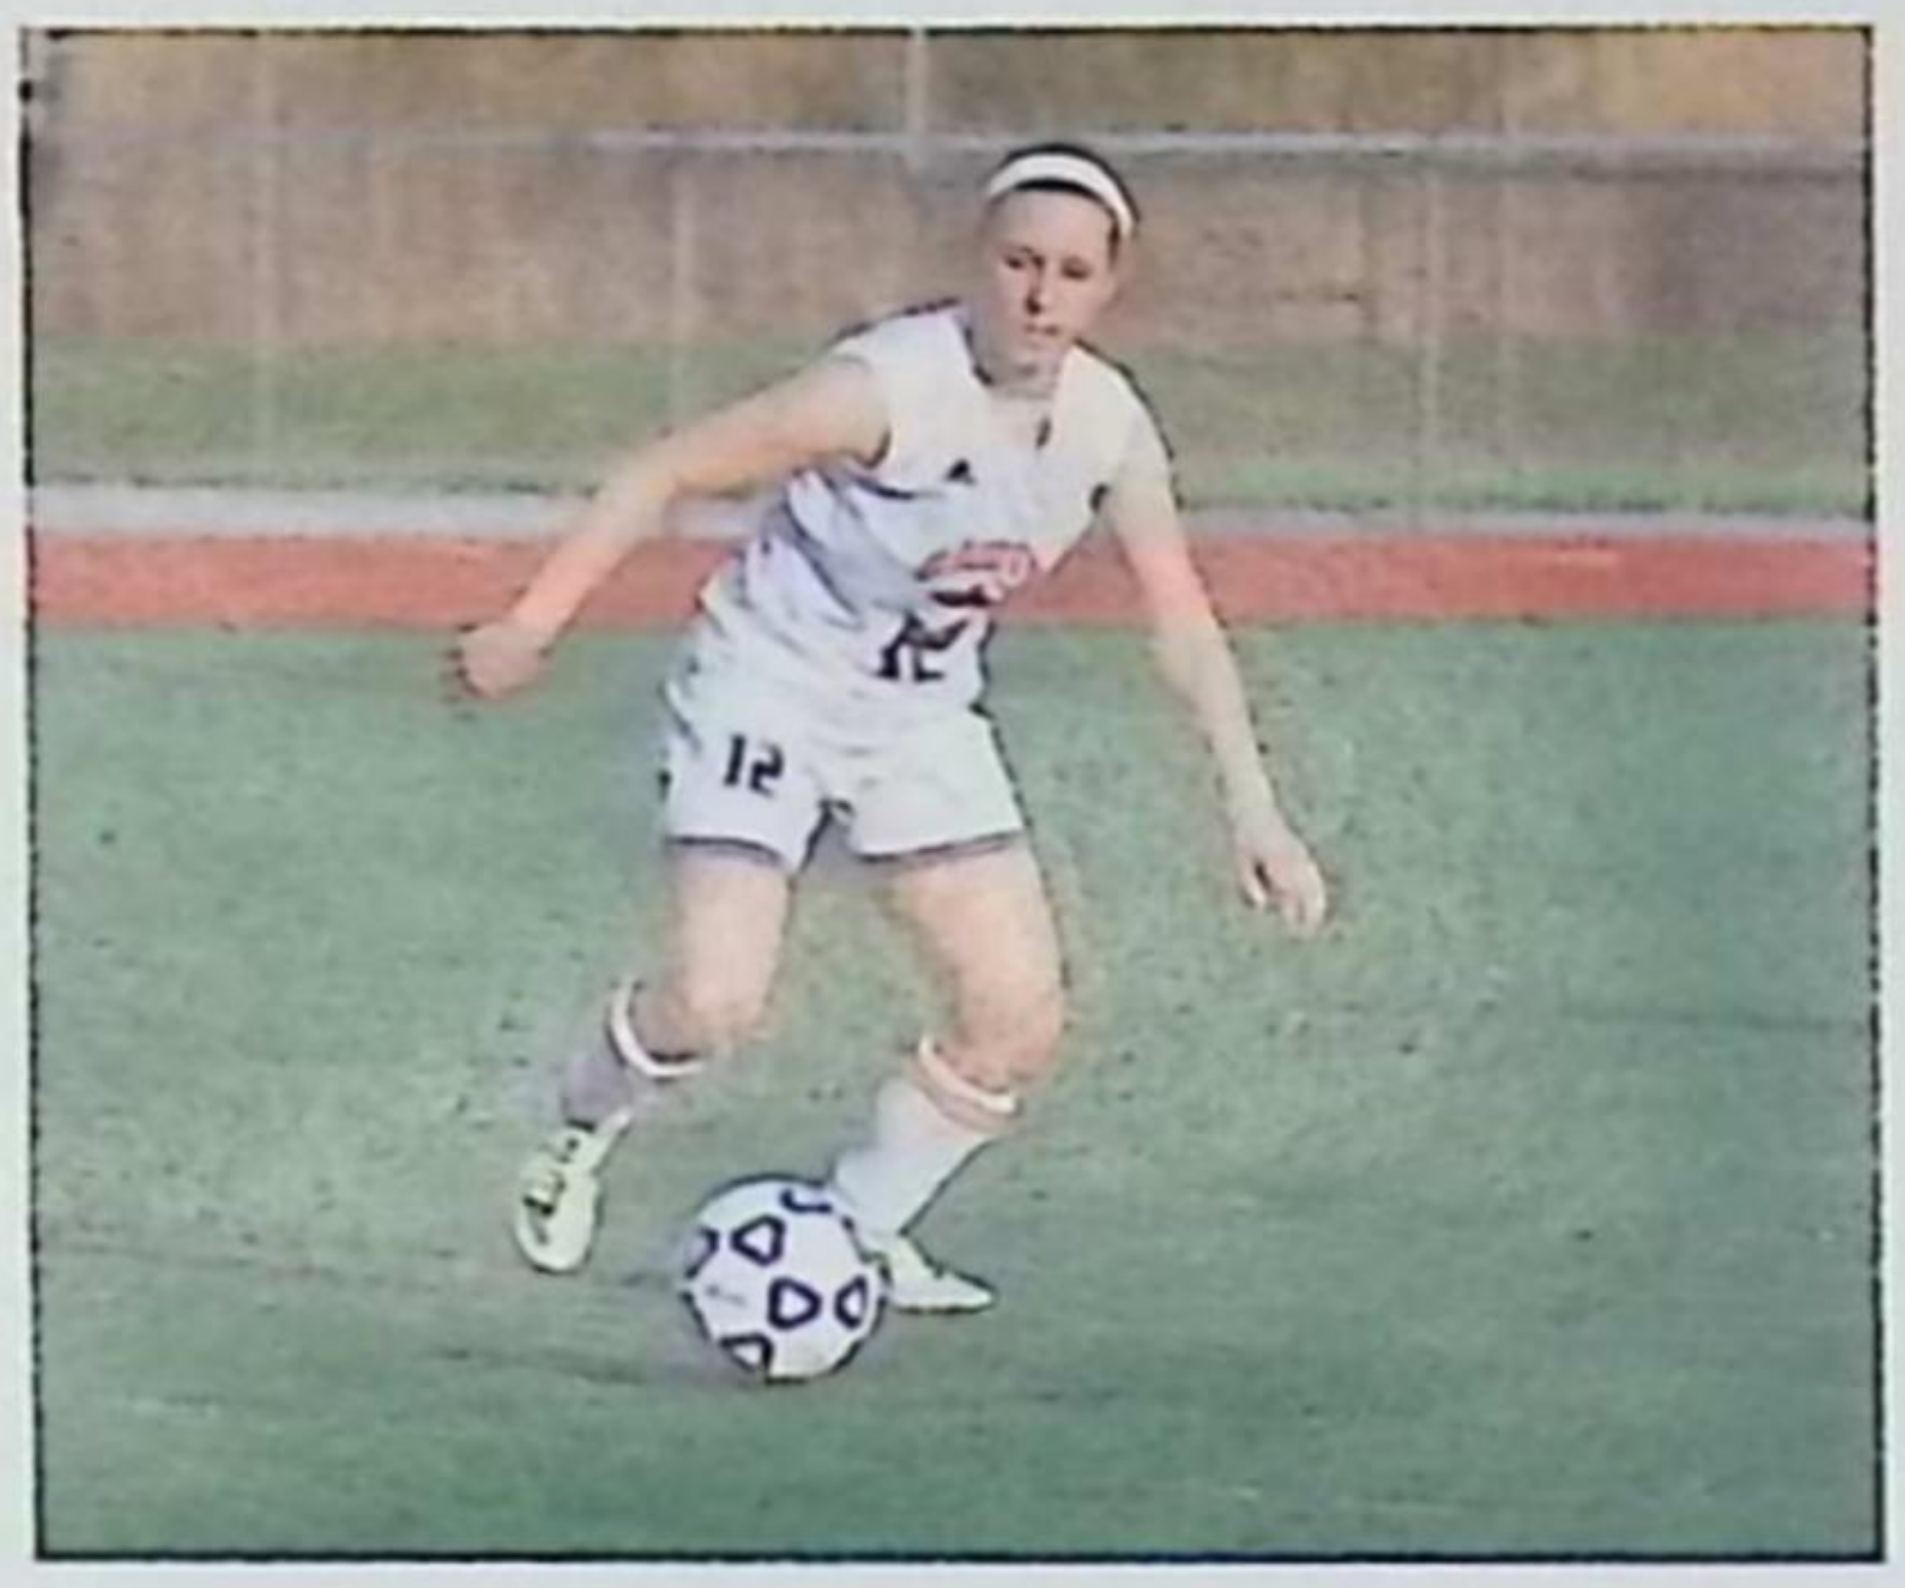
"Superstition is to religion what astrology is to astronomy: the mad daughter of a wise mother."
-Voltaire



Where does fact become superstition? Where does superstition become fact? For years, the St. Clair varsity girls' soccer team has been debating these questions. For the past five seasons, it has only been during odd years that the team has been successful. In 2007, the team managed to win districts. In 2009, the Saints were league champs. And this season, 2011, the Saints came in second place in the league. So are these patterns coincidences, or are they truly the work of a higher power? While it may take a few more years to find out, one thing's for sure: these Saints had a paranormally marvelous season.

"A few times I've been around that track so it's not just gonna happen like that..."
-Gwen Stefani

This year, like most, the boys track team fought for their spot in the state meet. They, as a team and a family, rooted for each other and were determined to get as many men as possible to join together and make St. Clair proud; whether it was breaking and setting new records in their events, or placing well in the state finals. No matter what, the boys were always like a family, supporting each other through everything. Even with the many meet cancellations due to weather, (thanks a lot, mother nature), the boys track team always gave 110%.

-Keene Garcia vs. Leah Brosky ('13)

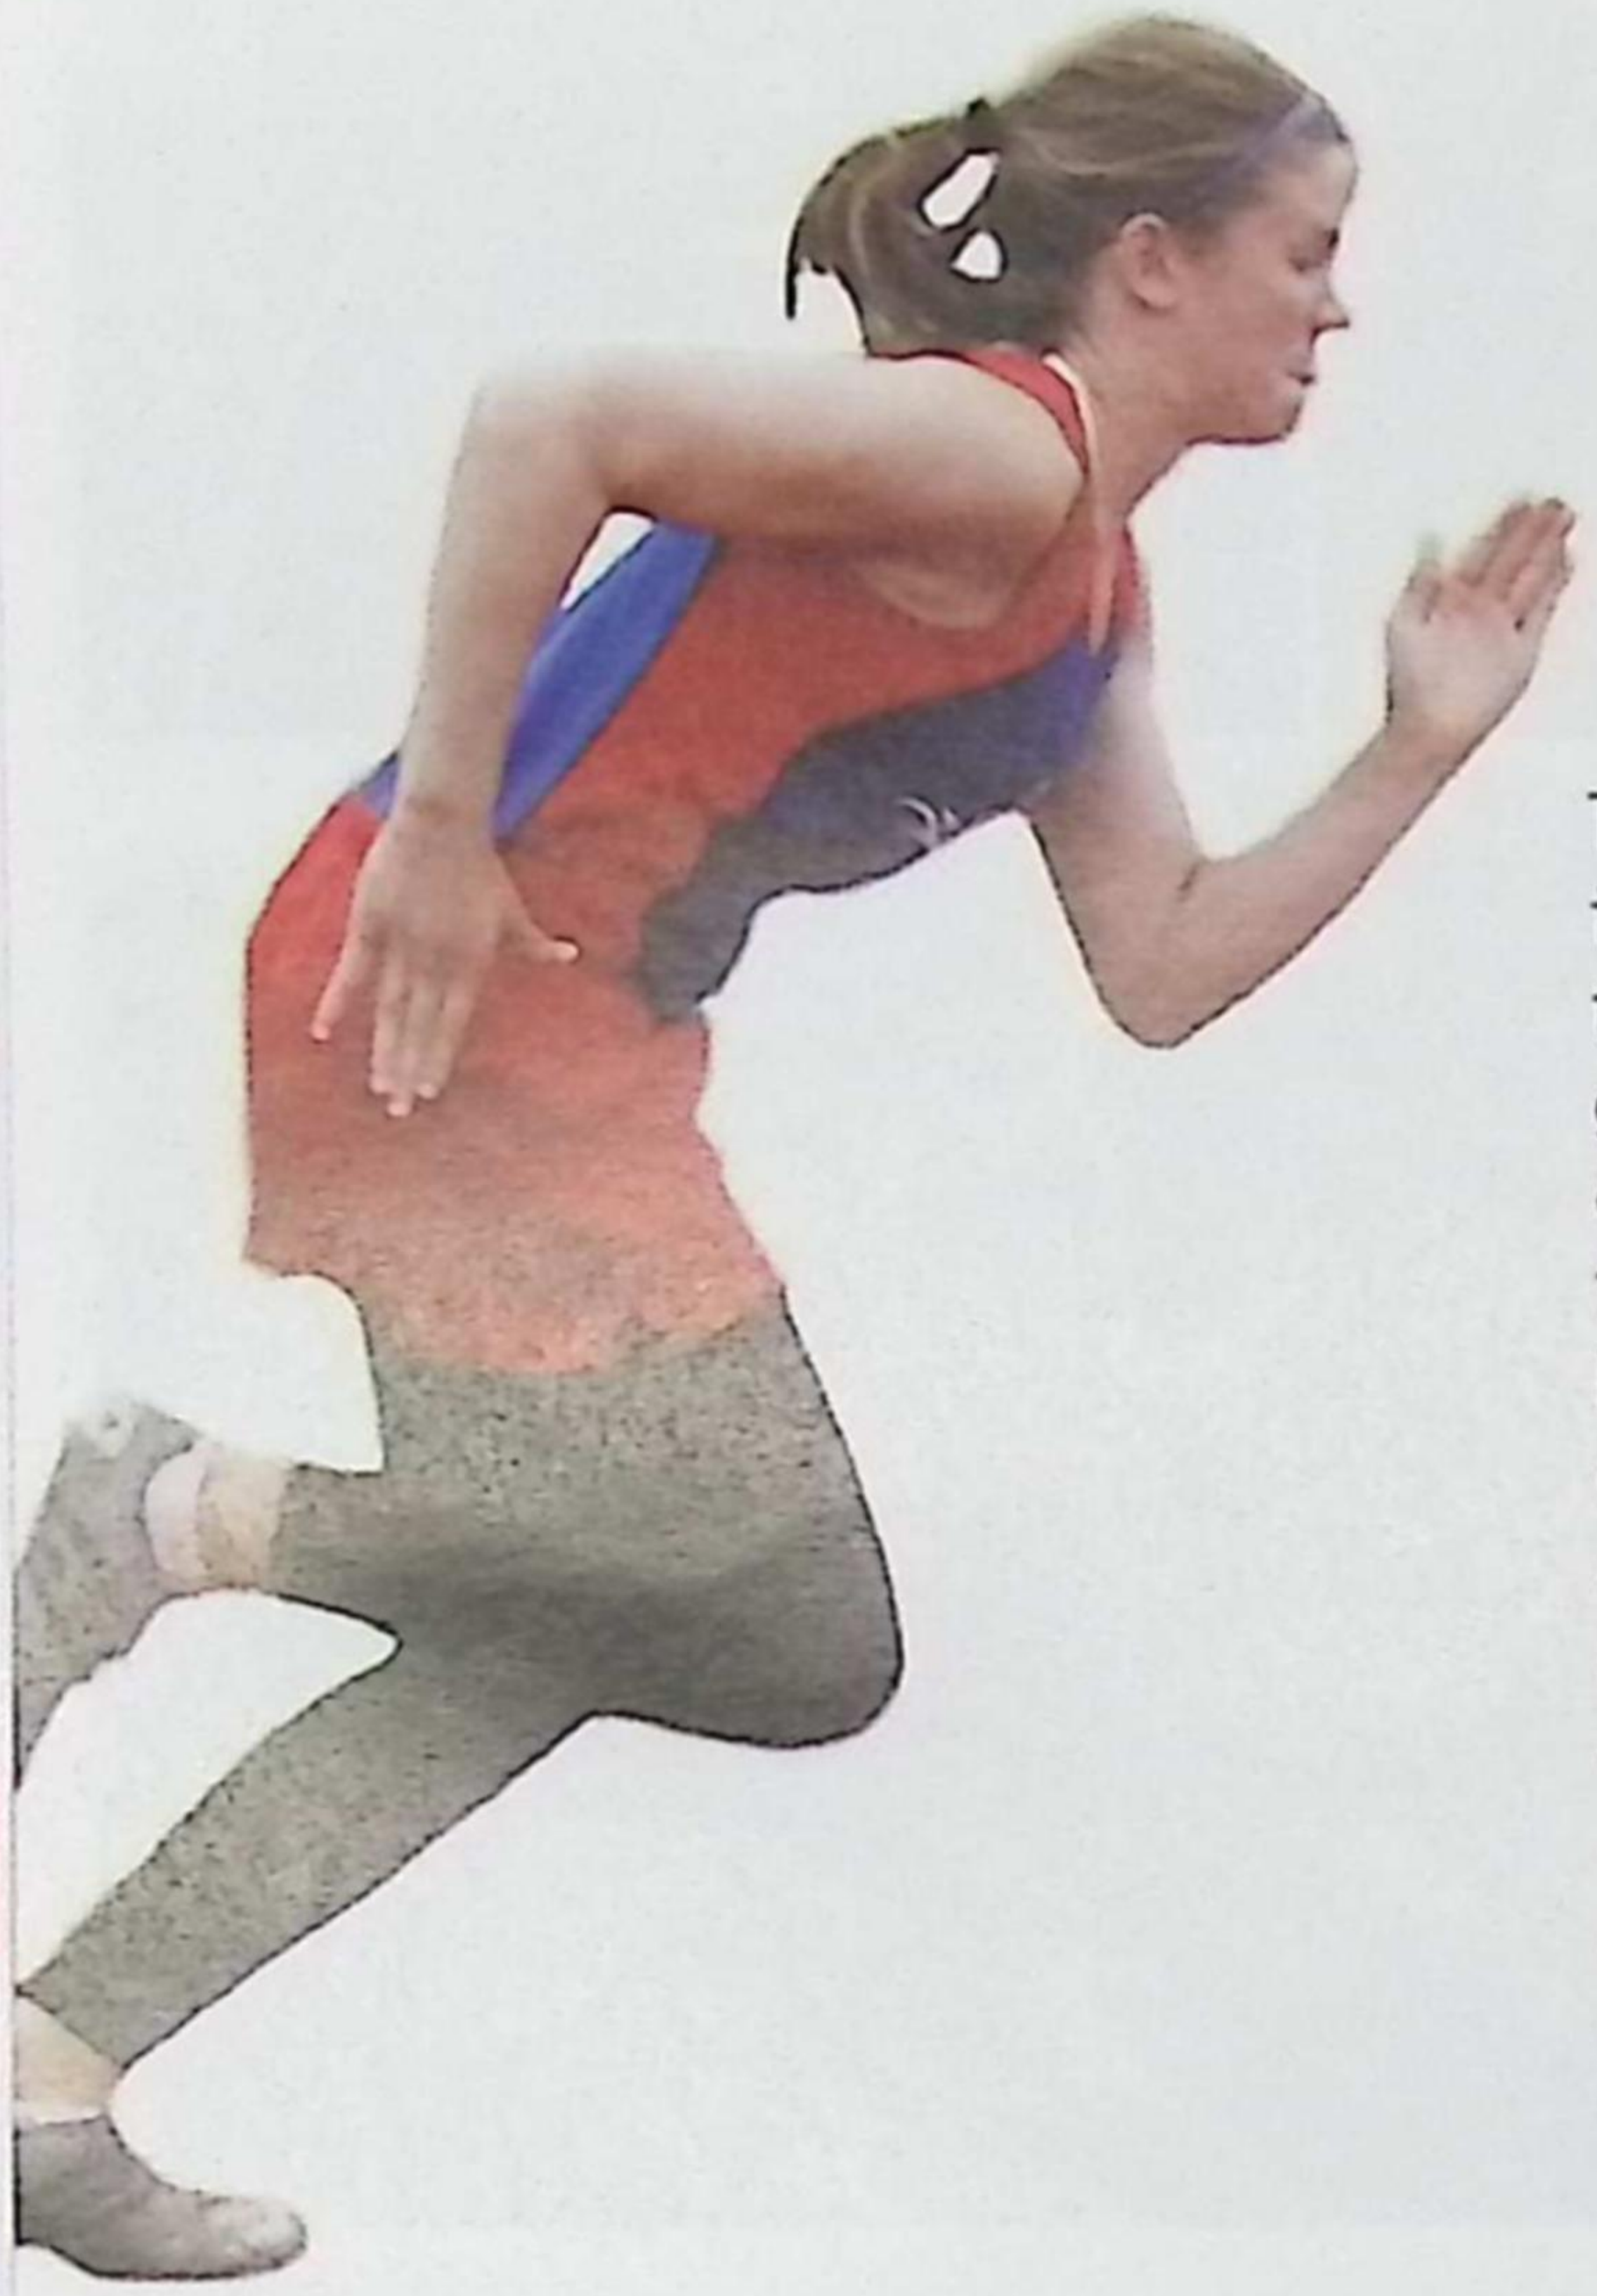
Running is not just a sport, but a way of life.



The Saints' varsity girls track team had a fantastic season, going father than any other girls track team in St. Clair history. The ladies dominated in each and every competition, defeating all of their opponents. Not only did multiple girls qualify individually for states, but the team itself also qualified. Kelsey Kerin took 1st place in the team state finals, in the 300 hurdles, while the 3200 relay of Kayla Balfour ('12), Kayla Smade ('11), Lauren Zens ('12), and Jessica Tippie ('12) were named all state. Everyone is proud of how well the Saints did and Coach Davidson said, "It's the best team of my career, and arguably the best in Saint Clair High School history."

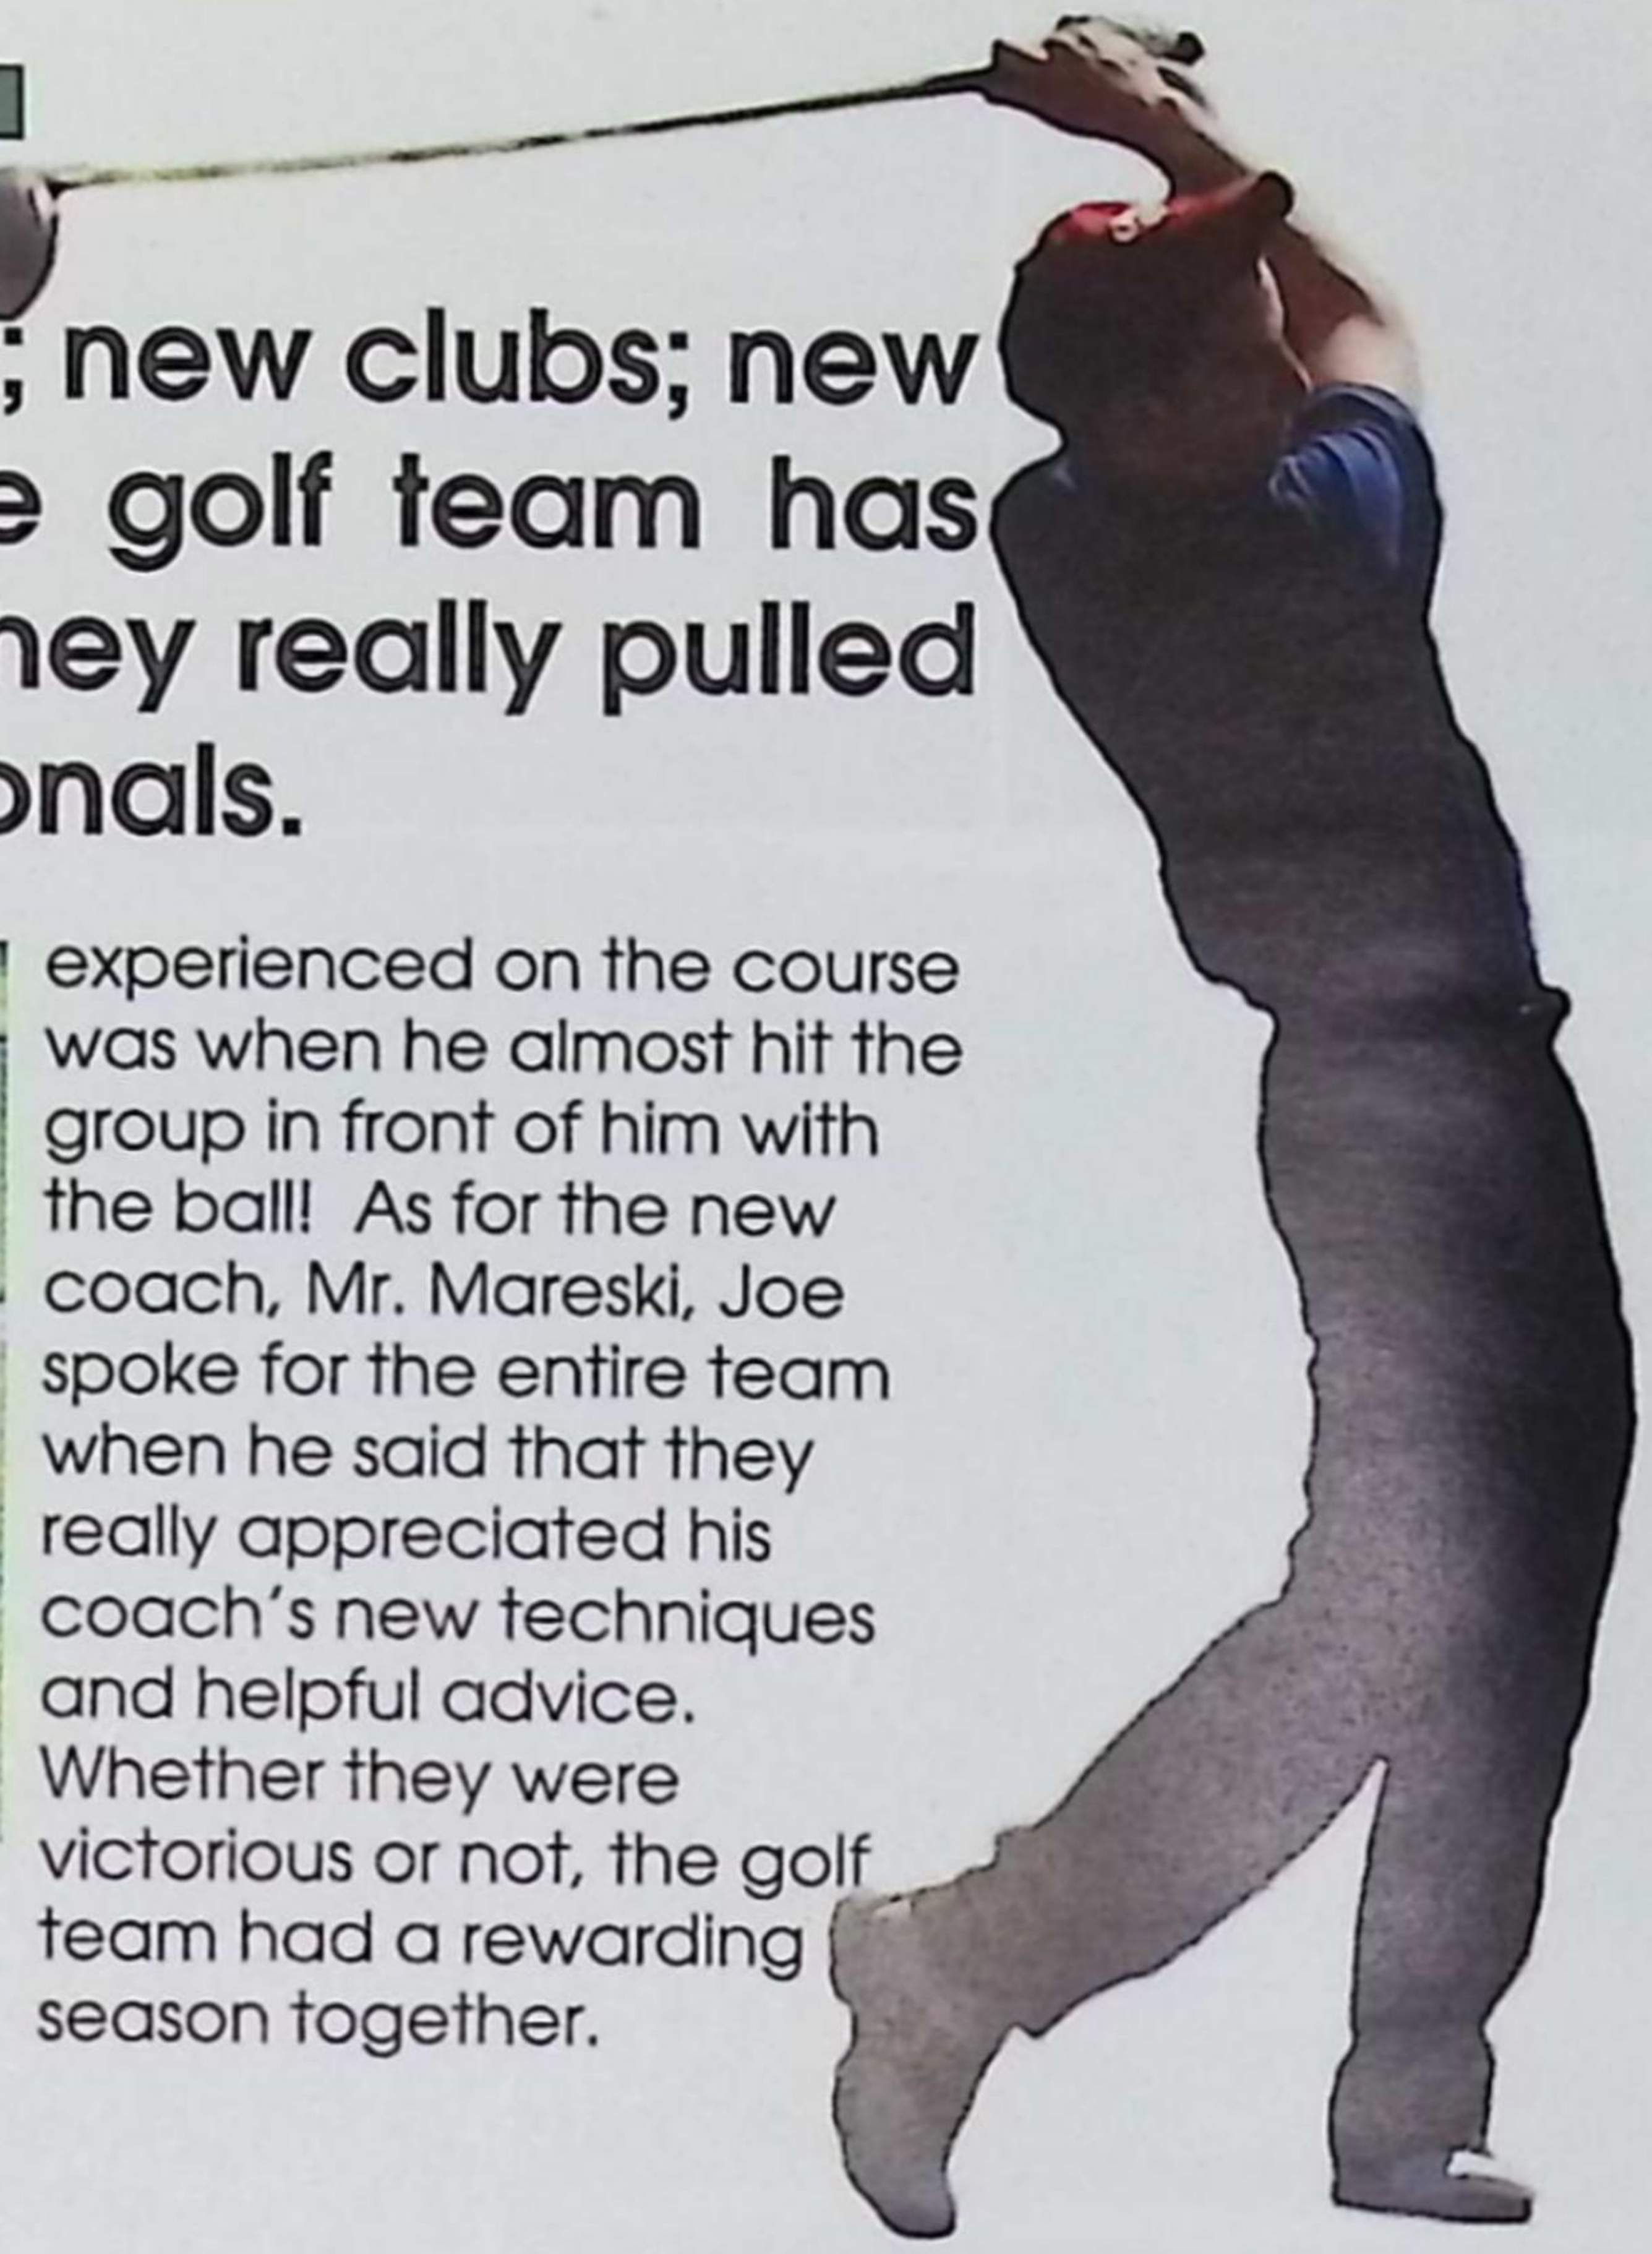
New season; new coach; new players; new clubs; new drive to become a closer team. The golf team has experienced a few close losses, but they really pulled through to make it all the way to regionals.

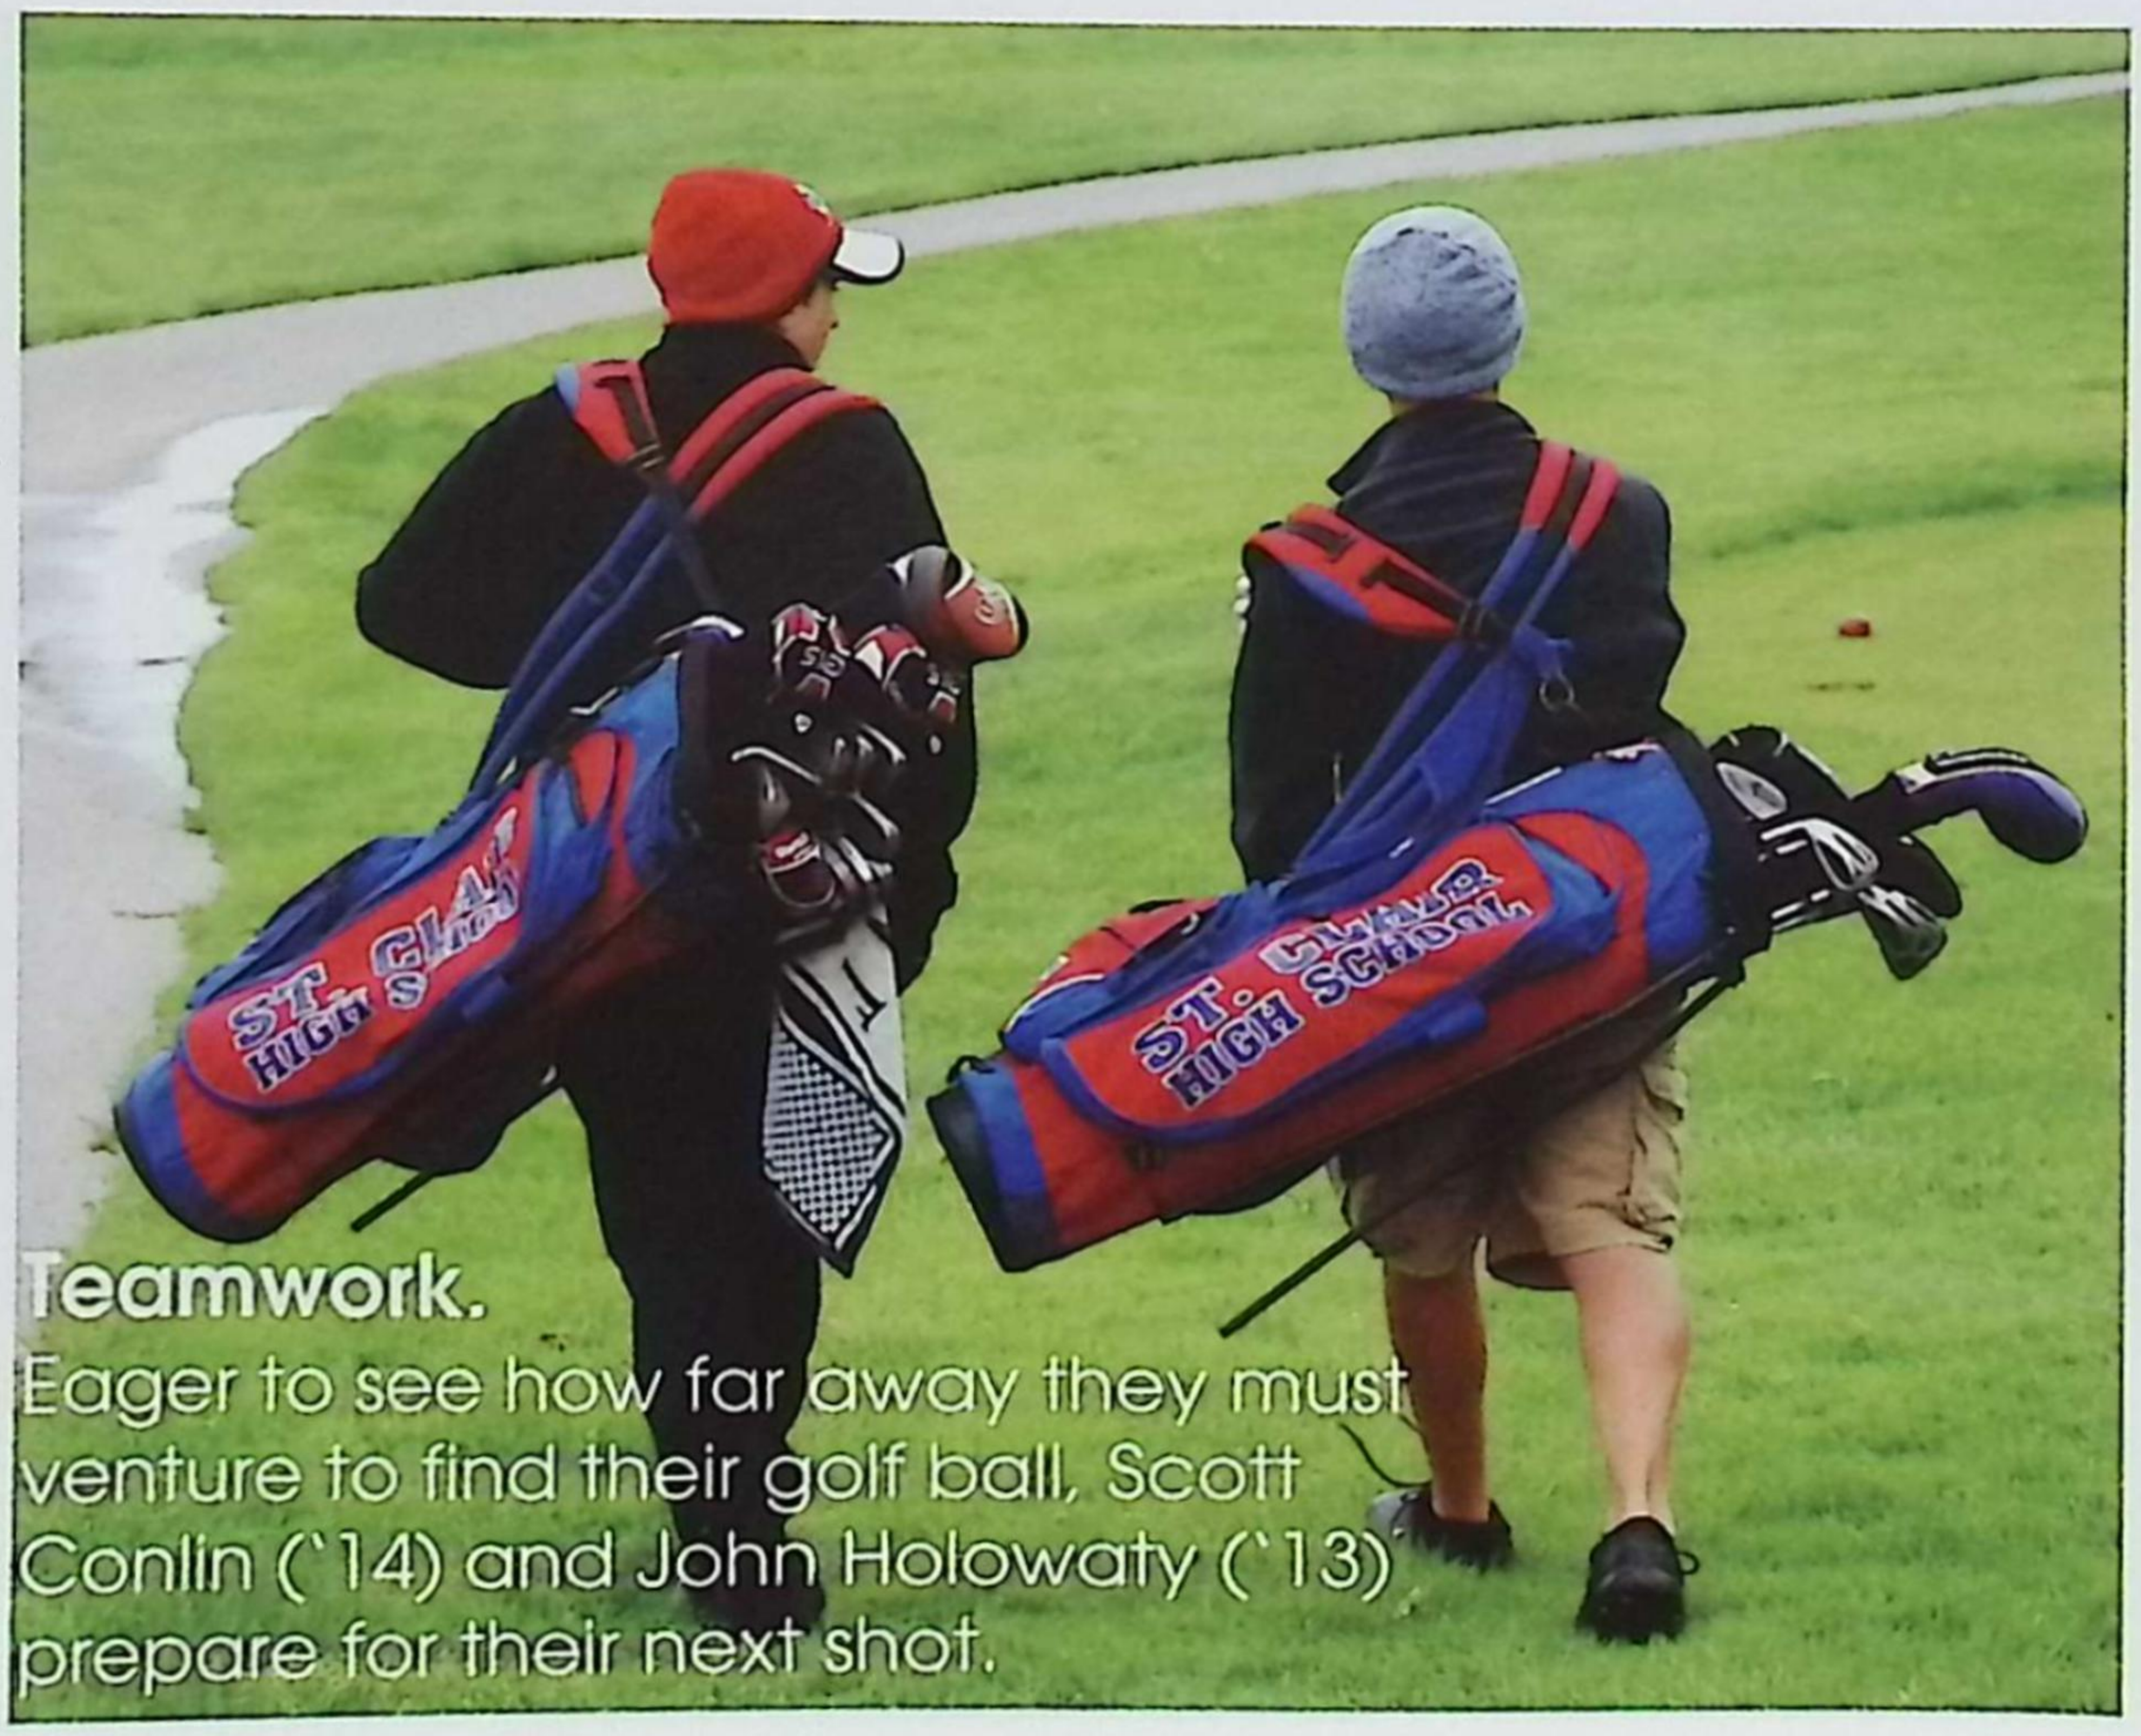


The golf team competed in a total of 10 matches this season, and there were 18 players on the team. One of the team members, Joseph Simonetta ('12), has been playing golf for Saint Clair High School for 2 years. With diligent practice and dedication, Joe achieved his best score of 40 during a match against Chippewa Valley High School. On being asked about his favorite part of the season, Joe says," going to all of the matches and playing on the different courses with one of my partners and teammate, Eric Hudolin ('12)". The funniest moment that he experienced on the course was when he almost hit the group in front of him with the ball! As for the new coach, Mr. Mareski, Joe spoke for the entire team when he said that they really appreciated his coach's new techniques and helpful advice. Whether they were victorious or not, the golf team had a rewarding season together.

What's your secret to a perfect game?

"I don't get frustrated if practice didn't go so well, and I give praise to the Dalai Lama."
- Mitchell Westrick ('13)

"I work on my putting at practice and before the match to make my shots more accurate."
- Jarred Likins ('14)



Teamwork. Eager to see how far away they must venture to find their golf ball, Scott Conlin ('14) and John Holowaty ('13) prepare for their next shot.

2. On an oddly chilly day in May, Elizabeth Barrett ('14) and Ian Wendt ('12) wait for their turns to tee off at a home match.
3. Showing good sportsmanship, Benjamin Edwards ('13) shakes hands with his competitor before the match begins.
4. Brandon Wojciechowski ('13) watches intently to see how far he has just shot the ball, hoping for a low score in favor of his team.
5. Demonstrating good follow through on his swing, Scott Conlin ('14) plays well at his home match against Chippewa Valley High School.

Every sport brings a group of people together like a family, but tennis allows each person to feel like an individual which brings a love of the sport into play.

Some athletes may love the idea of being a part of a team where others avoid them for that reason. Tennis is the best of both worlds; it is a sport that allows you to play individually, as well as experiencing what it means to be on a team. Many love tennis for that reason, including tennis player Bridget Kutsche ('14) who explains "I like it because you can showcase your individual talents but you are contributing to a team which makes you feel like a part of something bigger than yourself." This is what makes the girls varsity tennis team unique; it allows all the players to feel like individuals and still be a part of a team. In the end all of that team work paid off because the girls varsity tennis team won regionals with flying colors and attended states for the 20th consecutive season. Their hard work paid off by placing 6th at states.

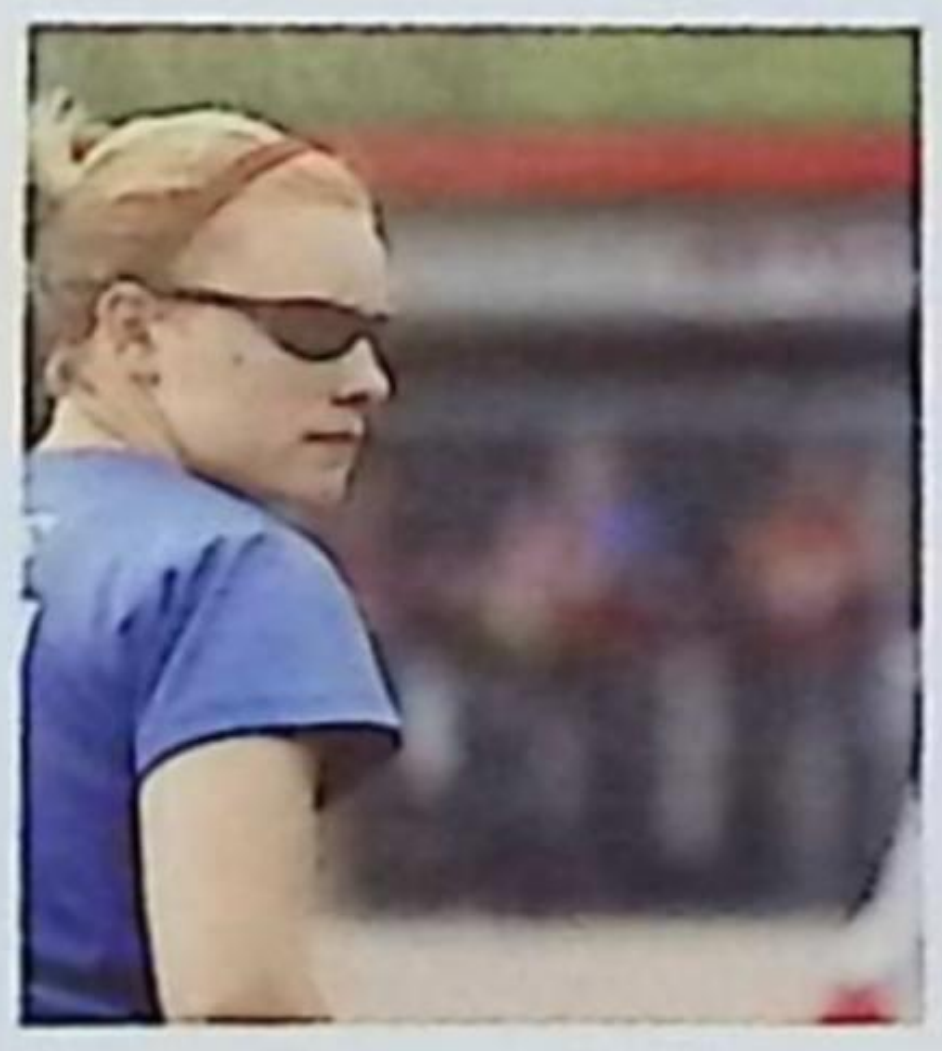
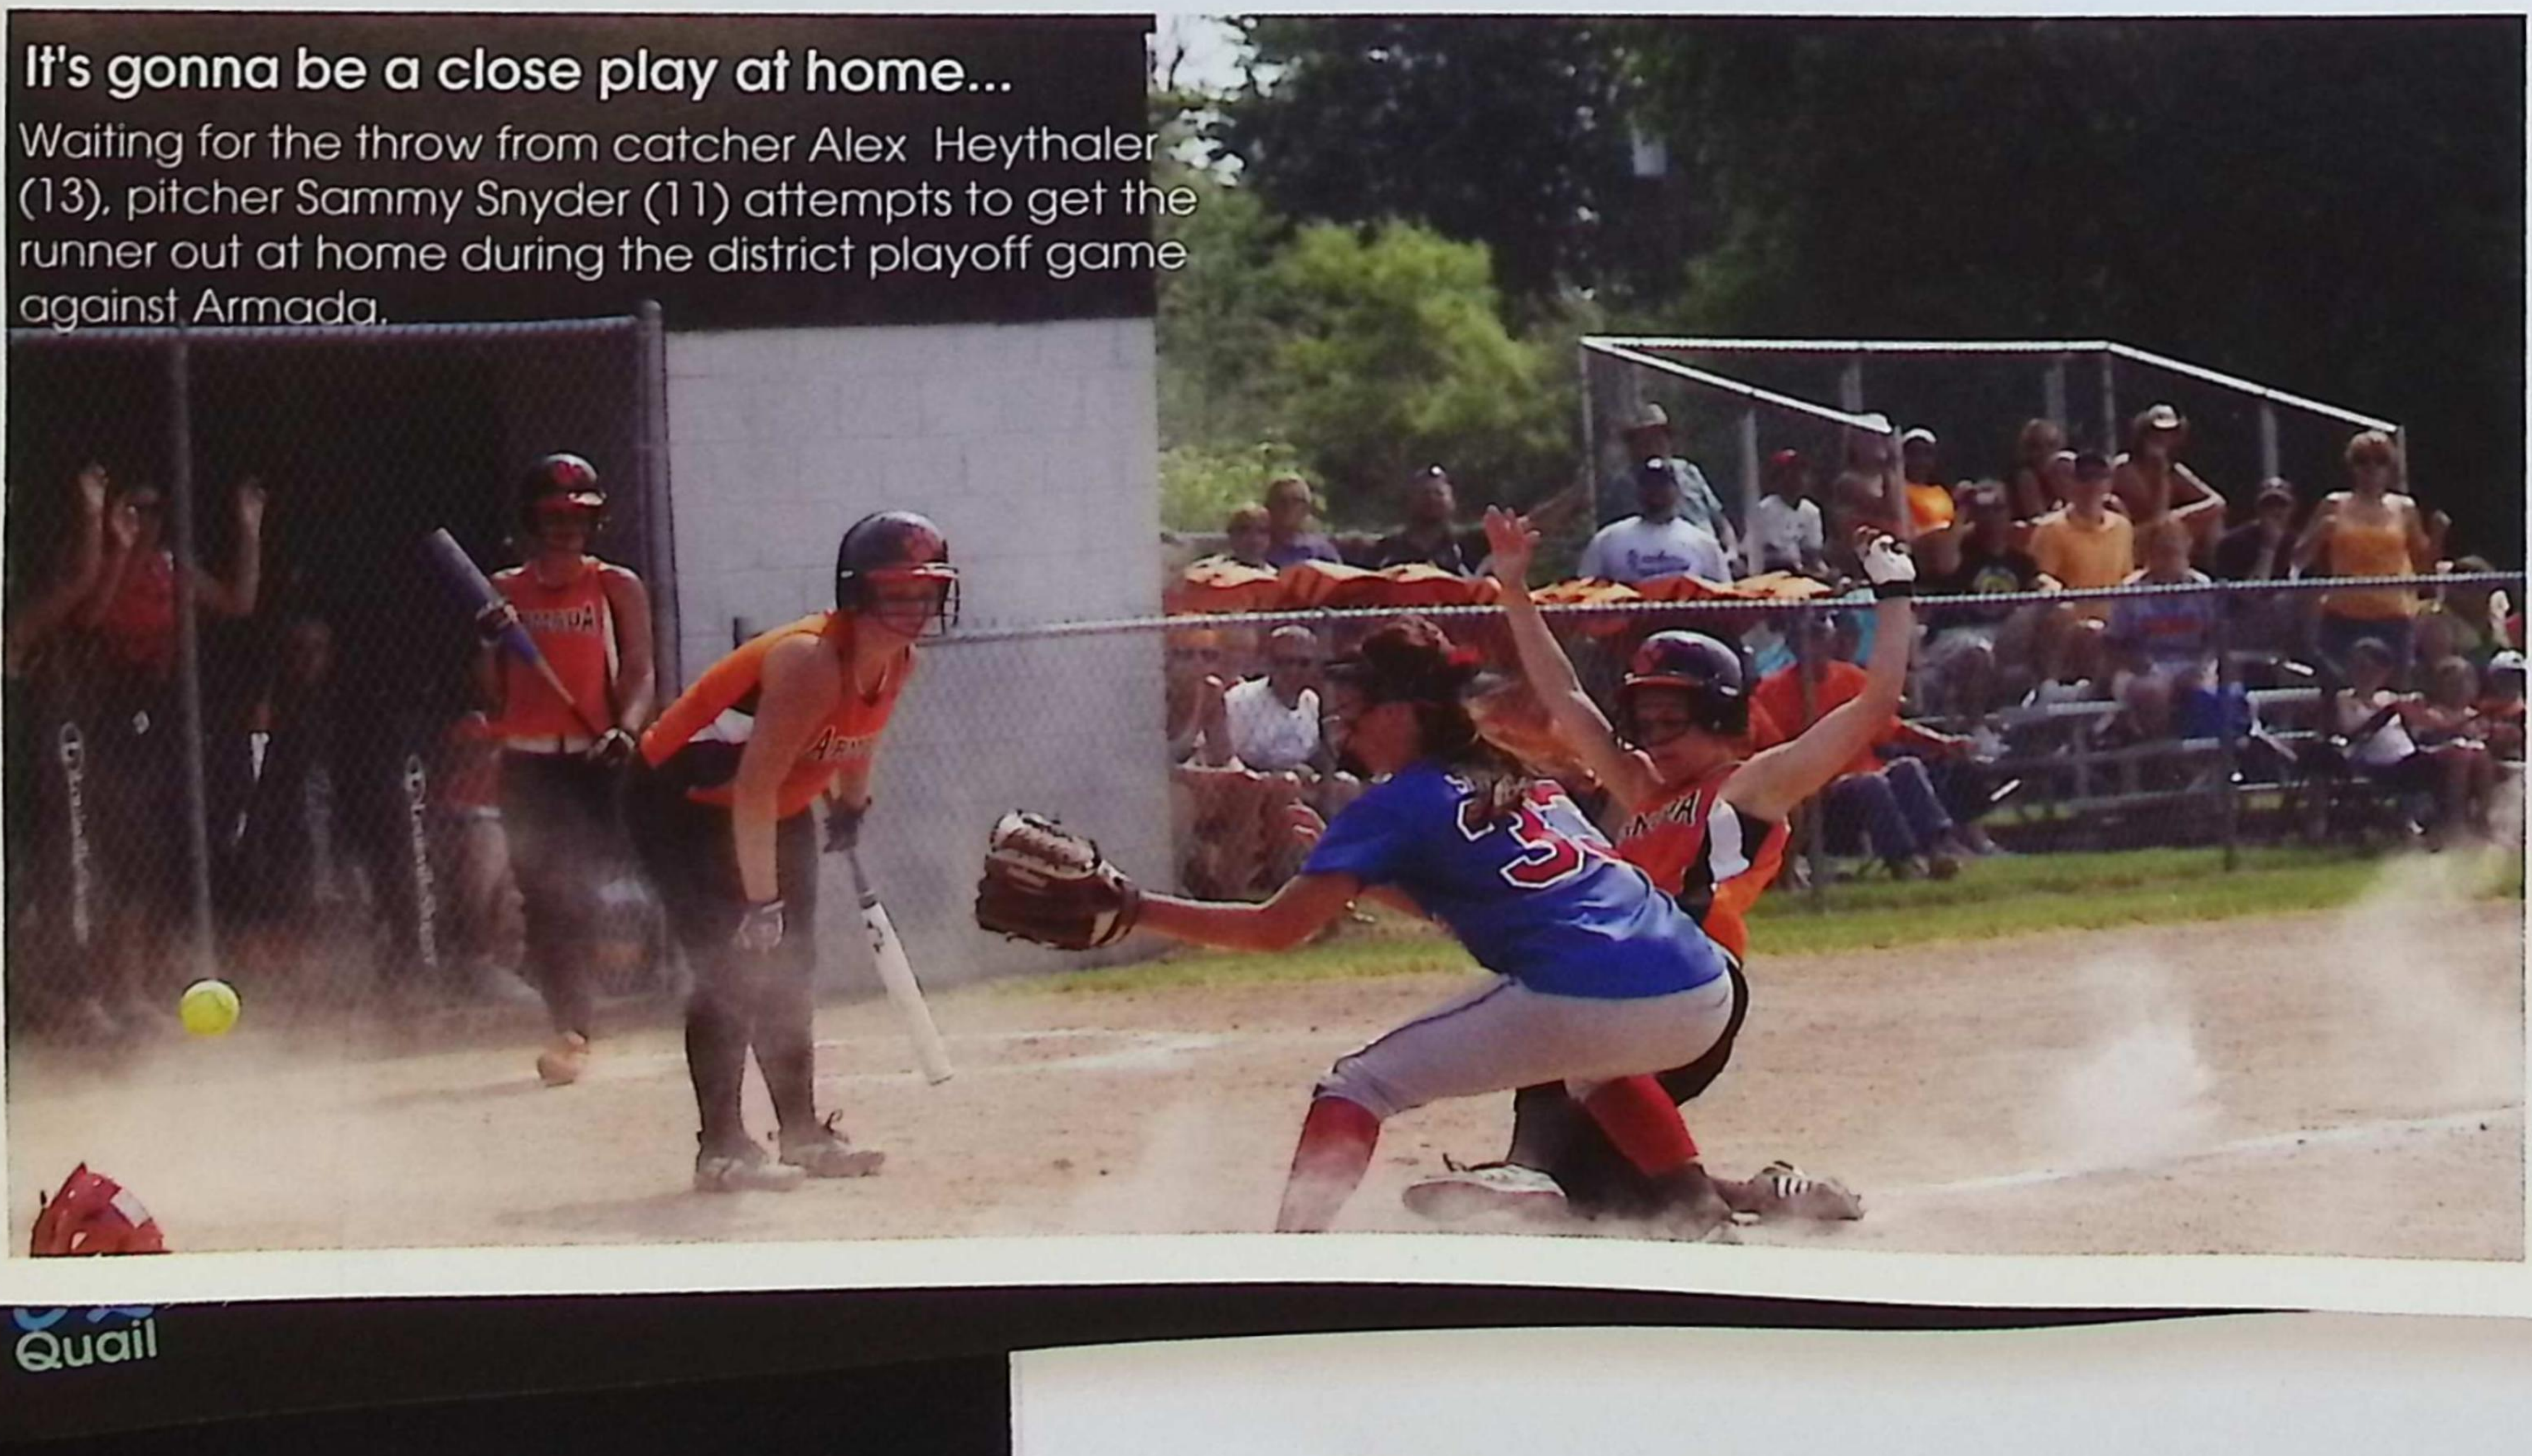
This year the girls' varsity softball team had one rival they just couldn't seem to beat: Mother Nature. A force to be reckoned with; however, the girls practiced rain or shine, and worked tirelessly to ensure every game was rescheduled and every opportunity for practice was taken advantage of. With perseverance on their side, even the elements had met their match with this incredible team. Under the direction of Coach Kevin Mahn, the girls refused to let Mother Nature rain on their parade—and proved to their school and community that, though they're sweet, they're not sugar; they won't melt!





It's gonna be a close play at home...

When these boys lace up their cleats and step out onto the freshly chalked diamond, with war paint streaked under their serious eyes, everyone knows that they are out for a win. They pour their hearts into every practice, game, and tournament, and it shows. With a record of 33-1, they proved that hard work truly does pay off. Their hard work took them all the way to the finals in Battle Creek, Michigan where everyone contributed to the win that gave these boys the title of State Champions. They have played together from the time they were twelve and all those years their goal was to be number one. Put in in the books, that the goal was achieved this year on June 18th, 2011 with a 4-1 victory over Grand Rapids Christian.

The freshmen baseball team had a truly superb season this year. Of course, they were all newcomers but they fit in well and kept the reputation of St. Clair High School baseball alive. Proudly displaying the royal blue with bats in their hands, they showed up to every game with confidence. Although many games were cancelled this spring because of the weather, in the games that they did play every single player contributed to the team's improvement. This season, the team dazzled fans, coaches, and players alike with their numerous home runs and victorious games against some of the toughest teams in the area. Coach Schweihofer is proud to have coached such a team. These boys had a fabulous season and are ready to dominate again next year.

The 2010-2011 soccer season marked the first year that the Lady Saints have had a JV soccer team. The girls started the season with a bang and continued the intensity throughout. With constant conditioning and tough practices, the girls were able to improve greatly and achieve many team goals. Throughout all of the muddy practices, difficult "pug-runs", and freezing cold games; the girls toughed it out and perfected their skills, resulting in an overall successful season. The scoreboard certainly reflected this, as well as the incredible bond formed between the girls, despite the varied experience levels. When asked about their success, manager Zach Takacs said, "From day one they have worked hard and I am very proud that they've improved so much." The Lady Saints definitely made their mark, creating a new tradition.

Saint Clair High School's girls' JV tennis team accomplished a lot this year. Despite all of the game cancellations and missed opportunities to practice because of the numerous storms this spring, the team had a very productive season. Even though they had a few setbacks due to crazy mother nature, the team had plenty of success on the courts, and most players made significant personal gains during the season. Lacey Rickman ('14) says that she "became more confident" in herself and "gained new tennis skills during every match." Each personal gain helped the team win some matches and grow closer to one another throughout the season.
